PREFACE

This fourth cumulative supplement to the 1967 edition of the District of Columbia Code, containing the additions to and changes in the general and permanent laws relating to or in force in the District of Columbia (except such laws as are of application in the District of Columbia by reason of being general and permanent laws of the United States), enacted during the Ninetieth and the Ninety-First Congresses, has been prepared and published by the Committee on the Judiciary of the House of Representatives under authority of Sections 202 and 203 of Title 1, United States Code. This supplement, together with the 1967 edition, contains the laws of the District of Columbia enacted through the end of the Ninety-First Congress.

The 1967 edition of the Code was completely annotated with notes to decisions of the courts affecting the respective sections of the Code. These notes have been brought up to the indicated pages in the following reports:

91 Sup. Ct. 380, 433 F. 2d 1344, 318 F. Supp. 1336, 271 A. 2d 712.

An important and extremely useful improvement introduced for the first time in the first Supplement is a cross-reference note following each section that is referred to in another section, indicating the section that refers to it.

The Committee gratefully acknowledges the assistance of Joseph Fischer, Law Revision Counsel, and Edward F. Willett, Jr., Assistant Law Revision Counsel, of the Committee, and of all others who have helped in the preparation of this supplement.

The Committee again invites suggestions and criticisms by users of the Code.

REORGANIZATION PLAN NO. 3, 1967

Reorganization Plan No. 3, 1967, effective August 11, 1967, abolished the existing three-commissioner form of government and established in its place a single commissioner and a nine-man council form of government. For details, see the Plan set out in its entirety in the appendix to title 1.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

ARTICLE [XXV]

SECTION 1. In case of the removal of the President from office or of his death or resignation, the Vice President shall become President.

SEC. 2. Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the Vice President, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both Houses of Congress.

SEC. 3. Whenever the President transmits to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, such powers and duties shall be discharged by the Vice President as Acting President.

SEC. 4. Whenever the Vice President and a majority of either the principal officers of the executive departments or of such other body as Congress may by law provide, transmit to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives their written declaration that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the Vice President shall immediately assume the powers and duties of the office as Acting President.

Thereafter, when the President transmits to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives his written declaration that no inability exists, he shall resume the powers and duties of his office unless the Vice President and a majority of either the principal officers of the executive department or of such other body as Congress may by law provide, transmit within four days to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives their written declaration that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office. Thereupon Congress shall decide the issue, assembling within forty-eight hours for that purpose if not in session. If the Congress, within twenty-one days after receipt of the latter written declaration, or, if Congress is not in session, within twenty-one days after Congress is required to assemble, determines by two-thirds vote of both Houses that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the Vice President shall continue to discharge the same as Acting President; otherwise, the President shall resume the powers and duties of his office.

(f) The Commission may secure directly from any department, bureau, agency, board, commission, office, independent establishment, or instrumentality of the District of Columbia information, suggestions, estimates, and statistics for the purpose of this title; and each such department, bureau, agency, board, commission, office, establishment, or instrumentality shall furnish such information, suggestions, estimates, and statistics directly to the Commission, upon request by the Chairman or Vice Chairman.

TRANSFER OF PERSONNEL AND PROPERTY TO NEW DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA GOVERNMENT

Sections 304 and 502 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective August 11, 1967, and November 3, 1967, respectively, provide:

"SEC. 304. Transfer of personnel, property, records, and funds. With respect to personnel, property, records, and unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations and other funds, available or to be made available, relating to functions transferred by the provisions of this reorganization plan, the Commissioner may from time to time effect such transfers between the agencies of the Corporation (including transfers between the Commissioner and any other agency of the Corporation) as he may deem necessary in order to carry out the provisions of this reorganization plan.

"SEC. 502. Incidental transfers. (a) The personnel, property, records, and unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations and other funds employed, used, held, available, or to be made available in connection with the offices of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia or in connection with the offices of the commissioners composing that Board shall be transferred as follows at such time or times as the Director of the Bureau of the Budget shall direct:

"(1) So much thereof as the Director of the Bureau of the Budget shall determine to relate primarily to functions transferred to the District of Columbia Council by the provisions of this reorganization plan shall be transferred to that Council.

"(2) All other thereof shall be transferred to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

"(b) Such further measures and dispositions as the Director of the Bureau of the Budget shall deem to be necessary in order to effectuate the transfers referred to in subsection (a) of this section shall be carried out in such manner as he shall direct and by such agencies as he shall designate.

"(c) Unless and until other provision is made in pursuance of section 304 of this reorganization plan or by law, personnel, property, records, and unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations, and other funds which are now under the jurisdiction of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia and are not affected by the provisions of subsection (a) of this section shall continue to be attached to or available for the several agencies of the Corporation."

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

Section 401 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred functions of the Board of Commissioners, including functions of the President of the Board and all functions of each other member of the Board, including the executive power vested therein, to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, except as provided by other sections of the Reorganization Plan. For provisions establishing the office of Commissioner of the District of Columbia and abolishing the Board of Commissioners, see sections 301 and 503 of the Plan, set out in the appendix to this title.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Court Orders, as Binding on District's Officers and Employees

The District of Columbia is a municipal corporation, and it is black-letter law that injunctions against a corporation can bind its officers, agents and employees who have notice of the order. D. Morrow v. District of Columbia and In re Alexander, Judge etc. (1969, 417 F. 2d 728, 135 U.S. App. D.C. 160, rev'g and remanding 243 A. 2d 901).

The police agents of the District of Columbia arrested this defendant, the District's corporation counsel prosecuted the defendant in the name of the District, and the court could properly issue orders against the District regarding the record of defendant's arrest, and the court's order, to be effective, could properly run against the District's Police Department which was given notice of the order. Id.

§ 1–103. Commissioners made officers of corporation.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS AS OFFICERS OF THE CORPORATION

Section 405 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, provides:

"The functions of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia with respect to being officers of the Corporation under D.C. Code, sec. 1–103 are hereby transferred to the members of the District of Columbia Council and to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia in such manner as to accord with the transfers of functions to the Council and the Commissioner, respectively, as effected by the provisions of the foregoing sections of Part IV of this reorganization plan."

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

Section 401 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred functions of the Board of Commissioners, including functions of the President of the Board and all functions of each other member of the Board, including the executive power vested therein, to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, except as provided by other sections of the Reorganization Plan. For provisions establishing the office of Commissioner of the District of Columbia and abolishing the Board of Commissioners, see sections 301 and 503 of the Plan, set out in the appendix to this title.

PRESIDENTIAL EXECUTIVE ORDER 11379

DESIGNATING OFFICIALS TO ACT AS COMMISSIONER OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Ex. Ord. No. 11379, Nov. 8, 1967, 32 F.R. 15625, provided:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 301(d) of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967 (32 F.R. 11671), it is ordered that the following-designated officials of the District of Columbia shall, in the order of succession indicated, act as Commissioner of the District of Columbia during the absence from duty or disability of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia or in the event of a vacancy in the office of Commissioner:

"(1) The Assistant to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia provided for in section 302 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967.

"(2) The Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia."

ABOLISHMENT OF BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

Section 503 (a) and (b) of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, provides:

"(a) Without prejudice to the continuation of the Corporation, there is hereby abolished the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

"(b) The abolition effected by subsection (a) of this section includes the abolition of the office held by an officer of the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army as the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia (10 U.S.C. 3534(a); D.C. Code, sec. 1–201) and the two other offices of Commissioner of the District of Columbia, but nothing in this reorganization plan shall preclude the detail by the President of not more than three officers assigned to the Corps of Engineers to assist the Commissioner of the District of Columbia in discharging his duties (10 U.S.C. 3534(b); D.C. Code, sec. 1–212)."

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

Section 401 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred functions of the Board of Commissioners, including functions of the President of the Board and all functions of each other member of the Board, including the executive power vested therein, to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, except as provided by other sections of the Reorganization Plan. For provisions establishing the office of Commissioner of the District of Columbia and abolishing the Board of Commissioners, see sections 301 and 503 of the Plan, set out in the appendix to this title.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

Federal District Court denied a request for convening of three-judge court in action to have certain statutes which vested executive and legislative power over the government of the District of Columbia in the defendants declared to be in conflict with the Ninth, Tenth, and Fifteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution, and for injunction to restrain enforcement of certain statutes which purport to authorize the defendants to exercise specified executive and legislative powers, where claims of unconstitutionality were insubstantial. D. Carliner et al. v. Board of Commissioners etc., et al. (1967, 265 F. Supp. 736).

Motivation of particular legislators does not make a statute valid or invalid. Id.

Construction

Since under reorganization of government of District of Columbia, a single commissioner was assigned executive functions while council was assigned quasi-legislative functions and, under former law, both functions had been exercised by three-member board of commissioners, 1 U.S.C. 1 providing that, in determining meaning of act, words imparting plural include singular is not applicable to permit prosecution under section 22–702 prohibiting receiving money for procuring any office or promotion from the commissioners of District of Columbia. United States v. T. W. Bishton (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 139).

Since there was not a single commissioner of District of Columbia as provided by government reorganization when section 22–702 was drafted prohibiting receiving money for procuring any office or promotion from commissioners of District of Columbia, defendant cannot be prosecuted under section 22–702 which had not been amended to conform to change to single commissioner by the reorganization. Id.

Section, act Dec. 24, 1890, J. Res. 7 (last sentence), 26 Stat. 1113, provided that Engineer Commissioner may be designated from rank of captain or above, and was superseded by 10 U.S.C. 3534 as enacted Aug. 10, 1956.

§ 1–203. Repealed. Aug. 10, 1956, ch. 1041, § 53, 70A Stat. 646.

Section, act June 11, 1878, ch. 180, § 2 (2d sentence), 20 Stat. 103, provided that the Engineer Commissioner shall not be required to perform any other duty, and was superseded by 10 U.S.C. 3534 as enacted Aug. 10, 1956.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Since under reorganization of government of District of Columbia, a single commissioner was assigned executive functions while council was assigned quasi-legislative functions and, under former law, both functions had been exercised by three-member board of commissioners, 1 U.S.C. 1 providing that, in determining meaning of act, words imparting plural include singular is not applicable to permit prosecution under section 22–702 prohibiting receiving money for procuring any office or promotion from the commissioners of District of Columbia. United States v. T. W. Bishton (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 139).

Since there was not a single commissioner of District of Columbia as provided by government reorganization when section 22–702 was drafted prohibiting receiving money for procuring any office or promotion from commissioners of District of Columbia, defendant cannot be prosecuted under section 22–702 which had not been amended to conform to change to single commissioner by the reorganization. Id.

ABOLISHMENT OF BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

Section 503(a) and (b) of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, provides:

"(a) Without prejudice to the continuation of the Corporation, there is hereby abolished the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

"(b) The abolition effected by subsection (a) of this section includes the abolition of the office held by an officer of the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army as the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia (10 U.S.C. 3534(a); D.C. Code, sec. 1–201) and the two other offices of Commissioner of the District of Columbia, but nothing in this reorganization plan shall preclude the detail by the President of not more than three officers assigned to the Corps of Engineers to assist the Commissioner of the District of Columbia in discharging his duties (10 U.S.C. 3534(b); D.C. Code, sec. 1–212)."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Authority to promulgate curfew

Where city was overcome with rioting, burning and looting Commissioner of District of Columbia had statutory authority to promulgate curfew from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 the next morning, barring all persons from streets of District of Columbia except police, firemen, medical personnel and district sanitary engineers, without express enabling legislation by Congress. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 556).

A determination by Commissioner that an emergency situation existed, a curfew barring all persons from streets of District of Columbia except police, firemen, medical personnel and district sanitary engineers from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 the next morning was a reasonable police regulation and that the curfew was necessary to protect persons and property, and federal troops were entering the city to combat sudden and rampant rioting, looting and burning, which were producing material discomfort to the citizens. Id.

Since curfew had become a usual device employed by municipalities to quell riots, curfew imposed on District of Columbia from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 the next morning, barring all persons from the streets except police, firemen, medical personnel and district sanitary engineers, was a usual police regulation within scope of statute authorizing District Commissioner to make reasonable and usual police regulations. Id.

Commissioner's authority to issue curfew

A statute empowering Commissioner of District of Columbia to make and enforce all reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for protection of persons and property was adequate authority for Commissioner to issue curfew barring all persons from streets in District during specified hours except law enforcement officers, firemen, physicians and nurses, and medical personnel and employees of department of sanitary engineering when city suddenly became rampant with rioting, looting and burning. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 457).

Commissioner had authority to issue a curfew barring all persons from streets in District of Columbia during certain hours except law enforcement officers, firemen, physicians and nurses, and medical personnel and employees of department of sanitary engineering when city suddenly became rampant with rioting, looting and burning and it was a "reasonable and usual police regulation" within statute empowering Commissioner of District of Columbia to make and enforce all reasonable and usual police regulations. Id.

Constitutionality

Issuance of a curfew barring all persons from streets of District of Columbia from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. the next day, except police, firemen, medical personnel and district sanitary engineers was not an unreasonable abridgement of defendant's constitutional rights of free travel, speech and assembly where city had suddenly become rampant with rioting, looting and burning, federal troops were entering the city to combat the widespread disturbances, and citizens were suffering material discomfort. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 556).

Constitutionality of curfew

Where situation at time of imposition of curfew had deteriorated to a point where city had requested and received federal troops to cope with widespread fires and looting, and unlimited travel within city would have materially and directly interfered with safety and welfare of citizens of city, issuance of a curfew banning all persons from streets other than law enforcement officers, firemen, physicians, nurses and medical personnel and employees of district department of sanitary engineering was not an unconstitutional abridgement of freedom to travel. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d. 457).

Constitutionality of regulations

There is a strong presumption of constitutionality afforded to regulations regulating businesses under police power in interest of public safety, and one attacking such regulations on due process grounds carries the heavy burden of showing that the regulation is unreasonable and has no rational relationship to objective sought to be obtained. F. R. Vanderhoof v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 112).

Duties of Appellate Court

It was the duty of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, in reviewing conviction for violation of curfew which severely restricted activities of citizen in city imposed by Commissioner, as authorized by statute, when city suddenly became rampant with rioting, looting and burning, to be certain that restrictions were not more stringent than necessary to restore and assure peace and order in community. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 457).

In reviewing conviction for violating curfew, the court would ordinarily consider availability of other governmental responses to end disorder yet place fewer restrictions on travel, free speech and assembly, but where there was no substantive body of knowledge with regard to how to deal with civil disorder once it reached emergency stage, court would confine review to question of whether curfew was so extensive as to geographical area and so unreasonable as to time and as to the elements of the citizenry which it affected as to require determination of unconstitutionality. Id.

Notice of curfew

It is improper to proclaim a District of Columbia police regulation and arrest a person for violating it without affording a reasonable period of time for notice. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 556).

Defendant's arrest for violation of curfew was not unlawful for lack of notice of imposition of curfew where he was arrested more than three hours after curfew had been announced and the record did not suggest that he did not know and could not have known of curfew. Id.

Where arrest took place more than three hours after curfew had been announced, and there was nothing to suggest that he did not know or could not have known of existence of curfew, defendant's arrest would not be invalidated for lack of notice even though curfew was announced 15 minutes before it took effect. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 457).

Penalty provisions

A curfew imposed upon District of Columbia was not invalid for failure to state which of several possible penalty provisions would be basis of punishment for violation and for leaving to courts the task of fixing the penalty in each case where curfew was a police regulation and police regulations provided that violation of a regulation wherein penalty was not specifically provided would be punished by fine of not more than $300. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 556).

A fine of $12 imposed upon defendant for violation of curfew was within discretion of sentencing court under regulation permitting maximum penalty of a $300 fine. Id.

Proclamation of penalties for violation of curfew

Where curfew proclaimed that violations thereof would be punished as misdemeanors and that there was no statute fixing penalties for misdemeanor, did not render curfew void because it failed to state which of several possible penal provisions would be basis of punishment in view of police regulation providing that where penalty is not specified, person convicted of violating a regulation shall be punished by fine of not more than $300. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 457).

Reasonableness of curfew

Inasmuch as disturbances throughout scattered areas of District of Columbia were without discernible pattern, and city officials could not predict with any certainty where new disturbances would next occur, application of curfew to entire District of Columbia was not unreasonable. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 457).

Since more serious disturbances had occurred at night, curfew imposed from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. on following morning was not unreasonable as to defendant who was arrested for violating curfew at 8:45 p.m. on first night of curfew. Id.

Sentences for violation of curfew

The probability of different sentences being imposed by different courts for violating curfew would not invalidate sentence so long as defendant was not punished in excess of penalty provided for by police regulations. P. Glover v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 457).

The kind of sentence to be imposed following conviction for violation of curfew was within discretion of sentencing court, as long as it did not exceed penalty provided by police regulations. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement of prime contract to bring suit against surety and thereafter subcontractor creditors may bring suit in name of District is to be liberally construed in aid of the public object of providing security to those who contribute labor or material for public works. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company, Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

Under statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement to bring suit against surety and thereafter subcontractor creditors may bring suit in name of District, where rights of subcontractors are attempted to be asserted before statute recognizes they have matured and consequent effect is to prevent orderly and effective disposition of all claims and to impede work of court, strict regard for statutory provisions authorizing suit and governing creation of jurisdiction is essential. Id.

Dismissal of complaint

Under statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement of prime contract to bring suit against surety and thereafter subcontractor creditors may bring suit in name of District and providing that when suit is instituted personal notice should be given to all known creditors in addition to notice by publication, where suit for labor and materials furnished pursuant to subcontract was filed about 15 months before final settlement and no notice was given to other creditors by either party, complaint would be dismissed without prejudice. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company, Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

District's responsibility

Under statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement of prime contract to bring suit against surety and thereafter subcontractor may bring suit in name of the District, District has responsibility to answer all questions from interested parties and to assist them when uncertainties arise as to dates of final settlement. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company, Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

Extent of proof required by materialmen

Section giving right of recovery to any person "who has furnished labor or materials used in the construction or repair of any public building or public work" is construed for purposes of recovery upon the bond in suit, to require only a showing that materials or equipment have, by reference to public contract, been furnished by subcontractor to general contractor and have been accepted by general contractor for use in that contract. The Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. v. Circle Equipment Co., et al. (1967, 377 F. 2d 160, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 275).

Issue of prematurity of suit

Under statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement of prime contract to bring suit against surety and thereafter subcontractor creditors may bring suit in name of District, issue of prematurity of suit by subcontractor should be raised by motion before trial unless extremely complicated factual issues as to date of completion or final settlement are presented. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company, Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

Jurisdiction of District Court

Under statute authorizing District of Columbia to bring suit within six months on contractor's bond, during which time unpaid creditors could intervene, and providing that if district did not bring suit within six months after final settlement under contract unpaid creditors could bring suit in district court in name of district, district court had jurisdiction of subcontractor's suit commenced within six-month period notwithstanding that suit was not brought during period by district, where contractor did not challenge subject matter jurisdiction until after expiration of six-month period, even though suit would have been subject to dismissal as prematurely brought if dismissal had been sought within six-month period. The Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. v. Circle Equipment Co., et al. (1967, 377 F. 2d 160, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 275).

Limitation on intervention

Under this section which required party having a claim against a contractor on school project to intervene in any pending action against contractor within one year after completion of the work and which required three weeks' published notice, the last publication to be at least three months before the time limited therefor, claims which were filed more than one year after final settlement but within time contemplated by notice provision were properly allowed. J. F. Hughes & Co. Inc. et ano. v. District of Columbia etc., et al. (1969, 413 F. 2d 376, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 102).

Materialmen supplying contractor building school were to have assistance of published notice in ascertaining whether suit had been filed in which they could intervene. Id.

Notice by publication

Under statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement of prime contract to bring suit against surety and thereafter subcontractor creditors may bring suit in name of the District and providing that when suit is instituted personal notice shall be given to all known creditors in addition to notice by publication, burden and expense of notice by publication should reasonably be borne by the plaintiff subcontractor. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company, Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

Obligation to give personal notice

Under statute providing that District of Columbia shall have six months from completion and final settlement to bring suit against surety and permitting subcontractor creditors to bring suit thereafter and providing that personal notice shall be given to all known creditors in addition to notice by publication, obligation to give personal notice is that of the prime contractor, and if such notice is not given, prime contractor should not be permitted to take advantage of the "one action" provision when later sued by subcontractor without actual notice. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company, Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

Statutory scheme

Statutory scheme for orderly procedure for prosecuting claims against surety on contract with District of Columbia can only be achieved if subcontractor claimants observe clear directive of statute and no suit is filed until six months after final settlement. District of Columbia for the use etc. v. Edrow Engineering Company Inc., et al. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 549).

Whenever the total amount payable by the terms of the contract shall be more than $5,000,000 the payment bond shall be in the sum of $2,500,000.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the authority of the Commissioners to require a performance bond or other security in addition to

The Board shall arrange the ballot of each political party in each such primary election so as to enable a voter of such party to vote for any one duly nominated candidate of that party for the office of Delegate.

(j)(1) A duly qualified candidate for the office of Delegate may, subject to the provisions of this subsection, be nominated directly as such a candidate for election in the next succeeding general election for such office (including any such election to be held to fill a vacancy). Such person shall be nominated by a petition (A) filed with the Board not less than forty-five days before the date of such general election; (B) signed by duly registered voters equal in number to 2 per centum of the total number of registered voters of the District, as shown by the records of the Board as of ninety-nine days before the date of such election, or by five thousand persons duly registered under section 1–1107, whichever is less; and (C) accompanied by a filing fee of $100. Such fee may be refunded only in the event that the candidate withdraws his nomination by writing received by the Board not later than three days after the date on which nominations are closed under this subsection. No signatures on such a petition may be counted which have been made on such petition more than ninety-nine days before the date of such election.

(2) Nominations under this subsection for candidates for election in a general election for the office of Delegate shall be of no force and effect with respect to any person whose name has appeared on the ballot of a primary election for such office held within eight months before the date of such general election.

(k) In each general election for the office of Delegate, the Board shall arrange the ballots so as to enable a voter to vote for any one of the candidates for such office who (1) has been duly elected by any political party in the next preceding primary or party runoff election for such office, (2) has been duly nominated to fill vacancies in such office pursuant to section 1–1110(d), or (3) has been nominated directly as a candidate under subsection (j) of this section.

(l) The signature of a registered voter on any petition filed with the Board and nominating a candidate for election in a primary or general election to any office shall not be counted if, after receipt of a timely challenge to such effect, the Board determines such voter also signed any other valid petition, filed earlier with the Board, and nominating the same or any other candidate for the same office in the same election.

(m) Designations of offices of local party committees to be filled by election pursuant to clause (3) of section 1–1101 shall be effected by written communications filed with the Board not later than ninety days before the date of such election.

(n)(1) Except in the case of the three members of the Board of Education elected at large, the members of the Board of Education shall be elected by the qualified electors of the respective wards of the District from which the members have been nominated.

(2) In the case of the three members of the Board of Education elected at large, each such member shall be elected by the qualified electors of the District.

(o) Each candidate in a general election for member of the Board of Education shall be nominated for such office by a petition (A) filed with the Board not later than forty-five days before the date of such general election; (B) signed by at least two hundred and fifty persons who are duly registered under section 1–1107 in the ward from which the candidate seeks election, or in the case of a candidate running at large, signed by at least one hundred and twenty-five persons in each ward of the District who are duly registered in such ward; and (C) accompanied by a filing fee of $100. Such fee may be refunded only in the event that the candidate withdraws his nomination by writing received by the Board not later than three days after the date on which nominations are closed. A nominating petition for a candidate in a general election for member of the Board of Education may not be circulated for signatures before the ninety-ninth day preceding the date of such election and may not be filed with the Board before the seventieth day preceding such date. The Board may prescribe rules with respect to the preparation and presentation of nominating petitions and the posting and disposition of filing fees. In a general election for members of the Board of Education, the Board shall arrange the ballots in each ward to enable a voter registered in that ward to vote for any one candidate duly nominated to be elected to such office from such ward, and to vote for as many candidates duly nominated for election at large to such office as there are Board of Education members to be elected at large in such election.

(p)(1) The Board is authorized to accept any nominating petition for a candidate for any office as bona fide with respect to the qualifications of the signatories thereto if the original or facsimile thereof has been posted in a suitable public place for the ten-day period beginning on the forty-second day before the date of the election for such office. Any qualified elector may within such ten-day period challenge the validity of any petition by a written statement duly signed by the challenger and filed with the Board and specifying concisely the alleged defects in such petition. Copy of such challenge shall be sent by the Board promptly to the person designated for the purpose in the nominating petition.

(2) The Board shall receive evidence in support of and in opposition to the challenge and shall determine the validity of the challenged nominating petition not more than eight days after the challenge has been filed. Within three days after announcement of the determination of the Board with respect to the validity of the nominating petition, either the challenger or any person named in the challenged petition as a nominee may apply to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals for a review of the reasonableness of such determination. The court shall expedite consideration of the matter and the decision of such court shall be final and not appealable.

(q) In any election, the order in which the names of the candidates for office appear on the ballot shall be determined by lot, upon a date or dates and under regulations prescribed by the Board. (As amended Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90–292, § 4(5), 82 Stat. 103; Sept. 22, 1970, Pub. L. 91–405, title II, § 203(b), 205(b), (e)(2), (f), 84 Stat. 849, 853, 854.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Scope of review

Since board of elections has undertaken to define and apply its own regulations, Court of Appeals is governed by prescribed reasonableness standard and cannot substitute its own judgment for reasonable board action. In re Challenge to Nominating Petitions of E. Haworth, E. M. Washington and F. M. McCoy (D.C. App. 1969, 258 A. 2d 447).

Congress having provided judicial review of action of District of Columbia Board of Elections, did not intend to permit Board to finally decide questions of law, and prescribed standard for review permitted Court of Appeals to determine such issues. Id.

Time limitation for determining validity of challenge

This section which provides that board of elections shall determine validity of challenges to nominating petitions not more than eight days after challenge has been filed is directory only, and where eighth day fell on Saturday and determination was postponed to following Monday, delay beyond the eight-day period did not deprive board of jurisdiction to rule upon pending challenges. In re Challenge to Nominating Petitions of E. Haworth, E. N. Washington and F. M. McCoy (D.C. App. 1969, 258 A. 2d 447).

Validity of petition

A candidate for election to board of education failed to qualify because a group of signatures on his nominating petition from one ward were invalid because signers were not registered in District of Columbia at time of signing, leaving petition with less than requisite 125 signatures from ward. In re Challenge to Nominating Petitions of E. Haworth, E. N. Washington and F. M. McCoy (D.C. App. 1969, 258 A. 2d 447).

Nominating petition of a candidate for board of education which was invalid because of lack of requisite number of valid signatures was not validated by list of additional names presented after filing. Id.

Validity of signatures

A candidate for board of education was required to file a nominating petition signed by at least 125 persons in each ward and petition contained some signatures of persons registered in District of Columbia and living in a designated ward who, by virtue of previous residence, were on rolls of another ward, filing of the petition constituted notice to board of elections of signers' changes of address, and signatures were properly counted as valid. In re Challenge to Nominating Petitions of E. Haworth, E. M. Washington and F. M. McCoy (D.C. App. 1969, 258 A. 2d 447).

A person who is not registered in District of Columbia when signing a petition could not validly sign nominating petition for candidate and then register after petition was filed with board of elections. Id.

§ 1–1109. Method of voting—Place—Watchers—Challenging of vote—Appeal from challenged ballots—Handicapped and absent voters—Voting in party elections—Election of unopposed candidates—Availability of regulations.

(a) Voting in all elections shall be secret.

(b) Except as otherwise provided by regulation of the Board, the vote of a person who is registered as a resident of the District shall be valid only if cast in the voting precint where the residence shown on his registration is located. The Board shall by regulation permit voting by any registered elector who is absent from the District or who, because of his physical condition, is unable to vote in person at the polling place in his voting precinct on election day.

(c) Any group of qualified electors interested in the outcome of an election may, not less than two weeks prior to such election, petition the Board for credentials authorizing watchers at one or more polling places at the next election during voting hours and until the count has been completed. The Board shall formulate rules and regulations not inconsistent with this chapter to prescribe the form of watchers' credentials, to govern the conduct of such watchers, and to limit the number of watchers so that the conduct of the election will not be unreasonably obstructed. Subject to such rules and regulations, watchers may challenge prospective voters whom the watchers believe to be unqualified to vote.

(d) If the official in charge of the polling place, after hearing both parties to any such challenge or acting on his own initiative with respect to a prospective voter, reasonably believes the prospective voter is unqualified to vote, he shall allow the voter to cast a paper ballot marked "challenged". Ballots so cast shall be segregated, and no such ballot shall be counted until the challenge has been removed as provided in subsection (e).

(e) If a person has been permitted to vote only by challenged ballot, such person, or any qualified candidate, may appeal to the Board within three days after election day. The Board shall decide within seven days after the appeal is perfected whether the voter was qualified to vote. If the appeal is denied, the appellant may within three days of such denial appeal to the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. The decision of such court shall be final and not appealable. If the Board decides that the voter was qualified to vote, the word "challenged" shall be striken from the voter's ballot and the ballot shall be treated as if it had not been challenged.

(f) If a qualified elector is unable to record his vote by marking the ballot or operating the voting machine an official of the polling place shall, on the request of the voter, enter the voting booth and comply with the voter's directions with respect to recording his vote. Upon the request of any such voter, a second official of the polling place shall also enter the voting booth and witness the recordation of the voter's directions. The official or officials shall in no way influence or attempt to influence the voter's decisions, and shall tell no one how the voter voted. The official in charge of the voting place shall make a return of all such voters, giving their names and disabilities.

(g) No person shall vote more than once in any election nor shall any person vote in a primary or party runoff election held by a political party other than that to which he has declared himself to be a member.

(h) In the event that the total number of candidates of one party nominated to an office or group of offices of that party pursuant to section 1–1108(a) or 1–1108(i) does not exceed the number of such offices to be filled, the Board may, prior to election day and, notwithstanding the provisions of section 1–1108(c) or 1–1108(i), declare the candidates so nominated to be elected without opposition, in which case the fact of their election pursuant to this paragraph shall appear for the information of the voters on any ballot prepared by the Board for their party for the election of other candidates in the same election.

(i) Copies of the regulations of the Board with respect to voting shall be made available to prospective voters at each polling place. (Aug. 12, 1955, 69 Stat. 702, ch. 862, § 9; Oct. 4, 1961, 75 Stat. 819, Pub. L. 87–389, § 1(14, 15, 16, 17); July 8, 1963, 77 Stat. 77, Pub. L. 88–60, § 1; Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. AMENDMENTS

1970—Subsec. (b). Section 205(c) of act Sept. 22, 1970, Pub. L. 91–405, amended subsec. (b) by striking out "The vote" and inserting in lieu thereof "Except as otherwise provided by regulation of the Board, the vote".

Subsec. (c). Section 205(g) of such act amended subsec. (c) to read as above set out.

Subsec. (f). Section 205(d) of such act amended subsec. (f) by striking out the first two sentences and inserting in lieu thereof three new sentences to read as above set out.

Subsec. (g). Section 205(l) of such act amended subsec. (g) to read as above set out.

Subsecs. (h)–(i). Section 205(h) of such act redesignated subsec. (h) as subsec. (i), and inserted a new subsec. (h) to read as above set out.

Section 155(a) of Act July 29, 1970. Public Law 91–358 amended subsec. (e) by striking out "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions," and inserting in lieu thereof "Superior Court of the District of Columbia."

1968—Section 4(6), act Apr. 22, 1967, Pub. L. 90–292, amended subsection (b) by striking out "for electors of President and Vice President"; and subsection (e) by striking "Municipal Court for the District of Columbia" and inserting "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions."

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 1–1114.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Absentee ballots

It was error for the board to refuse to count absentee ballots which were postmarked after election day which fell on November 4, inasmuch as absentee ballots were not mailed by the board of elections until November 2 together with instructions to voters that ballots must be returned by November 10 but without mention of requirement that ballots be postmarked on election day. T. F. Curtis v. J. E. Bindeman, et al., and C. I. Cassell (D.C. App. 1970, 261 A. 2d 515).

Construction

Section 1–1109 provision that vote shall be valid only if cast in voting precinct where residence shown on voter's registration is located should be liberally construed so as not to deny innocent voters their right to vote, or to upset an election for technical reasons. T. F. Curtis v. J. E. Bindeman, et al., and C. I. Cassell (D.C. App. 1970, 261 A. 2d 515).

The court held that it was not error to count ballots which were marked in voting precincts other than precincts in which voters resided where ballots were assigned to and counted by board as if they had actually been marked and deposited in voters' precinct and there were no instances of double voting. Id.

§ 1–1110. Dates for holding elections—Voting hours—Method of deciding tie votes—Naming successor to official who dies, resigns, or is unable to serve—Votes cast for President and Vice President to be counted as votes for presidential electors—Election of ward and at large members of Board of Education—Runoff elections—Filling of vacancies on Board of Education.

(a)(1) The elections of the officials referred to in clauses (1) and (2) of section 1–1101 and of officials designated pursuant to clause (3) of such section shall be held on the first Tuesday in May of each presidential election year.

(2) The electors of President and Vice President of the United States shall be elected on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in every fourth year succeeding every election of a President and Vice President of the United States. Each vote cast for a candidate for President or Vice President whose name appears on the general election ballot shall be counted as a vote cast for the candidates for presidential electors of the party supporting such presidential and vice presidential candidate. Candidates receiving the highest number of votes in such election shall be declared the winners, except that in the case of a tie it shall be resolved in the same manner as is provided in subsection (c) of this section.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in the case of special elections under this chapter or section 206(a) of the District of Columbia Delegate Act, primary elections of each political party for the office of Delegate to the House of Representatives shall be held on the first Tuesday in May of each even-numbered year; and general elections for such office shall be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November of each even-numbered year.

(4) Runoff elections shall be held whenever (A) in any primary election of a political party for candidates for the office of Delegate, no one candidate receives at least 40 per centum of the total votes cast in that election for all candidates of that party for that office, and (B) in any general election for the office of Delegate, no one candidate receives at least 40 per centum of the total votes cast in that election for all candidates for that office. Any such runoff election shall be held not less than two weeks nor more than six weeks after the date on which the Board has determined the results of the preceding primary or general election, as the case may be. At the time of announcing any such determination, the Board shall establish and announce the date on which the runoff election will be held, if one is required. The candidates in any such runoff election shall be the two persons who received, respectively, the two highest numbers of votes in such preceding primary or general election; except that if any person withdraws his candidacy from such runoff election (under the rules and within the time limits prescribed by the Board), the person who received the next highest number of votes in such preceding primary or general election and who is not already a candidate in the runoff election shall automatically become such a candidate.

(5) With respect to special elections required or authorized by this chapter, the Board may establish the dates on which such special elections are to be held and prescribe such other terms and conditions as may in the Board's opinion be necessary or appropriate for the conduct of such elections in a manner comparable to that prescribed for other elections held pursuant to this chapter.

(6) The first general election for members of the Board of Education shall be held on November 5, 1968, and thereafter on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November of each odd-numbered calendar year.

(7)(A) If in a general election for members of the Board of Education no candidate for the office of member from a ward, or no candidate for the office of member elected at large (where only one at-large position is being filled at such election), receives a majority of the votes validly cast for such office, a runoff election shall be held on the twenty-first day next following such election. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes in such runoff election shall be declared elected.

(B) When more than one office of member elected at large is being filled at such a general election, the candidates for such offices who receive the highest number of votes shall be declared elected, except that no candidate shall be declared elected who does not receive a majority of the number of all votes cast for candidates for election at large in such election divided by the number of at-large offices to be filled in such election. Where one or more of the at-large positions remains unfilled, a runoff election shall be held as provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, and the candidate or candidates receiving the highest number of votes in such runoff election shall be declared elected.

(C) Where a vacancy in an unexpired term for an at-large position is being filled at the same general election as one or more full term at-large positions, the successful candidate or candidates with the highest number of votes in the general election, or in the runoff election if a runoff election is necessary, shall be declared elected to the full term position or positions, provided that any candidate declared elected at the general election shall for this purpose be deemed to have received a higher number of votes than any candidate elected in the runoff election.

(D) The Board may resolve any tie vote occurring in an election governed by this paragraph by requiring the candidates receiving the tie vote to cast lots at such time and in such manner as the Board may prescribe.

(8) In the case of a runoff election for the office of member of the Board of Education elected at large, the candidates in such runoff election shall be those unsuccessful candidates, in number not more than one more than the number of such offices to be filled, who in the general election next preceding such runoff election received the highest number of votes less than a majority. In the case of a runoff election for the office of member of the Board of Education from a ward, the runoff election shall be held in such ward, and the two candidates who in the general election next preceding such runoff election received respectively the highest number and the second highest number of votes validly cast in such ward or who tied in receiving the highest number of such votes shall run in such runoff election. If in any case (other than the one described in the preceding sentence) a tie vote must be resolved to determine the candidates to run in any runoff election, the Board may resolve such tie vote by requiring the candidates receiving the tie vote to cast lots at such time and in such manner as the Board may prescribe.

(9) If any candidate withdraws (in accordance with such rules and time limits as the Board shall prescribe) from a runoff election held to select a member of the Board of Education or dies before the date of such election, the candidate who received the same number of votes in the general election next preceding such runoff election as a candidate in such runoff election or who received a number of votes in such general election which is next highest to the number of votes in such general election received by a candidate in the runoff election and who is not a candidate in such runoff election shall be a candidate in such runoff election. The resolution of any tie necessary to determine the candidate to fill the vacancy caused by such withdrawal or death shall be resolved by the Board in the same manner as ties are resolved under paragraph (8).

(b) All elections prescribed by this chapter shall be conducted by the Board in conformity with the provisions of this chapter. In all elections held pursuant to this chaper the polls shall be open from 8 o'clock antemeridian to 8 o'clock postmeridian. Candidates receiving the highest number of votes in elections held pursuant to this chapter, other than general elections for the office of Delegate and for members of the Board of Education, shall be declared the winners;

(c) In the case of a tie vote, the resolution of which will affect the outcome of any election other than an election for members of the Board of Education, the candidates receiving the tie vote shall cast lots before the Board, at 12 o'clock noon on a date to be set by the Board, but not sooner than ten days following determination by the Board of the results of the election which require the resolution of such tie, and the one to whom the lot shall fall shall be declared the winner. If any candidate or candidates, receiving a tie vote, fail to appear before 12 o'clock noon on said day, the Board shall cast lots for him or them. For the purpose of casting lots any candidate may appear in person, or by proxy appointed in writing.

(d) In the event that any official, other than a Delegate or a winner of a primary election for the office of Delegate or a member of the Board of Education, elected pursuant to this chapter dies, resigns, or becomes unable to serve during his or her term of office leaving no person elected pursuant to this chapter to serve the remainder of the unexpired term of office, the successor or successors to serve the remainder of such term shall be chosen pursuant to the rules of the duly authorized party committee: Provided, That such successor shall have the qualifications required by this chapter for such office. In the event that such a vacancy occurs in the office of a candidate for the office of Delegate who has been declared the winner in the preceding primary or party runoff election for such office, the vacancy may be filled not later than fifteen days prior to the next general election for such office, by nomination by the party committee of the party which nominated his predecessor, and by paying the filing fee required by section 1–1108(i). In the event that such a vacancy occurs in the office of Delegate more than twelve months before the expiration of its term of office, the Board shall call special elections to fill such vacancy for the remainder of its term of office.

(e) Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of member of the Board of Education, such vacancy shall be filled at the next general election for members of the Board of Education which occurs more than ninety-nine days after such vacancy occurs. However, the Board of Education shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy until the unexpired term of the vacant office ends or until the fourth Monday in January next following the date of the election of a person to serve the remainder of such unexpired term, whichever occurs first. A person elected to fill a vacancy shall hold office for the duration of the unexpired term of office to which he was elected. Any person appointed under this subsection shall have the same qualifications for holding such office as were required of his immediate predecessor. § 1–1111. Petition for recount by candidate—Procedure—Expenses—Petition for recount by voter to District of Columbia Court of Appeals—Grounds for voiding election.

(b) Within seven days after the Board certifies the results of an election, any person who voted in the election may petition the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to review such election. In response to such a petition, the court may set aside the results so certified and declare the true results of the election, or void the election in whole or in part. To determine the true results of an election the court may order a recount or take other appropriate action, whether or not a recount has been conducted or requested pursuant to subsection (a). The court shall void an election only for fraud, mistake, the making of expenditures by a candidate in violation of this chapter, or other defect, serious enough to vitiate the election as a fair expression of the will of the registered qualified electors voting therein. If the court voids an election it may order a special election, which shall be conducted in such manner (comparable to that prescribed for regular elections), and at such time, as the Board shall prescribe. The decision of such court shall be final and not appealable. (Aug. 12, 1955, 69 Stat. 703, ch. 862, § 11; Apr. 22, 1968, Pub. L. 90–292, § 4(8), 82 Stat. 106.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Absentee ballots

It was error for the board to refuse to count absentee ballots which were postmarked after election day which fell on November 4, inasmuch as absentee ballots were not mailed by the board of elections until November 2 together with instructions to voters that ballots must be returned by November 10 but without mention of requirement that ballots be postmarked on election day. T. F. Curtis v. J. E. Bindeman, et. al., and C. I. Cassell (D.C. App. 1970, 261 A. 2d 515).

Construction

Section 1–1109 provision that vote shall be valid only if cast in voting precinct where residence shown on voter's registration is located should be liberally construed so as not to deny innocent voters their right to vote, or to upset an election for technical reasons. T. F. Curtis v. J. E. Bindeman, et al., and C. I. Cassell (D.C. App. 1970, 261 A. 2d 515).

The court held that it was not error to count ballots which were marked in voting precincts other than precincts in which voters resided where ballots were assigned to and counted by board as if they had actually been marked and deposited in voters' precinct and there were no instances of double voting. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

Commission's refusal to consider a motion for reconsideration of decision of Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission as being timely, where it was filed on 30th day after issuance of the order increasing fares charged by bus company, although objector's agent arrived several minutes after closing time of Commission's offices and slid the motion under the door where it was seen later by executive director of Commission, was an abuse of discretion. J. Yohalem v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, et ano. (1969, 412 F. 2d 1124, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 77).

Considerations in making fare adjustments

The court concluded on the issue of fare adjustments, that the Transit Commission is required to consider not only the justness and reasonableness of fares charged or proposed to be charged by the carrier, in the sense of meeting overall revenue requirements, but also whether such fares are "unduly preferential or unduly discriminatory either between riders or sections of the Metropolitan District." T. E. Payne etc., et al. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, D.C. Transit System Inc., etc. (1968, 415 F. 2d 901, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 321).

Construction

The District of Columbia Minimum Wage Act [§ 36–401 et seq.] was intended to cover wages and hours of individuals working in transportation field solely within the District of Columbia, but does not apply to bus drivers who were engaged in interstate commerce, spending on the average 37.6 percent of working time in the District. K. C. Williams et al. v. W. M. A. Transit Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 261).

Estoppel

Since the petitioning bus companies made manifest, before closing of hearings, their position that no approval of Transit Commission was required for their proposed through route service, they were not estopped on their application for reconsideration from making such argument. D.C. Transit System, Inc. et ano v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission (1970, 429 F. 2d 197, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Evidence—Sufficiency

In prosecution for wilfully, as a carrier, engaging in transportation for hire of persons by motor vehicle without first obtaining certificate of public convenience and necessity the conflicting evidence presented a question of fact for determination by the trial judge and supported finding that arrangement between defendants and licensed carrier constituted a lease, not a charter. Holiday Tours, Inc., et ano. v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 234 A. 2d 179).

Evidence supported finding that arrangement, whereby defendants leased one of their own buses to a licensed carrier and carrier, without taking physical possession of bus, chartered it back to defendants, was a subterfuge, rather than a bona fide charter. Id.

Findings of Commission

The court held that the findings of Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission are conclusive if supported by substantial evidence, and it is not a valid objection that conflicts in the evidence might conceivably have been resolved differently, or other inferences drawn from the same record. T. E. Payne etc., et al. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, D.C. Transit System Inc., etc. (1968, 415 F. 2d 901, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 321).

The Court of Appeals held that it must sustain findings of Transit Commission when they materialize as rational deductions grounded on substantial evidence in the record considered as a whole. R. A. Williams et ano. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, D.C. Transit System Inc., Democratic Central Committee, etc., et al. (1968, 415 F. 2d 922, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 342, cert. denied 89 S. Ct. 860).

Grandfather rights

Grandfather rights in Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact, expressly contemplated the issuance of certificates, without new or further proof of public convenience and necessity, to those "bona fide engaged in transportation" on the effective date of the statute. D.C. Transit System, Inc. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, et ano. (1967, 376 F. 2d 765, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 210).

Transit operator existing prior to Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact was given no exclusive and permanent monopolies, and commission could, with due observance of requirements of statute and upon proper findings, grant certificate authority competitive with that held by prior existing certificate holder. Id.

Interim rate increase

There is little doubt that the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission has general authority to issue interim orders although the evidence introduced does not enable the tribunal to dispose of the issues completely or permanently, and under the compact the Commission has authority to modify existing rates upon making a finding that existing rates are unjust and unreasonable. T. E. Payne etc., et al. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, D.C. Transit System Inc., etc. (1968, 415 F. 2d 901, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 321).

The court held that in making an interim rate increase the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission was not required to make the full and complete findings as to margin of return and fare structure that must accompany an exercise of its authority to prescribe permanent rates, but its discretion must be exercised rationally, and it may not act without making relevant findings, supported by the record, to sustain its action. Id.

The court held further that given the inadequacy of the record and the need for further inquiry, the danger of serious consequences to transit company and the public if no fare increase were granted in the interim, and the undesirability of imposing unreasonably high fares on the public, the ordering of an interim rate increase by Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission was within the bounds of its authority and was supported by the findings it made. Id.

Limited suspension of proposed tariffs

In this case the court concluded that the action of Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission in suspending transit company's proposed tariffs for a total period of 150 days from the date of filing was lawful, the issue being governed by the suspension provisions of the Compact and not by those contained in transit company's franchise. T. E. Payne etc., et al. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, D.C. Transit System Inc., etc. (1968, 415 F. 2d 901, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 321).

Public convenience and necessity

Under Washington Metropolitan Area Transit regulation Compact declaring any carrier's right to establish through routes and joint fares with other carriers and, whenever required by public convenience and necessity, investing Transit Commission with power to direct establishment of through route service upon complaint or upon its own initiative, the public convenience and necessity standard is a limitation on Commission's, as distinct from carriers', power to initiative through route service. D.C. Transit System, Inc. et ano v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission (1970, 429 F. 2d 197, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Under the Compact, certificate of public convenience and necessity is necessary for underlying services sought to be availed of to create a through route service by two bus companies, and if the Transit Commission has reason to doubt adequacy of underlying certificate authority to support through route service, it can suspend joint tariff and initiate an investigation of that adequacy. Id.

Under Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact, commission could not extend routes, in District, of carriers which had, prior to compact, received authority from joint board to traverse certain streets to terminal points, in a manner competitively adverse to holder of certificate issued prior to compact without taking into account the limiting statutory conditions which involved a concept of public convenience and necessity far beyond that of carriers' passengers. D.C. Transit System, Inc. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, et ano. (1967, 376 F. 2d 765, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 210).

Under Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact, convenience of passengers was not, under regulatory scheme, sole criterion for extension of routes in a manner competitively adverse to holder of certificate granted prior to compact. Id.

Retroactive rates

The court held that the Commission possesses no authority to fix rates for the past; an order prescribing lawful fares to be charged by public utility, being essentially legislative in character, ordinarily speaks only for the future. R. A. Williams, et ano. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission, D.C. Transit System Inc., Democratic Central Committee etc., et al. (1968, 415 F. 2d 922, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 342, cert. denied 89 S. Ct. 860).

Sufficiency of record

Since the Court of Appeals was unable to determine from the record whether through route and joint fare sightseeing operations in Washington Metropolitan Area contemplated by petitioning bus companies constituted permissible through route service, orders of the Transit Commission denying authority must be set aside and case remanded to Commission. D.C. Transit System, Inc. et ano. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission (1970, 429 F. 2d 197, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Through routes and joint fares

Under Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Regulation Compact allowing Transit Commission to establish reasonable division of joint fares among interconnecting carriers whenever it finds proposed or existing division to be unreasonable, the Transit Commission has power to prevent any undue subsidization of one carrier by carrier with which it is establishing a through route service. D.C. Transit System, Inc. et ano. v. Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Commission (1970, 429 F. 2d 197, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Transit Commission may, in appropriate cases, compel one party to an existing through route service to establish additional through route agreements with other carriers, if that is their only means of developing competing through route services. Id.

Under the Compact, independently authorized transportation services may be joined so that a more convenient service can be provided passengers who would otherwise have to buy several tickets and devise their own interconnections and so that a more efficient cost structure can be available to carriers that would otherwise have to duplicate cost items, but a through route service can never be a cover for operations which in fact exceed the individual certificate authorities of one or both carriers. Id.

§ 1–1509. Contested cases.

(a) In any contested case, all parties thereto shall be given reasonable notice of the afforded hearing by the Commissioner or Council or the agency, as the case may be. The notice shall state the time, place, and issues involved, but if, by reason of the nature of the proceeding, the Commissioner or Council or the agency determine that the issues cannot be fully stated in advance of the hearing, or if subsequent amendment of the issues is necessary, they shall be fully stated as soon as practicable, and opportunity shall be afforded all parties to present evidence and argument with respect thereto. Unless otherwise required by law, other than this chapter, any contested case may be disposed of by stipulation, agreed settlement, consent order, or default.

(b) In contested cases, except as may otherwise be provided by law, other than this chapter, the proponent of a rule or order shall have the burden of proof. Any oral and any documentary evidence may be received, but the Commissioner and Council and every agency shall exclude irrelevant, immaterial, and unduly repetitious evidence. Every party shall have the right to present in person or by counsel his case or defense by oral and documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. Where any decision of the Commissioner or Council or any agency in a contested case rests on official notice of a material fact not appearing in the evidence in the record, any party to such case shall on timely request be afforded an opportunity to show the contrary.

(c) The Commissioner or Council or the agency shall maintain an official record in each contested case, to include testimony and exhibits, but it shall not be necessary to make any transcription unless a copy of such record is timely requested by any party to such case, or transcription is required by law, other than this chapter. The testimony and exhibits, together with all papers and requests filed in the proceeding, and all material facts not appearing in the evidence but with respect to which official notice is taken, shall constitute the exclusive record for order or decision. No sanction shall be imposed or rule or order or decision be issued except upon consideration of such exclusive record, or such lesser portions thereof as may be agreed upon by all the parties to such case. The cost incidental to the preparation of a copy or copies of a record or portion thereof shall be borne equally by all parties requesting the copy or copies.

(d) Whenever in a contested case a majority of those who are to render the final order or decision did not personally hear the evidence, no order or decision adverse to a party to the case (other than the Commissioner or an agency) shall be made until a proposed order or decision, including findings of fact and conclusions of law, has been served upon the parties and an opportunity has been afforded to each party adversely affected to file exceptions and present argument to a majority of those who are to render the order or decision, who, in such case, shall personally consider such portions of the exclusive record, as provided in subsection (c) of this section, as may be designated by any party.

(e) Every decision and order adverse to a party to the case, rendered by the Commissioner or Council or an agency in a contested case, shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by findings of fact and conclusions of law. The findings of fact shall consist of a concise statement of the conclusions upon each contested issue of fact. Findings of fact and conclusions of law shall be supported by and in accordance with the reliable, probative, and substantial evidence. A copy of the decision and order and accompanying findings and conclusions shall be given by the Commissioner or Council or the agency, as the case may be, to each party or to his attorney of record. SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 2–123, 2–129, 2–312, 2–406, 2–407, 2–708, 2–1809, 11–722, 11–1525, 29–417, 35–427, 35–1709, 36–130, 36–409, 40–302, 40–420, 45–1409, 47–2101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Final Decision

A final decision of the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board, when rendered, must be in writing and must be accompanied by findings of fact and conclusions of law. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

The major purpose of requiring findings of fact and conclusions of law by an agency is to enable the reviewing court to decide whether decision follows as a matter of law from facts stated as its basis, and also whether facts so stated have any substantial support in evidence. Id.

In this case, the court held that a two-sentence decision of the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board, stating that decision of appeals examiner of certain date should be reversed because claimant believed that employer accepted offer to terminate her services on one date rather than on another date, was inadequate as a finding of fact and a conclusion of law. Id.

Hacker's license

In this case the court held that the Hackers' Board may not suspend or revoke a hacker's license unless it concludes after hearing and upon appropriate findings as required by this section that a valid regulation promulgated by the District of Columbia Council under section 47–2345(a) prescribing suspension or revocation has been violated, or unless it can show in the record "reliable, probative, and substantial evidence," supporting its own conclusion that suspension or revocation of the particular license wil be "in the interest of public decency" or necessary for "the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of the citizens of the District of Columbia." G. A. Proctor v. Hackers' Board, Government of the District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 267).

Notice

Since no notice was given that uniqueness of premises would be an issue of fact at hearing for determination of application for retailer's Class "C" license by Alcoholic Beverage Control Board or that such criterion was to be applied to the application, denial of application could not stand and matter required remand for further proceedings. Palace Restaurant, Inc. v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Board (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 561).

Notice of Appeal

Even if the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board deemed it unnecessary to permit a reply to petition for appeal in an unemployment compensation proceeding, the other party at least should have been given notice that the appeal had been filed. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Petition for Appeal

The District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board, in complying with this chapter, should prescribe specifically what information the petition for appeal in unemployment compensation case should contain, in order to prevent matters finding their way, by letter or otherwise, into record on appeal before Board when such matters were not before the appeals examiner. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Proposed Decision

Once an appeal has been filed with the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board and the other party has been given notice of appeal, and before the Board can render its final decision, the Board must serve upon the parties a proposed decision, including findings of fact and conclusions of law; and each party must be given the opportunity to file exceptions to the proposed decision and to present argument to the Board or to a majority of those who are to render the final decision. Woodridge Nursery School v. T. G. Jessup and District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 199).

Sufficiency of findings of fact

The court held that all interested parties are entitled to know and District of Columbia Court of Appeals, on review, must know basis and reasons for action of Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board in issuing wage order. L. Allenbuck, t/a etc. and Larimer's Inc. v. District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board (D.C. App. 1969, 261 A. 2d 826).

In this case the findings of fact consisting of only a finding relating to general minimum weekly wage of $81.28 as sufficient to provide adequate maintenance and to protect health and finding that minimum wage in retail trade occupation should not be less than $2.00 an hour based on prescribed 40-hour work week were insufficient to support wage order issued by Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board. Id.

§ 1–1510. Judicial review.

Any person suffering a legal wrong, or adversely affected or aggrieved, by an order or decision of the Commissioner or Council or an agency in a contested case, is entitled to a judicial review thereof in accordance with this chapter upon filing in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals a written petition for review. If the jurisdiction of the Commissioner or Council or an agency is challenged at any time in any proceeding and the Commissioner or Council or the agency, as the case may be, takes jurisdiction, the person challenging jurisdiction shall be entitled to an immediate judicial review of that action, unless the court shall otherwise hold. The reviewing court may by rule prescribe the forms and contents of the petition and, subject to this chapter, regulate generally all matters relating to proceedings on such appeals. A petition for review shall be filed in such court within such time as such court may by rule prescribe and a copy of such petition shall forthwith be served by mail by the clerk of the court upon the Commissioner or Council or upon the agency, as the case may be. Within such time as may be fixed by rule of the court the Commissioner or Council or such agency shall certify and file in the court the exclusive record for decision and any supplementary proceedings, and the clerk of the court shall immediately notify the petitioner of the filing thereof. Upon the filing of a petition for review, the court shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding, and shall have power to affirm, modify, or set aside the order or decision complained of, in whole or in part, and, if need be, to remand the case for further proceedings, as justice may require. Filing of a petition for review shall not in itself stay enforcement of the order or decision of the Commissioner or Council or the agency, as the case may be. The Commissioner or Council or the agency may grant, or the reviewing court may order, a stay upon appropriate terms. The court shall hear and determine all appeals upon the exclusive record for decision before the Commissioner or Council or the agency. The review of all administrative orders and decisions by the court shall be limited to such issues of law or fact as are subject to review on appeal under applicable statutory law, other than this chapter. In all other cases the review by the court of administrative orders and decisions shall be in accordance with the rules of law which define the scope and limitations of review of administrative proceedings. Such rules shall include, but not be limited to, the power of the court—

(1) so far as necessary to decision and where presented, to decide all relevant questions of law, to interpret constitutional and statutory provisions, and to determine the meaning or applicability of the terms of any action;

(2) to compel agency action unlawfully withheld or unreasonably delayed; and

(3) to hold unlawful and set aside any action or findings and conclusions found to be (A) arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; (B) contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity; (C) in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations or short of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations or short of statutory rights; (D) without observance of procedure required by law, including any applicable procedure provided by this chapter; or (E) unsupported by substantial evidence in the record of the proceedings before the court.

In reviewing administrative orders and decisions, the court shall review such portions of the exclusive record as may be designated by any party. The court may invoke the rule of prejudicial error. (Oct. 21, 1968, Pub. L. 90–614, § 11, 82 Stat. 1209; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 162, title I, 84 Stat. 582.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 162 of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358 amended (1) the first sentence, by striking out ", except" and all that follows in that sentence and inserting in lieu thereof a period; and (2) by repealing the last sentence. For contents of provisions stricken and repealed, see Supp. III to the 1967 edition of the Code.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

Section 199(b)(7) of Pub. L. 91–358, provided: (7) The amendments made by section 162 shall take effect with respect to petitions filed after the effective date of this title [title I; for effective date of title, see note prec. § 11–101] for review of decisions or orders.

EFFECTIVE DATE

See note to section 1–1501.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 2–123, 2–129, 2–312, 2–406, 2–407, 2–708, 2–1809, 11–722, 11–1525, 17–303, 17–305, 29–417, 35–427, 35–1709, 36–130, 36–409, 40–302, 40–420, 45–1409, 47–2101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Administrative action

Mere fact that proof tended to reveal at a suspension hearing before permit control officer of District of Columbia Department of Motor Vehicles that 17-year-old driver, whose license was suspended, was driving while under influence of alcohol did not thereby convert the proceedings, administrative in character, into a judicial proceeding of the kind Congress assigned exclusively to juvenile court. K. P. Murphy, a minor etc. v. W. D. Heath, Director, etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 421).

The court held that the exclusive jurisdiction in judicial proceedings conferred by Juvenile Court Act on the juvenile court is not a jurisdictional bar to the administrative action of suspending motor vehicle operator's permit of 17-year-old driver. Id.

Scope of review

Issues not urged at administrative level may not form the basis for overturning on review a decision denying license to operate multiple dwelling structure as apartment house. J. D. Neuman Properties, Inc. v. District of Columbia, Board of Appeals and Review (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 605).

Substantial evidence rule

Under this section and sec. 25–106, the findings of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board of District of Columbia can be overturned by District of Columbia Court of Appeals upon review only if they are without substantial evidence to support them. Sophia's Inc. v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Board (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 799).

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

To the Congress of the United States:

I am transmitting Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967 to provide a better government for the citizens of the Nation's Capital.

The explosive growth of the District of Columbia challenges the city on every front—from schools and hospitals, courts and police, to housing and transportation, recreation and job opportunities. If the District is to meet these tests and fulfill the needs of its citizens, it must, as I said in my message on the National Capital, "have the most responsive and efficient government we are capable of providing."

The plan I submit today is more than a matter of routine reorganization. Its vital purpose is to bring Twentieth Century government to the Capital of this Nation: to strengthen and modernize the government of the District of Columbia; to make it as efficient and effective as possible.

The present form of District government was designed almost a century ago for a community of 150,000 people. The District government then employed less than 500 persons and administered a budget of less than four million dollars.

Today Washington has a population of 800,000. It is the center of the countrv's fastest growing metropolitan area with a population of 2.5 million. The District's Government now employs some 30,000 people and the proposed 1968 budget is more than half a billion dollars.

The machinery designed more than 90 vears ago to govern a small community is now obsolete. The commission form of government—unorthodox when the Congress accepted it as a temporary measure in 1874—provides neither effective nor efficient government for the Nation's Capital. That form of government has long since been abandoned by the few cities which adopted it around the turn of the century. Today none of the Nation's 27 largest cities and only two of the country's 47 cities with populations exceeding 300,000 have a government of divided authority.

The District of Columbia is governed by three Commissioners. Each Commissioner is the chief executive—the mayor—but for only a part of the government. Yet, the problems of the District of Columbia, like those of any major city, cannot be neatly broken into three parts. Any effort to control crime, for example, cuts across virtually every function of government—from police and corrections to housing, education, health and employment. An effective attack on the problem requires action by two or more Commissioners and the Departments for which they are separately responsible—a time-consuming and often costly process.

The District has been fortunate in the caliber and dedication of the men who have served as Commissioners, but it can no longer afford divided executive authority. Its government must be able to respond promptly and effectively to new demands and new conditions. This requires clear-cut executive authority and flexible government machinery—not divided authority which too often results in prolonged negotiations and inaction.

The problem of divided executive authority in the District is aggravated by the additional non-executive responsibilities now borne by the Commissioners. As a member of the Board of Commissioners, each must now make rules and regulations on matters with which he is not otherwise concerned as an executive. Some of these quasi-legislative responsibilities—such as police regulations and property taxation—are of great importance to the city. Many—such as the naming of streets and the labeling of potato packages—are merely time-consuming. None should require a substantial portion of the time of the chief executive of a major city.

The reorganization plan I propose would remedy these deficiencies in the present form of government. It would:

—Unify executive and administrative authority.

—Eliminate competing and sometimes conflicting assignments of responsibility.

—Provide for the informed exercise of quasi-legislative functions through a Council which would be bipartisan and representative of the community.

—Permit the single Commissioner to organize the District government to provide effective day-to-day administration.

Under the plan, subject to Senate confirmation, the President would appoint a single Commissioner as chief executive and a bipartisan Council of nine members. The Commissioner would serve a four-year term, corresponding to that of the President. Council members would serve three-year terms, with three members to be appointed each year. The staggered terms would insure continuity of experience on the Council.

The plan would abolish the present Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia. Its powers and responsibilities would be apportioned between the single Commissioner and the Council.

The Commissioner would be assigned the executive functions now vested in the Board of Commissioners. He would be given responsibility and authority to organize and manage the District government, to administer its programs and to prepare its budget. The plan also provides for an Assistant to the Commissioner to help him carry out these responsibilities.

The Council would be assigned the quasi-legislative functions now performed by the Board of Commissioners. The plan describes more than 430 functions which would be transferred to the Council. These include major responsibilities such as the approval of boundaries and plans for urban renewal, establishment of rules governing the licensing of professions, and setting of rates for property taxation. The Council would also be empowered to review and revise the Commissioner's budget before submission to the President.

Since the plan was announced in my Message on the Nation's Capital, we have been working to strengthen the Office of Commissioner and the Council. Out of this process of refinement four key changes have emerged, and have been incorporated into the plan.

First, the plan would authorize the Commissioner to veto actions of the Council with which he disagrees. The Council, in turn, could override such a veto by a three-fourths vote of its members. This provides due recognition for the responsibilities of the chief executive, while at the same time preserving the right of the Council to act on matters of overriding importance.

Second, the terms of Council members would be set at three years instead of two. The reduction in turnover and increase in experience would add strength to the Council.

Third, the salaries of the Chairman, Vice Chairman and Council members would be increased to reflect their important responsibilities.

Finally, the plan recognizes that the machinery of the District's government, no matter how modern, cannot realize its highest purpose unless it is infused with the most experienced, informed and able leadership.

The 800,000 citizens of the District of Columbia deserve nothing less than such leadership, not only as a matter of fundamental right but because the District occupies a special and central role in the affairs of the Nation.

The best talent available must be found for the key posts of Commissioner and Assistant to the Commissioner. The Commissioner is the chief executive of the District of Columbia. The Assistant to the Commissioner will be his chief aide, his deputy, and will perform such duties as the Commissioner may prescribe.

In the search for leadership necessary in these crucial posts, the President and the Congress must balance the need to draw from the best talent in the Nation with the need for local experience and local involvement that are such valuable assets to enlightened municipal government. The plan therefore provides for the Presidential appointment of both these men, subject to Senate confirmation, with the requirement that at least one of them be a resident of the District for three years prior to appointment.

We would be indifferent to the cause of good government if the search and selection of the Commissioner and his Assistant were confined only to those who reside within the geographic boundaries of the District. This plan does not take that course. It provides a wide range of choice—opening the field not only to those who reside in the District, but to those who live in other parts of the Nation. At the same time, the plan assures that local experience will be well represented in the highest councils of the District Government.

Not only must either of the top executives positions be filled with a District resident, but each member of the nine-man Council must have been a resident of the District for at least three years prior to appointment.

Moreover, in selecting the Commissioner, I will look first to the residents of the District and I hope that he can be found here.

Of all the benefits of the plan, one stands out in particular—the strong leadership it provides as the cornerstone of support for any effective attack against crime. With that leadership and with the continued commitment and devotion of its police, the District can move with a greater sense of sureness and purpose against the spectre of crime that haunts the streets and shops of the Nation's Capital.

Of all the duties of the new single Commissioner none will be more important than his leadership in a renewed community effort to stem the rising tide of crime in the District.

The reorganization plan has been prepared in accordance with chapter 9 of title 5 of the United States Code. At my direction, it has been discussed with each member of the interested Committees of Congress or with their Staff Assistants. I have found, after investigation, that each reorganization included in the plan is necessary to accomplish one or more of the purposes set forth in section 901(a) of title 5 of the United States Code.

I have also found that it is necessary to include in the plan, by reason of the reorganization made, provisions for the appointment and compensation of the new officers specified in sections 201, 203 and 301–303 of the plan. The rates of compensation fixed for these officers are comparable to those fixed for officers in the executive branch of the Government having similar responsibilities.

The functions which would be abolished by the provisions of section 503(c) of the reorganization plan are provided for in subsection (e) of Section 6 of the Act of March 3, 1925, 43 Stat. 1121, as amended (D.C. Code, sec. 40–603(e)).

The plan would not impair the corporate status of the District of Columbia government. Nor would it in any way detract from the powers which the Congress exercises with respect to the District.

This reorganization plan would provide improved management of the municipal responsibilities vested by Congress in the government of the District of Columbia. It would bring savings to the District taxpayers and the Federal Government, although overall costs will not be less because of the increasing scale and complexity of municipal government. The precise amount of such savings cannot be itemized at this time.

The proposed reorganization is in no way a substitute for home rule. As I stated in my Message on the Nation's Capital, the plan "will give the District a better organized and more efficient government . . . but only home rule will provide the District with a democratic government—of, by and for its citizens."

I remain convinced more strongly than ever that Home Rule is still the truest course. We must continue to work toward that day—when the citizens of the District will have the right to frame their own laws, manage their own affairs, and choose their own leaders. Only then can we redeem that historic pledge to give the District of Columbia full membership in the American Union.

I recommend that the Congress allow the reorganization plan to become effective.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON.

THE WHITE HOUSE, June 1, 1967.

REORGANIZATION PLAN NO. 2 OF 1968

SEC. 4. Interim Administrator.—The President may authorize any person who immediately prior to the effective date of this reorganization plan holds a position in the executive branch of the government to act as Urban Mass Transportation Administrator until the office of Administrator is for the first time filled pursuant to the provisions of section 3(b) of this reorganization plan or by recess appointment, as the case may be. The person so designated shall be entitled to the compensation attached to the position he regularly holds.

MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Congress of the United States:

As long as he has lived in cities, man has struggled with the problem of urban transportation. But:

—Never before have these problems affected so many of our citizens.

—Never before has transportation been so important to the development of our urban centers.

—Never before have residents of urban areas faced a clearer choice concerning urban transportation—shall it dominate and restrict enjoyment of all the values of urban living, or shall it be shaped to bring convenience and efficiency to our citizens in urban areas.

How America and its cities solve the transportation problem depends largely on our two newest Federal Departments—the Department of Transportation and the Department of Housing and Urban Development:

—The Department of Housing and Urban Development is responsible for the character of all urban development.

—The Department of Transportation is concerned specifically with all the modes of transportation and their efficient interrelationship.

At present, responsibility for program assistance for urban highways and urban airports, and urban mass transportation is divided between the Department of Transportation and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. As a result:

—Federal coordination of transportation systems assistance is more difficult than it need be.

—Communities which have measured their own needs and developed comprehensive transportation proposals must deal with at least two federal agencies to carry out their programs.

To combine efficiently the facilities and services necessary for our urban centers and to improve transportation within our cities, State and local government agencies should be able to look to a single federal agency for program assistance and support. The large future cost of transportation facilities and services to the Federal Government, to State and local governments, and to the transportation industry makes side investments and efficient transportation systems essential.

An urban transportation system must:

—combine a basic system of efficient, responsive mass transit with all other forms and systems of urban, regional, and inter-city transportation; —conform to and support balanced urban development.

In this, my second reorganization plan of 1968, I ask the Congress to transfer urban mass transportation programs to the Secretary of Transportation and to establish an Urban Mass Transportation Administration within the Department of Transportation to strengthen the organizational capacity of the Federal Government to achieve these objectives.

The plan transfers to and unifies in a new Urban Mass Transportation Administration in the Department of Transportation those functions which involve urban mass transportation project assistance and related research and development activities. Because urban research and planning and transportation research and planning are closely related, however, the plan provides that the Department of Housing and Urban Development perform an important role in connection with transportation research and planning insofar as they have significant impact on urban development.

We expect the Department of Transportation to provide leadership in transportation policy and assistance. The Department of Housing and Urban Development will provide leadership in comprehensive planning at the local level that includes transportation planning and relates it to broader urban development objectives.

The transfer of urban mass transportation programs will not diminish the overall responsibilities of the Department of Housing and Urban Development with respect to our cities. Rather, adequate authority is reserved to that Department to enable it to join with the Department of Transportation to assure that urban transportation develops as an integral component of the broader development of growing urban areas.

The new Urban Mass Transportation Administration in the Department of Transportation, working with other elements of the Department, will consolidate and focus our efforts to develop and employ the most modern transportation technology in the solution of the transportation problems of our cities.

The reorganization plan provides for an Administrator at the head of the Administration who would be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The Administrator would report directly to the Secretary of Transportation and take his place in the Department with the heads of the Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Highway Administration, Federal Railroad Administration and the Coast Guard.

I have found, after investigation, that each reorganization included in the reorganization plan transmitted herewith is necessary to accomplish one or more of the purposes set forth in section 901(a) of title 5 of the United States Code.

I have also found that it is necessary to include in the accompanying plan, by reason of these reorganizations, provisions for the appointment and compensation of the new officer specified in section 3(b) of the plan. The rate of compensation fixed for this officer is comparable to those fixed for officers in the Executive Branch of the Government having similar responsibilities.

The reorganizations included in this plan will provide more effective management of transportation programs. It is not feasible to itemize the reduction in expenditures which the plan will achieve, but I have no doubt that this reorganization will preserve and strengthen overall comprehensive planning for developing urban areas while simultaneously insuring more efficient transportation systems for our cities than would otherwise have occurred.

I strongly urge that the Congress allow the reorganization plan to become effective.

MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Congress of the United States:

In the past few years Congress and the President have pledged to make the Nation's Capital a model of excellence for America: in government, in housing, in city planning, in law enforcement, in transportation.

But the quality of any city is not just a matter of efficiency and public order. If it is to be truly great, the city must be lively and inviting—a place of beauty and pleasure.

The city's life is lived not only in its buildings, but in its pools, playgrounds and recreation centers, in the places where the young gather to find excitement and delight, where the old come to find relaxation, fresh air, companionship.

In Washington, recreation is a vital element of the city's school enrichment activities, its model city project and its summer programs.

But the D.C. Recreation Department is not an integral part of the District Government. With its six-member independent board, the autonomy of the Department prevents the D.C. Commissioner from providing policy supervision to the city's recreation activities and from relating them to other community service programs—in health, education, child care, and conservation.

There is no reason to distinguish between recreation and other community service programs now vested in the Commissioner.

Accordingly, I am today submitting to the Congress Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1968. This plan brings recreation programs under the authority of the D.C. Commissioner. It enables the new City Government to make recreation an integral part of its strategy to bring more and better community services to the people who live in the city.

The Plan achieves these objectives by abolishing the present Recreation Board and the Office of the Superintendent of Recreation. It transfers their functions to the D.C. Commissioner.

The accompanying reorganization plan has been prepared in accordance with chapter 9 of title 5 of the United States Code. I have found, after investigation, that each reorganization included in the plan is necessary to accomplish one or more of the purposes set forth in section 901(a) of title 5 of the United States Code.

Closer coordination of recreation with other municipal improvement programs of the District Government and the improved efficiency of recreation management will produce a higher return on the taxpayer's investment on recreation programs, though the amount of savings cannot be estimated at this time.

I urge the Congress to permit this reorganization plan to take effect.

THE WHITE HOUSE, Mar. 13, 1968.

REORGANIZATION PLAN NO. 4 OF 1968

(33 F.R. 7749, F.R. Doc. 68–6386; Filed, May 27, 1968; 9:25 a.m.)

Prepared by the President and transmitted to the Senate and the House of Representatives in Congress assembled, March 13, 1968, pursuant to the provisions of chapter 9 of title 5 of the United States Code. The plan became effective May 23, 1968.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA REDEVELOPMENT LAND AGENCY

SECTION 1. Appointments. (a) The functions of the President of the United States with respect to appointing certain members of the Board of Directors of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency (D.C. Code, sec. 5–703) are hereby transferred to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

(b) Nothing in this reorganization plan shall be deemed to terminate the tenure of any member of the Board of Directors of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency now in office.

SEC. 2. Relationship of Board of Directors and Commissioner. (a) There are transferred from the Board of Directors of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia the functions of adopting, prescribing, amending and repealing bylaws, rules, and regulations for the exercise of the powers of the Board under D.C. Code, secs. 5–701 to 5–719 or governing the manner in which its business may be conducted (D.C. Code, sec. 5–703(b)).

(b) Any part of the functions transferred by this section may be delegated by the Commissioner to the Board.

SEC. 3. References to District of Columbia Code. References in this reorganization plan to any provision of the District of Columbia Code are references to the provisions of statutory law codified under that provision and include the said provision as amended, modified, or supplemented prior to the effective date of this reorganization plan.

MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Congress of the United States:

Urban Renewal is a vital weapon in the Nation's attack on urban blight and physical decay. In the firm hands of a local executive determined to improve the face of his city, it is a powerful tool of reform.

In the District of Columbia, urban renewal is managed by a Federal Agency, the D.C. Redevelopment Land Agency, headed by an independent five-man Board of Directors. Although the District Government pays the entire local share of the costs of urban renewal and although the Commissioner of the District of Columbia appoints three of the five members of the RLA Board, the Agency need not follow the Commissioner's leadership or administrative direction.

To strengthen the D.C. Commissioner's authority to initiate and guide the administration of urban renewal, I am today transmitting to the Congress Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1968. This plan:

—gives the D.C. Commissioner the authority to appoint all five members of the RLA Board, by transferring to him the appointment function now vested in the President;

—transfers to him the authority to prescribe the rules and regulations governing the conduct of business by RLA. This function is now vested in the Board of Directors.

Urban Renewal involves slum clearance, demolition, the relocation of families, the provision of new housing, the stimulation of rehabilitation and new employment. Throughout the Nation, it is clear that authority and leadership by the local chief executive is essential to weld together the full range of municipal functions and community service programs to change conditions in city slums.

In our Capital City the hopes for a balanced New Town and new housing development on the Fort Lincoln site in Northeast Washington, the rebuilding of the Shaw neighborhood, and a successful Model Cities program hinge on the leadership of the D.C. Commissioner. Members of the Congress have repeatedly stressed the need to establish the Commissioner's effective control of all functions essential to local redevelopment. The attached plan takes a major step toward that objective.

The plan does not alter the corporate status of the Redevelopment Land Agency or any of the authorities now vested by law in the Agency.

The accompanying reorganization plan has been prepared in accordance with chapter 9 of title 5 of the United States Code. I have found, after investigation, that each reorganization included in the plan is necessary to accomplish one or more of the purposes set forth in section 901(a) of title 5 of the United States Code.

There are no direct savings deriving from this plan. However, it will improve the management of programs aimed at reviving the deteriorated social, economic, and physical structure of this city, our National Capital. The benefits and savings from a more successful attack on these problems cannot be estimated in advance, but their reality cannot be denied.

To achieve our goal of a model Capital, I therefore urge the Congress to permit this reorganization plan to take effect.

ORGANIZATION ORDER NO. 25 [1]—DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA BOARD OF LABOR RELATIONS

(Organization Order, Commissioner's Order No. 70–229, June 19, 1970.)

By virtue of the authority vested in me by Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, It is HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

There is hereby established in the Government of the District of Columbia a Board of Labor Relations.

PART I

Policy.—The Government of the District of Columbia firmly supports the principle that, consistent with the paramount public interest, the efficient administration of the D.C. Government and the well being of employees require that an orderly and constructive relationship be maintained between employees and management.

Unresolved disputes in the public service are injurious to the public, the government and the employees. Protection of the right of employees to organize and bargain collectively safeguards the public and employees from injury, impairment and interruptions and removes certain recognized sources of strife and unrest by encouraging practices fundamental to the friendly adjustment of disputes.

It is the policy of the District of Columbia Government to eliminate the causes of obstructions to the orderly and efficient operation of government by encouraging the practice of collective bargaining, by protecting the right of employees to organize and to designate representatives of their own choosing, and by providing procedures for preventing the interference by employers and employees with the legitimate rights of the other.

PART II

Composition and membership.—1. The Board of Labor Relations shall consist of five members. The members of the Board shall have expertise in the fields of labor-management relations and shall possess the integrity and impartiality necessary to protect the public interest as well as the interest of the District of Columbia and its employees. Members shall hold no other full- or part-time office for which compensation is paid from District funds or from Federal grants to the District of Columbia; nor shall members receive compensation from labor organizations representing District Government employees.

2. The members of the Board shall be appointed by the Mayor in the following manner:

a. Two members shall be chosen from lists of three names proposed by each labor organization representing a significant number of District Government employees or units of employees in agencies subject to the labor-management relations program of the Mayor, as set forth in the District Personnel Manual. Both labor members shall not be appointed from a list submitted by the same labor organization, unless that person's name appears on more than one list.

b. Two members shall be chosen from a list of five names proposed by an ad hoc committee representing management within the District Government. This committee shall be selected from among the directors of those departments and agencies subject to the labor-management relations program of the Mayor in which there is a substantial degree of representation by labor organizations.

c. The four members selected as above shall propose a list of three names to the Mayor, from which the Mayor shall select an impartial fifth member, who shall be Chairman. If the members cannot agree on a list of nominees within 30 days, the Mayor shall select a Chairman.

d. The Mayor may ask that additional names be submitted.

3. The terms of office shall be three years. In the case of the initial selections, the Chairman shall serve for three years, one labor and one management representative shall serve for two years, and one of each shall serve for one year. The short terms shall be chosen by lot. All members shall be eligible for reappointment.

4. Any member of the Board may be removed for cause, after having been a given a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel in his defense upon not less than 10 days notice.

5. The procedure for filling a vacancy resulting from the expiration of a term of office shall be initiated at least 30 days prior to the expiration. Each member shall hold office until his successor is appointed and has qualified. If a vacancy occurs during a term, the new appointee shall hold office for the remainder of the unexpired term and until a successor is appointed and has qualified.

6. If at any time any matter comes before the Board in which any member has any interest, direct or indirect, other than that of a taxpayer, the member shall publicly so state and his statement shall be recorded in the minutes of the meeting. He shall thereafter be disqualified from participation in the consideration of said matter.

PART III

Duties and powers:

1. To determine in disputed cases appropriate bargaining units and related issues.

2. To resolve appeals concerning the method of determining majority status and over the conduct of elections, and to certify exclusive bargaining representatives.

3. To decide whether unfair labor practices have been committed and issue an appropriate remedial order binding on the parties, or to make recommendations to the Mayor as provided in paragraph 18(d)(2) of Chapter 25A, District Personnel Manual.

4. To resolve impasses through factfinding or final and binding arbitration; to remand disputes if it believes further negotiations are desirable or if the matter comes under the jurisdiction of another authority.

5. To make a final determination as to whether a matter is within the scope of collective bargaining.

6. To decide whether a dispute shall be subject to a grievance procedure, and to consider appeals from arbitration awards pursuant to a grievance procedure. Such awards may be reviewed only for reasons that the arbitrator was without or exceeded his jurisdiction; the award on its face is contrary to law and public policy; or was procured by fraud, collusion, or other similar and unlawful means.

7. To conduct investigations, hear testimony, and take evidence under oath at hearings on any matter subject to its jurisdiction.

8. To administer oaths or affirmations and to require the attendance of witnesses with any necessary records or other records which have a bearing on the dispute. However, regulations dealing with the confidentiality of personnel files shall not be abrogated.

9. To make final decisions and to take appropriate action on charges of failure to adopt, subscribe or comply with the Standards of Conduct for Labor Organizations.

10. To make recommendations concerning desirable revisions or amendments to Chapter 25A, District Personnel Manual.

11. To adopt rules and regulations for the conduct of its business, and the carrying out of its powers and duties.

12. To consider matters that would otherwise be within its jurisdiction arising in agencies not subject to Chapter 254, District Personnel Manual under such terms and conditions as the Board by regulation may prescribe.

13. To delegate any of the functions of the Board to panels of three of its members, each panel consisting of the Chairman, one labor member and one management member.

14. To establish and maintain a list of mediators, factfinders and arbitrators, and to appoint same as provided in Chapter 25A, District Personnel Manual.

PART IV

Compensation.—Members of the District of Columbia Board of Labor Relations shall be intermittent employees of the District of Columbia and shall receive compensation when actually performing services as members of the Board.

PART V

Oath of office.—Each member of the Board before entering upon the discharge of his duties as such member shall take an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States and to faithfully discharge the duties imposed upon him as such member.

PART VI

Staff.—The Board may appoint such staff as it determines necessary within the limits of available appropriations. Interim staff assistance may be furnished by the Personnel Office.

PART VII

Effective date.—The provisions of this order shall become effective immediately.

If an oral hearing has already been had on the appeal, no further oral hearing shall be required, but a further oral hearing shall be provided at the request of a party to the appeal who may have additional evidence to offer.

§ 2–132. Enjoining unlawful practice of healing art—Procedure.

The unlawful practice of the healing art may be enjoined by the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, sitting as a court of equity, on petition by the Commission, or by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, or by the major and superintendent of police of this District; but no such proceeding shall be entertained in advance of the conviction of the person sought to be enjoined, of violation of the provisions of this subchapter. In any such proceeding, it shall not be necessary to show that any person is individually injured by the act or acts complained of. No injunction, either temporary or permanent, shall be granted until after final trial and final judgment on the merits of the case, nor until after a hearing is had on the petition. If, on the trial, it is shown that the respondent has been unlawfully practicing the healing art, the court shall perpetually enjoin him from so practicing or continuing to practice, unless and until he has been duly licensed so to do. Procedure in such cases shall be the same as in any other injunction suit, as nearly as may be. The remedy by injunction given hereby is in addition to criminal prosecution and punishment based thereon, and not in lieu thereof. Such cases shall be advanced for trial on the docket of the trial court, and shall be advanced and tried in the appellate court, in the same manner and under the same law and regulations as apply to other suits for injunction. § 2–274. Manner of executing anatomical gifts.

(a) A gift of all or part of the body under section 2–272(a) may be made by will. The gift becomes effective upon the death of the testator without waiting for probate. If the will is not probated, or if it is declared invalid for testamentary purposes, the gift, to the extent that it has been acted upon in good faith, is nevertheless valid and effective.

(b)(1) A gift of all or part of the body under section 2–272(a) may also be made by document other than a will. The gift becomes effective upon death of the donor. The document, which may be a card designed to be carried on the person, must be signed by the donor, in the presence of two witnesses who must sign the document in his presence. If the donor cannot sign, the document may be signed for him at his direction and in his presence, and in the presence of two witnesses who must sign the document in his presence. This is a legal document under the District of Columbia Anatomical Gift Act or similar laws.

(c) The gift may be made to a specified donee or without specifying a donee. If the latter, the gift may be accepted by the attending physician as donee upon or following death. If the gift is made to a specified donee who is not available at the time and place of death, the attending physician upon or following death, in the absence of any expressed indication that the donor desired otherwise, may accept the gift as donee. The physician who becomes a donee under this subsection shall not participate in the procedures for removing or transplanting a part.

(d) Notwithstanding section 2–277(b), the donor may designate in his will, card, or other document of gift the surgeon or physician to carry out the appropriate procedures. In the absence of a designation, or if the designee is not available, the donee or other person authorized to accept the gift may employ or authorize any surgeon or physician for the purpose.

(e) Any gift by a person designated in section 2–272(b) shall be made by a document signed by him, or made by his telegraphic, recorded telephonic, or other recorded message. (May 26, 1970, Pub. L. 91–268, § 4, 84 Stat. 267.)

§ 2–275. Delivery of documents of gift.

If the gift is made by the donor to a specified donee, the will, card, or other document, or any executed copy thereof, may be delivered to the donee to expedite the appropriate procedures immediately after death, but delivery is not necessary to the validity of the gift. The will, card, or other document, or an executed copy thereof, may be deposited in any hospital, bank or storage facility, or registry office that accepts them for safekeeping or for facilitation of procedures after death. On request of any interested party upon or after the donor's death, the person in possession shall produce the document for examination. (May 26, 1970, Pub. L. 91–268, § 5, 84 Stat. 269.)

§ 2–276. Amendment or revocation of the gift.

(a) If the will, card, or other document of executed copy thereof, has been delivered to a specified donee, the donor may amend or revoke the gift by—

(1) the execution and delivery to the donee of a signed statement, or

(2) an oral statement made in the presence of two persons and communicated to the donee, or

(3) a statement during a terminal illness or injury addressed to an attending physician and communicated to the donee, or

(4) a signed card or document found on his person or in his effects.

(b) Any document of gift which has not been delivered to the donee may be revoked by the donor in the manner set out in subsection (a) or by destruction, cancellation, or mutilation of the document and all executed copies thereof.

(c) Any gift made by a will may also be amended or revoked in the manner provided for amendment or revocation of wills, or as provided in subsection (a). (May 26, 1970, Pub. L. 91–268, § 6, 84 Stat. 269.)

§ 2–277. Rights and duties at death.

(a) The donee may accept or reject the gift. If the donee accepts a gift of the entire body, he may, subject to the terms of the gift, authorize embalming and the use of the body in funeral services. If the gift is of a part of the body, the donee, upon the death of the donor and prior to embalming, shall cause the part to be removed without unnecessary mutilation. After removal of the part, custody of the remainder of the body vests in the surviving spouse, next of kin or other persons under obligation to dispose of the body.

(b) The time of death shall be determined by a physician who attends the donor at his death, or, if none, the physician who certifies the death. This physician shall not participate in the procedures for removing or transplanting a part.

(c) A person, who acts in good faith, in accord with the terms of this chapter, or under the anatomical gift laws of another State is not liable for damages in any civil action or subject to prosecution in any criminal proceeding for his act.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

Findings of physical therapist examining board that petitioner applying for registration as physical therapist without requirement of examination did not submit satisfactory proof that he had practiced physical therapy during critical period under statute, that he had graduated from approved school, or that he had received comparable training or experience were not unreasonable or arbitrary and were supported by the evidence. F. H. Carbon v. Physical Therapists Examining Board etc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 835).

Record in proceeding to review decision of physical therapist examining board denying petitioner's application for registration as physical therapist without requirement of examination failed to establish that board was prejudiced against petitioner. Id.

Comparable training

Training or experience offered to meet statutory requirement for registration as physical therapist in absence of graduation from approved school must establish that applicant's competence to assist his patients without endangering their health and safety is comparable to that of therapist who has graduated from approved school of physical therapy. F. H. Carbon v. Physical Therapists Examining Board etc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 835).

Recognition of expertise of board

In determining whether petitioner for registration as physical therapist possesses training and experience comparable with one graduating from approved school of physical therapy, reviewing court is bound to recognize expertise of physical therapist examining board. F. H. Carbon v. Physical Therapists Examining Board etc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 835).

Registration without examination

The protection of "grandfather clause" is not limited to exceptionally able people, but this does not mean that applicants shall not be required to possess the basic qualifications, competence, and skills comparable to those who have graduated from approved schools. R. D. Culler v. Physical Therapists Examining Board, etc. (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 495).

The record established that physical therapy work previously done in district by petitioner seeking registration as physical therapist without examination had been only incidental to petitioner's employment in Maryland and did not amount to substantial physical therapy practice in the district. Id.

On the basis of record showing inter alia that applicant for registration as physical therapist without examination was deficient in knowledge of basic services requisite for proper understanding of physical therapy techniques during service in armed forces, displayed a lack of basic knowledge of anatomy and physiology which affected his ability to recognize contraindications for physical therapy treatments and that at Maryland nursing home applicant's duties consisted primarily in walking patients and sometimes performing nursing functions, he was not entitled to be licensed without examination. Id.

Applicant who had been engaged in various forms of physical therapy for 24 years and who had extensive training and experience in physical therapy was entitled to registration as a physical therapist without examination under grandfather clause of District of Columbia physical therapy statute providing for registration of those receiving comparable training or experience of an approved school graduate. J. F. Hansen, Sr. v. Physical Therapists Examining Board, etc. (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 497).

Testimony disclosing that applicant for registration without examination as physical therapist under grandfather clause of statute had not graduated from approved school of physical therapy and had been employed exclusively in "health clubs", that 90 percent of his work was "purely massage" and that only a few treatments were performed on patients under doctors' orders did not require District of Columbia physical therapy board to grant registration, and denial of application was not arbitrary. A. F. Olsen v. District of Columbia Physical Therapists Examining Board (D.C. App. 1967, 227 A. 2d 392).

Applicant for registration without examination as physical therapist under grandfather clause of statute having been granted full hearing before physical therapist examining board and was given opportunity to present any evidence he desired, there was no unfairness in proceedings Id.

Uncontradicted testimony

Uncontradicted testimony of petitioner applying for registration as physical therapist without requirement of examination that he practiced physical therapy was not sufficient, and something more was required than his self-serving declarations. F. H. Carbon v. Physical Therapists Examining Board etc. (D.C. App. 1968, 242 A. 2d 835).

Any person aggrieved by any final decision or final order of the Commissioners denying, suspending, or revoking any registration, or renewal of registration, issued or applied for under this subchapter may obtain a review thereof in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. Chapter 5.—OPTOMETRISTS

§ 2–501. "Optometry" defined.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Purpose of statute regulating the practice of optometry was to provide protection for the public and legislature intended examination of eye and adaptation of lenses to be separate acts of optometry. N. Fields v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 300).

§ 2–502. Practice of optometry without license prohibited—Misrepresentation—False impersonation—Penalties.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Basis for review

Although a number of individuals will be affected by a decision of District of Columbia Court of Appeals that of itself is not enough to require United States Court of Appeals to exercise its discretion and review the decision; rather, the nature of the question presented and the soundness of the decision are the proper considerations. N. Fields v. District of Columbia (1968, 404 F. 2d 1323, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 347).

District of Columbia Court of Appeals' decision adjudging that petitioner, an optician, had unlawfully practiced optometry without a license by his unsupervised fitting of contact lenses was proper and United States Court of Appeals would not in its discretion review such decision. Id.

United States Court of Appeals is not required to review District of Columbia Court of Appeals decision when what is involved is interpretation of a local statute, regulation, or ordinance; the interpretation given is within the zone of what is reasonable; the prosecution is for an offense malum prohibitum that is brought by the District of Columbia and not by the United States; and the case does not involve overtones of fundamental rights or substantial allegations of executive action as ultra vires or overreaching. Id.

Practice of optometry

Evidence showed that acts performed by optician in fitting patient's lenses involved areas of judgment and skill necessary to the adaptation of lenses within the meaning of optometry statute. N. Fields v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 300).

Optician's contention that he would refer patient back to physician who had originally written prescription for glasses did not excuse his practice of optometry at the time of fitting. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Aid to families with dependent children

Both need and deprivation must be shown when a child seeks to qualify for assistance payments under the District of Columbia's AFDC program. M. E. Trull v. District of Columbia Department of Public Welfare (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 859).

Children of father, who was living at home and who was able-bodied and employable, are not qualified to receive assistance payments as "dependent" children under AFDC program, despite father's failure and refusal to work and support family. Id.

Fact that assistance payments under the District's AFDC program are not provided to a child when unemployed parent refuses to accept employment without good cause does not serve to establish that the District of Columbia has failed to implement its assistance program pursuant to Social Security Act providing for aid to dependent children of unemployed fathers under certain specified conditions. Id.

In establishing the standard of need and determining level of benefits to be paid to a mother receiving public assistance under Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Congress has left to the States a great deal of discretion. C. Daniels v. W. G. Thompson, Director etc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 437).

States' or District of Columbia's discretion, in establishing the standard of need and determining level of benefits to be paid to mothers receiving public assistance under Aid to Families with Dependent Children, is limited to fixing an amount needed by variously composed recipient units and to determining how much the State or District of Columbia is able to pay; thus, at least in its role of determining standard of need and level of benefits, a determination of what income is to be regarded and what disregarded as a resource available to the recipient unit is not within the District's discretion. Id.

To the extent Congress has dictated terms and conditions of AFDC payments, the District of Columbia is required to administer the program accordingly. Id.

Under the Social Security Act and the District of Columbia regulations promulgated thereunder, a 17-year-old mother, who is a full time student in high school and also employed in a "stay-in-school" program, is not entitled to have all of her income disregarded in determining amount of benefits to which she and her son were entitled under Aid to Families with Dependent Children, but rather is entitled to have first $30 of her income and one-third of the remainder disregarded. Id.

Validity of regulation

"Substitute parent" section of "Handbook of Public Assistance Policies and Procedures" promulgated by the Welfare Department was in fact a regulation but, not having been adopted by the Commissioners in manner prescribed by section 3–202, was invalidly promulgated; further, said regulation was inconsistent with the Social Security Act; however, it was not necessary or appropriate to grant extraordinary injunctive relief against the District of Columbia Department of Welfare, since the Department had ceased applying that regulation and was otherwise presently administering the "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" program within scope and spirit of King v. Smith decision of United States Supreme Court. I. Robinson et al. v. W. E. Washington et al. (1968, 302 F. Supp. 842).

§ 3–203. Eligibility for public assistance.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Administrators discretion with regard to one-year residence requirement

District of Columbia Public Assistance Act did not grant administrators a discretion to disregard one-year residence requirements. M. Harrell et al. v. W. N. Tobriner et al. (1967, 279 F. Supp. 22; aff'd 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618).

Consistent and reasonable interpretation by those charged with duty of administering District of Columbia Public Assistance Act was entitled to great weight. Id.

Under District of Columbia Public Assistance Act, "public assistance shall be awarded" to those who meet the one-year conditions meant that assistance was not to be granted unless those conditions were met. Id.

Congressional discretion

One-year residence requirement as a requisite for receipt of public assistance was within discretion of Congress. M. Harrell et al. v. The Board of Commissioners etc. (1967, 269 F. Supp. 919).

Constitutionality

Inasmuch as statutory classification which denied welfare assistance to individuals who had not resided in state for one year immediately preceding application touched on fundamental right of interstate movement, its constitutionality was required to be judged by standard of whether it promoted a compelling state interest, and not by traditional standard of whether it was without any reasonable basis. W. E. Washington et al. v. C. M. Legrant et al. (1969, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618; aff'g 279 F. Supp. 22).

A substantial constitutional question was not raised by contention that one-year residence requirement for public welfare is unconstitutional. M. Harrell et al. v. The Board of Commissioners, etc. (1967, 269 F. Supp. 919).

One-year prior residence condition for public assistance was invalid classification in denial of equal protection as being without reasonable relation to purposes of legislation. M. Harrell et al. v. W. N. Tobriner et al. (1967, 279 F. Supp. 22; aff'd 89 S Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618).

Invalidation of one-year prior residence condition for public assistance could not invalidate whole public assistance program. Id.

Due process

Due process clause of Fifth Amendment forbids Congress from denying public assistance to poor persons who are otherwise eligible solely on the ground that they have not been residents of the District of Columbia for one year at time their applications were filed. W. E. Washington et al. v. C. M. Legrant et al. (1969, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618; aff'g 279 F. Supp. 22).

Equal protection of the laws

Statute denying welfare benefits to residents of less than a year creates a classification which constitutes an invidious discrimination denying them equal protection of the laws. W. E. Washington et al. v. C. M. Legrant et al. (1969, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618; aff'g 279 F. Supp. 22).

Justification for statutory classification

Statute which denied welfare assistance to individuals who had not resided in state for one year immediately preceding application could not be justified as a permissible state attempt to discourage those indigents who would enter state solely to obtain larger benefits. W. E. Washington et al. v. C. M. Legrant et al. (1969, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618; aff'g 279 F. Supp. 22).

Statute which denied welfare assistance to individuals who had not resided in state for one year immediately preceding application could not be sustained as an attempt to distinguish between new and old residents on basis of contribution they had made to community through payment of taxes. Id.

Evidence of a rational relationship between one-year residency requirement for receiving welfare assistance and state objectives of facilitating planning of welfare budget, of providing objective test of residency, of minimizing opportunity for recipients fraudulently to receive payments for more than one jurisdiction, and of encouraging reentry of new residents into labor force would not suffice to justify classification. Id.

One-year residency requirement

One-year residency requirement was not justified on ground that it facilitated planning of welfare budget. W. E. Washington et al. v. C. M. Legrant et al. (1969, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618; aff'g 279 F. Supp. 22).

One-year residency requirement was not justified on ground that it provided objective test of residency. Id.

One-year residency requirement was not justified on ground that it minimized opportunity for recipients fraudulently to receive payments from more than one jurisdiction. Id.

One-year residency requirement was not justified on ground that it encouraged early entry of new residents into labor force. Id.

Reasonableness of one-year residence requirement

One-year prior residence condition for public assistance could not be said to be reasonable on theory that it was designed to protect jurisdiction from an influx of persons seeking more generous public assistance than might be available elsewhere, even if some citizens did enter jurisdiction in order to obtain greater welfare aid. M. Harrell et al. v. W. N. Tobriner et al. (1967, 279 F. Supp. 22; aff'd 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618).

Even assuming that a one-year prior residence condition for public assistance was valid as a provision to prevent abuse of public assistance, case of abuse was not established where challenged provisions swept before it all who had less than the required residence, including bona fide residents who had come to jurisdiction for reasons disassociated entirely from a desire to obtain relief. Id.

Right to public assistance

Statutes denying welfare assistance to persons who did not reside within district for at least one year could not be saved from constitutional infirmity on ground that public assistance benefits are a privilege and not a right. W. E. Washington et al. v. C. M. Legrant et al. (1969, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 394 U.S. 618; aff'g 279 F. Supp. 22).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Declaratory and injunctive relief

In an action seeking declaratory and injunctive relief, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia properly declined jurisdiction of suit by mothers receiving assistance under District of Columbia Aid to Families with Dependent Children program against Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia and other officials having responsibilities with regard to the program with respect to administration of program because mothers, prior to invoking aid of District Court, did not pursue avenues of administrative relief open to them. *P. Any such lien may be enforced by a proceeding filed in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. REFERENCES IN TEXT

The words "the effective date of this Act" appearing in subsec. (c) would seem to refer to the date of the amendatory Act (Pub. L. 91–531, Dec. 7, 1970) rather than to the effective date of the District of Columbia Public Assistance Act of 1962.

The Act of April 11, 1956 (70 Stat. 111), referred to in subsec. (c), was originally classified to §§ 11–758 to 11–770. That Act was later repealed by § 21 of the Act of Dec. 23, 1963, Pub. L. 88–241, 77 Stat. 620, and replaced by §§ 11–741, 11–1101 to 11–1103, 11–1121, 11–1122, 11–1141, 11–1161, 13–101, 13–301, 13–302, 15–132, 15–710, 17–302, 17–305 to 17–307. A majority of these sections were either amended or superseded by the amendments of titles 11, 13, 15, and 17 made by the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970 (Title I of Pub. L. 91–358).

CODIFICATION

Section 165(c) of Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, repealed subsec. (c) of section 19 of the District of Columbia Public Assistance Act of 1962 (D.C. Code, § 3–218), effective Feb. 1, 1971. Subsequent to enactment of Pub. L. 91–358, the Act of Dec. 7, 1970, Pub. L. 91–531, amended section 19 of the District of Columbia Public Assistance Act (which included a subsec. (c)) to read as above set out.

AMENDMENTS

1970—Act Dec. 7, 1970, Pub. L. 91–531, amended section to read as above set out. For provisions of section before this amendment, see the 1967 edition of the code.

Section 165(c) of Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, repealed subsection (c) which related to court proceedings to enforce support.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

The Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act, section 30–301 et seq., requiring husband, wife, father, mother, or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible, according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, does not deny due process. C. Groover v. Essex County Welfare Board (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 143).

Fact that county welfare board sought to collect support for mother only from one son under Uniform Act requiring husband, wife, father, mother, or adult child of recipient of public assistance to be responsible according to his ability to pay, for support of such recipient, and not from other children, who live in other jurisdictions, and who are allegedly able to contribute, does not render application of such chapter to son a deniel of equal protection. Id.

Support and education of adult child

A father is not legally required to support and educate an adult child, except as specified by statute when the child is in need of public assistance or is hospitalized because of mental illness. W. T. Spence v. F. A. Spence (D.C. App. 1970, 266 A. 2d 29).

Survival of action against relatives for support

Where 84-year-old widow invoked the District of Columbia Public Assistance Act of 1962 against her eldest daughter, and the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions denied recovery, and, pending appeal to District of Columbia Court of Appeals, widow died, and her daughter moved for dismissal for mootness against substituted executor, District of Columbia Survival Act did not require abatement, and it was error to grant motion for dismissal for mootness. J. M. Stone, Executor etc. v. A. W. Brewster (1968, 399 F. 2d 554, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

The District of Columbia Survival Act was enacted for purpose of abrogating, in part at least, the harsh rule of the common law on the subject of survival, but its terms apply to any case in which a right of action has accrued prior to death, with certain limitation in tort cases. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Validity of regulation

"Substitute parent" section of "Handbook of Public Assistance Policies and Procedures" promulgated by the Welfare Department was in fact a regulation but, not having been adopted by the Commissioners in manner prescribed by section 3–202, was invalidly promulgated; further, said regulation was inconsistent with the Social Security Act; however, it was not necessary or appropriate to grant extraordinary injunctive relief against the District of Columbia Department of Welfare, since the Department had ceased applying that regulation and was otherwise presently administering the "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" program within scope and spirit of King v. Smith decision of United States Supreme Court. I. Robinson et al. v. W. E. Washington et al. (1968, 302 F. Supp. 842).

No person shall receive a permanent appointment who has not served the required probationary period, but the service during probation shall be deemed to be service in the uniformed force if succeeded by a permanent appointment, and as such shall be included and counted in determining eligibility for advancement, promotion, retirement, and pension in accordance with existing law. If at any time during the period of probation, the conduct or capacity of the probationer is determined by the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, or his designated agent, to be unsatisfactory, the probationer shall be separated from the service after advance written notification of the reasons for and the effective date of the separation. The retention of the probationer in the service after satisfactory completion of the probationary period shall be equivalent to a permanent appointment therein. (Aug. 31, 1918, 40 Stat. 938, ch. 164; May 27, 1968, Pub. L. 90–320, § 6, 82 Stat. 145.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Arrest powers of special officer

A special officer commissioned under this section, as a citizen, had authority to arrest defendant and codefendant where he saw them take at least three sport coats and, from his general knowledge and particularly as employee of the department store, he must have known that such coats would cost about $35 apiece so that defendant was stealing more than $100 worth of merchandise. Moreover, a citizen, need not make a rapid-fire calculation of the value of the merchandise in arresting a shoplifter. *T. Gaither and C. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Mandamus

Without a full record of the trial, even if petitioner was constitutionally entitled to further protection of his rights during hospital staff conference held in connection with a pre-indictment mental examination requested by petitioner, it could not be said that presence of petitioner's counsel, as opposed to some alternative device such as recording some or all parts of conference, was an appropriate remedy, so that mandamus to compel an order against hospital to permit presence of petitioner's counsel was not available. R. N. Thornton v. Hon. H. F. Corcoran (1969, 407 F. 2d 695, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 232).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Administrative due process

Where it was arguable whether administrative officials of District of Columbia charged with determining suspended policeman's right to recover back pay had failed to exercise discretionary power vested in them by statute and it was also arguable whether, even if they did exercise their authority, they did so in such a way as to deprive him of administrative due process, court could not presume that policeman had right to be paid during period of his suspension and appropriate remedy was not a money judgment. *H. NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Arrest without warrant

Although a police officer may make an arrest without a warrant for an offense committed in his presence, and incident thereto make a search for weapons, an arrest may not be used as a subterfuge to search for evidence of a crime. J. R. West et ano. v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 249 A. 2d 740).

Police officer may arrest without a warrant, for misdemeanor of destroying private property only when that crime is committed, or attempt is made to commit it, in his presence or view. S. Smith and W. Jeffries v. United States (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 293).

Officer had probable cause to arrest defendant who had been observed tearing up back seat of automobile which he admitted was not his on charge of destroying private property. Id.

Probable cause for arrest

Legality of arrest in our jurisprudence hinges on conclusions of probable cause derived from reasonable probabilities, not absence of doubt, which reasonable men may entertain. United States v. R. H. Cumberland (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 341).

A judge or arresting officer need not have evidence before him sufficient to establish guilt beyond a reasonable doubt to find probable cause for arrest. Id.

It is enough if the officer in particular circumstances, conditioned by his observations, and information, reasonably could have believed that a crime had been committed by the person to be arrested. Id.

A police officer need only have probable cause to believe that a crime has been committed in his presence by the person to be arrested in order to make warrantless arrest. Id.

A police officer is not required to anticipate changes in the law when deciding whether to make warrantless arrest. Id.

A police officer was required only to reasonably believe that defendant's conduct amounted to a misdemeanor and a breach of the peace or that breach of the peace was threatened or probable and not that it was beyond reasonable doubt that defendant had committed crime in order to make valid warrantless arrest. Id.

A police officer in the District of Columbia has the power to make a warrantless arrest of a citizen when he has probable cause to believe that the citizen has committed felony or certain misdemeanors designated by statute, and the classic test for probable cause is whether the officer had knowledge of facts and circumstances which would warrant a prudent man in believing that an offense had been committed. A. B. Clarke v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 782).

Search and seizure

Since the defendant was permitted to forfeit amount deposited as collateral on a disorderly charge, further detention and search of his wallet was improper, and seizure of stolen check from wallet was unreasonable and prohibited by the Fourth Amendment. United States v. E. Alston (1967, 311 F. Supp. 296).

§ 4–140a. Investigative arrests—Maximum period for questioning—Admissibility of confessions.

(a) Any person arrested in the District of Columbia may be questioned with respect to any matter for a period not to exceed three hours immediately following his arrest. Such person shall be advised of and accorded his rights under applicable law respecting any such interrogation. In the case of any such arrested person who is released without being charged with a crime, his detention shall not be recorded as an arrest in any official record.

(b) Any statement, admission, or confession made by an arrested person within three hours immediately following his arrest shall not be excluded from evidence in the courts of the District of Columbia solely because of delay in presentment. (Dec. 27, 1967, Pub. L. 90–226, § 301, title III, 81 Stat. 735.)

SENTENCE FOR OFFENSES COMMITTED PRIOR TO DEC. 27, 1967

Section 1101, Act Dec. 27, 1967, Pub. L. 90–226, provided:

Whoever, prior to the date of enactment of this Act [Pub. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Additional evidence on rehearing

Where police officer in District of Columbia was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, and it was determined that officer was entitled to reconsideration of his case because Board failed to make any findings to sustain its conclusion that disability was not work related, and in the meantime functions of Board had been transferred to single Commissioner, commonly referred to as the Mayor, parties were entitled to submit additional evidence on reconsideration by the single Commissioner. L. C. Wingo v. W. E. Washington et al. (1968, 395 F. 2d 633, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 410).

Findings by Board required

Where police officer was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, action of Board was entitled to weight, but only if there were relevant findings and findings in turn were supported by adequate evidence, and findings must be enough to indicate that consideration was given by Board to claims of fact put forward by offiecr especially where his claims had at least some appearance of reasonableness and substantiality. L. C. Wingo v. W. E. Washington et al. (1968, 395 F. 2d 633, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 410).

Where police officer in District of Columbia was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, essential findings by Board were required to be detailed only once by Board. Id.

Where police officer in District of Columbia was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, officer was entitled to reconsideration, in absence of findings by Board, which merely registered its conclusion that disability of officer was not work related. Id.

Proof of non-service-connected disability

Where it is District of Columbia police department which initiates proceeding to retire officer against his will and for a disability which is alleged to be unrelated to his official service, the evidence of such lack of connection should clearly preponderate and be substantial and persuasive. L. C. Wingo v. W. E. Washington et al. (1968, 395 F. 2d 633, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 410).

Where police officer in District of Columbia was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, determination that officer's disability was not related to his service was required to be supported by substantial and persuasive evidence and was required to be supported by findings of board setting forth material facts. Id.

Second, if there be no such beneficiary, to the child or children of such deceased member and the descendants of deceased children by representation;

Third, if there be none of the above, to the parents of such member, or the survivor of them;

(4) In order to facilitate the settlement of the accounts of each former member coming under the provisions of sections 4–521 to 4–535 who dies after retirement (1) leaving no survivor entitled to receive an annuity under the provisions of sections 4–521 to 4–535 and (2) before the aggregate amount of the annuity paid to such former member equals the total amount deducted and withheld for retirement from his salary as a member, the Commissioner shall pay the difference to the person or persons surviving at the time of death in the following order of precedence, and such payment shall be a bar to recovery by any other person of the amount so paid:

First, to the beneficiary or beneficiaries designated in writing by such former member, filed with the Commissioner and received by him prior to the death of such former member;

Second, if there be no such beneficiary, to the child or children of such deceased former member and the descendants of deceased children by representation;

Third, if there be none of the above, to the parents of such former member, or the survivor of them; and

Fourth, if there be none of the above, to the duly appointed legal representative of the estate of the deceased former member, or if there be none to the person or persons determined to be entitled thereto under the laws of the domicile of the deceased former member: Provided, That if no natural person is determined to be entitled thereto such payment shall escheat to the government of the District of Columbia. (Sept. 1, 1916, ch. 433, § 12(d), as added Aug. 21, 1957, 71 Stat. 393, Pub. L. 85–157, § 3, and amended Aug. 20, 1958, 72 Stat. 686, Pub. L. 85–693, § 1; Oct. 26, 1970, Pub. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Where police officer in District of Columbia was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, and it was determined that officer was entitled to reconsideration of his case because Board failed to make any findings to sustain its conclusion that disability was not work related, and in the meantime functions of Board had been transferred to single Commissioner, commonly referred to as the Mayor, parties were entitled to submit additional evidence on reconsideration by the single Commissioner. *L. Findings by Board required

Where police officer was discharged for mental disability allegedly not caused or aggravated in line of duty following hearing before Police and Firemen's Retirement and Relief Board, so that he was not entitled to pension, action of Board was entitled to weight, but only if there were relevant findings and findings in turn were supported by adequate evidence, and findings must be enough to indicate that consideration was given by Board to claims of fact put forward by officer especially where his claims had at least some appearance of reasonableness and substantiality. *L. Proof of non-service-connected disability

Where it is District of Columbia police department which initiates proceeding to retire officer against his will and for a disability which is alleged to be unrelated to his official service, the evidence of such lack of connection should clearly preponderate and be substantial and persuasive. *L. (1) If any annuitant retired under section 4–526 or 4–527, before reaching the age of fifty, recovers from his disability or is restored to an earning capacity fairly comparable to the current rate of compensation of the position occupied at the time of retirement, payment of the annuity shall cease (1) upon reemployment in the department from which he was retired, (2) one year from the date of the medical examination showing such recovery, or (3) one year from the date of determination that he is so restored, whichever is earliest. Earning capacity shall be deemed restored if in each of two succeeding calendar years the income of the annuitant from wages or self-employment or both shall be equal to at least 80 per centum of the current rate of compensation of the position occupied immediately prior to retirement. Nothing in this section shall preclude such member from having an annuity reestablished if his disability recurs, or when his earning capacity is less than 80 per centum of the rate of compensation of the position occupied immediately prior to retirement for any full year thereafter: Provided, That whenever any member is reinstated with his respective department it shall be at the same grade or rank held by the member at the time of his retirement.

(2) When an annuitant recovers prior to age fifty from a disabling condition for which he has been retired, and applies for reinstatement in the department from which he was retired, he shall be reinstated in the same or nearest equivalent grade and salary available as that received at the time of his separation from the service: Provided, That such applicant meets the current entrance requirements of such department as to character. (1) In the event that any member dies in the performance of duty, and such death is determined by the Commissioner to have been the sole and direct result of a personal injury sustained while performing such duty, leaving a survivor who received more than one-half his support from a member, such survivor shall be entitled to receive a lump sum payment of $50,000: Provided, That if such death is caused by the willful misconduct of the member or by the member's intention to bring about the death of himself, or if intoxication of the injured member is the proximate cause of such death, no such lump sum payment shall be made: And provided further, That if such member is survived by more than one person who received more than one-half of his support from the member, each such survivor shall be entitled to receive an equal share of such lump-sum payment.

(2) In case of the death of any member before retirement, or of any former member after retirement, leaving a widow or widower, such widow or widower shall be entitled to receive an annuity in the greater amount of (1) 40 per centum of such member's basic salary at the time of death, or 40 per centum of the basis upon which the annuity, relief, or retirement compensation being received by such former member at the time of death was computed, or (2) 40 per centum of the corresponding salary for step 6, subclass (a), class 1 of the District of Columbia Police and Firemen's Salary Act salary schedule currently in effect at the time of such member or former member's death: Provided, That such annuity shall not exceed the current rate of compensation of the position occupied by such member at the time of death, or by such former member immediately prior to retirement.

(3) Each surviving child or student-child of any member who dies before retirement, or of any former member who dies after retirement, shall be entitled to receive an annuity equal to the smallest of (1) 60 per centum of the member's basic salary at the time of his death or of the basis upon which the former member's annuity at the time of his death was computed, divided by the number of eligible children; (2) $996; or (3) $2,988 divided by the number of eligible children: Provided, That such member or former member is survived by a wife or husband. If such member or former member is not survived by a wife or husband, each surviving child or student-child shall be paid an annuity equal to the smallest of (1) 75 per centum of the member's basic salary at the time of his death or of the basis upon which the former member's annuity at the time of his death was computed, divided by the number of eligible children; (2) $1,200; or (3) $3,600 divided by the number of eligible children.

(4) Each widow or widower who, on the effective date of the Policemen and Firemen's Retirement and Disability Act Amendments of 1970, was receiving relief or annuity computed in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be entitled to receive an annuity in the greater amount of (1) $3,144; or (2) 35 per centum of the basis upon which such relief or annuity was computed. Each child who, on said effective date, was receiving relief or annuity computed in accordance with the provisions of this section, shall be entitled to benefits computed in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (3) of this section.

(5) The annuity of any widow or widower under this section shall begin on the first day of the month in which the member or former member dies, and such annuity or any right thereto shall terminate upon the survivor's death or remarriage before age sixty: Provided, That any annuity terminated by remarriage may be restored if such remarriage is later terminated by death, annulment, or divorce. The annuity of any child under this section shall begin on the first day of the month in which the member or former member dies, and such annuity of such child or any right thereto shall terminate upon (A) his attaining age eighteen, unless incapable of self-support, (B) his becoming capable of self-support after age eighteen, (C) his marriage, or (D) his death. The annuity of any student-child under this section shall begin on the first day of the month in which the member or former member dies, and such annuity of such child or any right thereto shall terminate upon (i) his ceasing to be a student, (ii) his attaining age twenty-two, (iii) his marriage, or (iv) his death. Such student-child whose birthday falls during the school year (September 1 to June 30) shall be considered not to have reached age twenty-two until July 1 following his actual twenty-second birthday.

(6) Any member retiring under section 4–526, 4–527, or 4–528, may at the time of such retirement, elect to receive a reduced annuity in lieu of full annuity, and designate in writing the person to receive an increased annuity after the retired annuitant's death: Provided, That the person so designated be the surviving spouse or child of the retiring member. Whenever such an election is made, the annuity of the designee shall be increased by an amount equal to the amount by which the annuity of such retiring member is reduced. The annuity payable to the member making such election shall be reduced by 10 per centum of the annuity computed as provided in section 4–526, 4–527, or 4–528. Such increase in annuity payable to the designee shall be reduced by 5 per centum for each full five years the designee is younger than the retiring member, but such total reduction shall not exceed 40 per centum. The increase in annuity payable to the designee pursuant to this paragraph shall be paid in addition to the annuity provided for such designee pursuant to paragraph (2) or (3) of this section and shall be subject to the same limitations as to duration and other conditions as the annuity paid pursuant to paragraphs (2), (3), and (5) of this section. If, at any time after such former member's retirement, the designee dies, and is survived by such former member, the annuity payable to such former member shall be increased to the amount computed as provided in section 4–526, 4–527, or 4–528.

(7) (i) Each month after the effective date of this section the Commissioner shall determine the per centum change in the price index. On the basis of this determination, and effective the first day of the third month which begins after the price index shall have equaled the rise of at least 3 per centum for three consecutive months over the price index for the base month, each annuity payable under this section which has a commencing date not later than such effective date shall be increased by 1 per centum plus the per centum rise in the price index (calculated on the highest level of the price index during the three consecutive months) adjusted to the nearest one-tenth of 1 per centum.

(ii) The monthly installment of annuity after adjustment under this section shall be fixed at the nearest dollar, except that such installment shall after adjustment reflect an increase of at least $1.

(iii) For purposes of this section, the term "price index" shall mean the Consumer Price Index (all items—United States city average) published monthly by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The term "base month" shall mean the month for which the price index showed a per centum rise, forming the basis for a cost-of-living annuity increase. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence

Evidence in action for declaratory relief with respect to rights of grantor and grantees of quitclaim deed in and to two alleys situated in District of Columbia did not establish that alleys were, in fact, owned by the District of Columbia. S. S. Zlotnick et ano. v. J. I. Benders & Sons, Inc. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 548).

Evidence in action to determine rights in alleys established that defendant had trespassed on alley "B" and obstructed alley "A" in manner as to seriously interfere with plaintiffs' rights and in open and complete disregard of plaintiffs' rights. Id.

Injunction

Where neither plaintiffs nor defendant could permanently obstruct alley without permission of the other, injunction would issue to require defendant to remove concrete step from alley. S. S. Zlotnick et ano. v. J. I. Benders & Sons, Inc. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 548).

Where grantees had acquired all of grantor's right, title and interest in and to an easement in an alley and grantor had not established prescriptive easement to maintain air shaft into alley, District Court would issue specific injunction to grantor to remove air shaft and to prohibit doors of grantor's building opening outwards into alley without express written permission of grantees. Id.

Parties in interest

Where District of Columbia was not party to action to determine rights of grantor and grantees of quitclaim deed to alley, decree would not be binding upon District of Columbia. S. S. Zlotnick et ano. v. J. I. Benders & Sons, Inc. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 548.)

All projects now operated and maintained by the National Capital Housing Authority pursuant to sections 5–103 to 5–111 are deemed to be low-rent housing projects and may be consolidated, pursuant to section 1415(6) of title 42 U.S. Code, into any contract for annual contributions covering projects maintained and operated pursuant to sections 5–112 to 5–116. (Aug. 1, 1968, Pub. L. 90–448, § 1711, title XVII, 82 Stat. 607.)

Upon the filing of such plat and petition in the office of said commissioners, or when the commissioners shall deem that the public interests require it, the said commissioners shall institute condemnation proceedings in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, by a petition in rem, particularly describing the land to be taken, which petition shall be accompanied by duplicate plats, to be prepared by the surveyor of said District, showing the location of said proposed building lines, the number of square feet to be taken from each lot or part of lot and the boundaries thereof in each square or block, and such other information as may be necessary for the purposes of such condemnation. Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding sentence and section 7 of the Act of February 22, 1921 (41 Stat. 1144), in the case of a single unit motor vehicle which has three or more axles and is designed to unload itself and which is operated in the District of Columbia under an annual hauling permit of the District of Columbia, the fee for such permit shall be as follows:

REFERENCE IN TEXT

The exception from section 7 of the Act of February 22, 1921 (41 Stat. 1144), referred to in text, appears to be superfluous in view of section 18 of Act June 28, 1944

(classified to § 47–130a) and of the last sentence providing that the proceeds of such fees shall be deposited in the highway fund.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Classification

Validity of zoning classification, excluding high-rise construction, is not impaired by fact that classification adopted was not proposed in notice for hearing, while high-rise classification was proposed, where it did not appear that subject of the change was not aired at hearing, and zoning commission's reason for adopting exclusionary classification was unlikelihood that high-rise construction was then needed, and objecting party's predecessor, who owned property at time of zoning, did not object over period of years. *S. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Accessory uses

In a case where restrictions provided in an urban renewal plan on uses to which property involved might be put were specifically stated to be covenants running with land in favor of the owners of adjoining property, the owners of neighboring property with interest in proposing to lease space in buildings that they had erected and intended to erect for commercial purposes on neighboring land had standing to sue as to what "accessory uses" were permitted. L'Enfant Plaza North, Inc. v. District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency, et al. (1969, 300 F. Supp. 426).

All administrative remedies had been exhausted in a case where the chairman of redevelopment land agency stated in letter that board interpreted phrase "accessory uses" as permitting accessory uses other than the two named and where acting director of bureau of licenses and inspections stated that ordinarily if redevelopment land agency notified the bureau that proposed use conformed to urban renewal plan bureau would issue certificate of occupancy for use, and there existed an actual controversy for decision by the courts. Id.

An interpretation that phrase "accessory uses" permitted accessory uses other than those named in provision in urban renewal plan, allowing owner of land in question to erect building limited to offices and accessory uses such as employee restaurants and off-street parking necessary to serve primary uses, was not unreasonable or erroneous and would not be upset. Id.

(b) Subject to the approval of the District Commissioners, the Agency is authorized to accept from the Secretary advances of funds for surveys and plans in preparation of a project or projects authorized by sections 5–701 to 5–719 which may be assisted under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, and the Agency is authorized to transfer to the Planning Commission so much of the funds so advanced as the District Commissioners shall determine to be necessary for the Planning Commission to carry out its functions under sections 5–701 to 5–719 with respect to the project or projects to be assisted under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended.

(c) The District Commissioners are authorized to include in their annual estimates of appropriations items for administrative expenses which, in addition to loan or other funds available therefor, are necessary for the Agency in carrying out its functions under this section.

(d) Notwithstanding the limitation contained in the last sentence of section 110(d) or in any other provision of title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, the Secretary is authorized to allow and credit to the Agency such local grants-in-aid as are approvable pursuant to said section 110(d) with respect to any project or projects undertaken by the Agency under a contract or contracts entered into under this section and assisted under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended. The District Commissioners shall include items for such cash payments in their annual estimates of appropriations, and there are hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the amounts necessary to provide for such cash payments. Any amounts due the Secretary pursuant to any such agreements shall be paid promptly from funds appropriated for such purpose.

(e) All receipts of the Agency in connection with any project or projects financed in accordance with this section with assistance under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, whether in the form of advances of funds, loans, or capital grants made by the Secretary to the Agency, or in the form of proceeds, rentals, or revenues derived by the Agency from any such project or projects, shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of a special fund or funds, and all moneys in such special fund or funds are hereby made available for carrying out the purposes of sections 5–701 to 5–719 with respect to such project or projects, including the payment of any advances of funds or loans, together with interest thereon, made by the Secretary or by private sources to the Agency. Expenditures from such fund shall be audited, disbursed, and accounted for as are other funds of the District of Columbia.

(f) With respect to any project or projects undertaken by the Agency which are financed in accordance with this section with assistance under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended—

(1) sections 5–702(f), 5–702(k), and 5–706 (g), and the last sentence of section 5–705(b) (2) shall not be applicable to those pieces of real property which, in accordance with the approved project area redevelopment plan, are to be devoted to public housing to be undertaken under Public Law 307, Seventy-third Congress, approved June 12, 1934, as amended;

(g) It is the purpose and intent of this section to authorize the District Commissioners and the appropriate agencies operating within the District of Columbia to do any and all things necessary to secure financial aid under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended. The District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency is hereby declared to be a local public agency for all of the purposes of title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended. As such a local public agency for all of the purposes of title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, the Agency is also authorized to borrow money from the Secretary or from private sources as contemplated by title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, to issue its obligations evidencing such loans, and to pledge as security for the payment of such loans and the interest thereon, the property, income, revenues, and other assets acquired in connection with the project or projects financed in accordance with this section with assistance under title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, but such obligations or such pledge shall not constitute a debt or obligation of either the United States or of the District of Columbia.

(h) Nothing contained in this section or in sections 5–701 to 5–719 shall relieve the Secretary of his responsibilities and duties under section 105 (c) or any other section of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended. The Secretary shall not enter into any contract of financial assistance under title I of this Act with respect to any project of the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency for which a budget estimate of appropriation was transmitted pursuant to law and for which no appropriation was made by the Congress.

(i) In addition to its authority under any other provision of sections 5–701 to 5–719, the Agency is hereby authorized to plan and undertake urban renewal projects (as such projects are now or may hereafter be defined in title I of the Housing Act of 1949, including but not limited to projects authorized without regard to the residential or nonresidential character or reuse of the urban renewal area), and in connection therewith the Agency, the District Commissioners, the National Capital Planning Commission, and the other appropriate agencies operating within the District of Columbia shall have all of the rights and powers which they have with respect to a project or projects financed in accordance with the preceding subsections of this section: Provided, That for the purpose of this subsection the word "redevelopment" wherever found in sections 5–701 to 5–719 (except in section 5–702 (n)) shall mean "urban renewal", and the references in section 5–705 to the acquisition, disposition, or assembly of real property for a project shall mean the undertaking of an urban renewal project.

(j) The District Commissioners are hereby authorized to prepare a workable program as prescribed by section 101(c) of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, and are also authorized to request the necessary funds for the preparation of said workable program. The Commissioners may request the participation of the Agency in the preparation of said workable program and may include in their annual estimates of appropriations such funds as may be required by the Commissioners or the Agency, or both, for this purpose. The District Commissioners are hereby authorized, with or without reimbursement, to cooperate with the Agency in carrying out urban renewal projects and to utilize for that purpose the facilities and personnel of the District of Columbia under agreement with the Agency. § 5–723. Same; Agency authorized to lease property—Limitations on other transfers—No transfer of funds required if property is acquired by District or Agency of United States—Owners of displaced business concerns to have priority in leasing privileges — Notification — Rent formula — Residual value of land.

(b) In connection with the leasing of the real property transferred to the Agency under the authority of sections 5–720 to 5–727, together with the leasing of any real property lying between such real property so transferred and the southerly or westerly line of Maine Avenue as the same may be relocated in connection with carrying out an urban renewal plan, the Agency is authorized and directed to provide to the owner or owners of any business concern displaced from the area described in section 5–720, a priority of opportunity to lease, either individually or as a redevelopment company solely owned by the owner or owners of one or more such business concerns, so much of such real property lying channelward of the southerly or westerly line of Maine Avenue as so relocated, at a rental based on the use-value of the real property so leased determined in accordance with the provisions of section 5–709, and section 1460(c)(4) of title 42, U.S. Code, as may be required for the construction of commercial facilities at least substantially equal to the facilities from which such business concern was so displaced. The priority of opportunity created by this section is a personal right of the owners of businesses displaced. In the event of the death of any such owner of any such displaced business, the spouse of such owner, or, if there is no spouse, the children of such owner shall be entitled to exercise the priority of such owner in accordance with the provisions of this section, but in no event shall any such priority be otherwise transferable: Provided, however, That the spouse or the children, as the case may be, shall have no greater priority than the priority holder would have had if living. For the purposes of exercising such priority, the spouse or children, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be owner of such business concern so displaced. When the real property affected by the provisions of ths subsection becomes available for leasing by the Agency, the Agency shall notify, in writing, the owners of the business concerns displaced, as to the availability of such real property for leasing to such owners in accordance with the provisions of this subsection. The Agency shall give such owners so notified a period of one hundred and eighty days to notify the Agency, in writing, of their intention to proceed in accordance with the general development plan of the Agency for the area lying channelward of Maine Avenue, as so relocated, and to demonstrate to the Agency their ability to carry out so much of such plan as may be embraced within the area which they desire to lease. If at the end of such period of one hundred and eighty days, such owners have failed to make a demonstration to that effect which is satisfactory to the Agency, the priority of opportunity provided by this subsection shall no longer continue to be available to such owners, except that if after the end of such one-hundred-and-eighty-day period the Agency shall change the terms under which real property is to be leased, or the redevelopment plan for the area described in section 5–720 is changed so as to affect the economic value of the leasehold, the Agency shall in writing notify each such owner of the change or changes so made and give to such owner so notified a period of sixty days within which to advise the Agency in writing of his intention and to demonstrate his ability to proceed as aforesaid.

(c)(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, whenever, pursuant to subsection (b), the Agency offers leaseholds to persons entitled to a priority of opportunity to lease under the provisions of this section, the annual rent prescribed in such lease shall not exceed an amount which is the greater of—

(A) an amount equal to 6 per centum of the residual value of the land for the prescribed use to which any owner of a displaced business concern shall put such land under such lease;

(B) the annual amount which the Agency shall be required to pay in principal and interest on a forty-year loan of an amount equal to the residual value of the land under such lease which value is the residual value of the land which was determined by the Agency, in accordance with this subsection, and on the basis of which such land was initially leased under this section; or

(C) the sum of (i) the amount determined under subparagraph (A) or (B) of this paragraph, whichever is greater, and (ii) 50 per centum of the product of the occupancy cost factor for the class and character of the business of such lessee times the amount by which the lessee's actual annual gross sales income exceeds the estimated gross sales income (for the class and character of the displaced business) used by the Agency in determining the residual value of the land leased to such lessee.

In the case of any land which the Agency leases under this section, the annual rent prescribed by the Agency in the lease of such land shall not, during the forty-three-year period beginning on the date such land was first leased by the Agency under this section, be less than the amount determined under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph. In the case of any land which the Agency leases under this section to a displaced business, the residual value of such land—

(I) may be redetermined by the Agency after the expiration of twenty-five years from the date such land was first leased by the agency and at the end of each ten-year period thereafter, or

(II) shall be redetermined by the Agency if at the end of the twenty-five-year period from the date such land was first leased by the Agency or at the end of each ten-year period thereafter, the lessee requests the Agency to redetermine such residual value.

The residual value of such land shall make due allowance for the cost to the owner of the displaced business of all improvements and public charges on such land, and shall not exceed the maximum fair use value economically feasible to permit the reestablishment of a business of the class and character of such displaced business.

(2) Each business holding a lease under this Act shall furnish annually to the Agency (on such date as the Agency may by regulation prescribe) a copy of the sales tax return filed by such business under the District of Columbia Sales Tax Act, which copy was furnished to the business under section 47–2615(a). (As amended Dec. 6, 1967, Pub. L. 90–176, § 1, 81 Stat. 542.)

(a)(1) The District of Columbia Council (hereafter referred to in this chapter as the "Council") shall prescribe (A) within six months after July 30, 1968 regulations to control emissions in the District of Columbia of substances into the atmosphere, and (B) such other regulations to protect and improve air quality in the District of Columbia as it determines are necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter.

(4) The regulations prescribed by the Council under this chapter shall apply to any building, installation, or other property, which is located in the District of Columbia and which is under the jurisdiction of any department, agency, or instrumentality of the United States Government, only to the extent provided in Executive Order 11282 of May 26, 1966, any other Executive order of the President, and any Federal regulations, issued to carry out section 111 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 1857f).

(5) The Council may impose in any regulation prescribed under this chapter a fine (not to exceed $300) or imprisonment (not to exceed ninety days), or both, for a violation of such regulation; and may provide that if such violation is a continuing one, each day of such violation shall constitute a separate offense.

(b) In the formulation of any regulations under this chapter, the Council shall afford interested persons an opportunity to participate in the formulation of such regulations through submission of written data, views, or arguments with opportunity to present oral testimony and argument. TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(150) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section relating to making of regulations, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Compliance with Federal-aid highway statute

The fact that the action of the District of Columbia City Council in approving the Three Sisters Bridge was a direct result of congressional pressure and threats regarding rapid transit appropriations does not, in and of itself, establish noncompliance by the Council with the requirements of the federal-aid highway statute D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. J. A. Volpe et al. (1970, 316 F. Supp. 754).

Construction with other laws

Section 23 of the act of Aug. 23, 1968, Pub. L. 90–495, providing in part that, notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Transportation and government of District of Columbia should construct all routes of interstate system as soon as possible and "in accordance with all applicable provisions of Title 23 of the United States Code." and that District of Columbia should commence work on bridge meant that construction of bridge should proceed forthwith and did not require further compliance with planning or hearing requirements of Title 23 of the United States Code. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations et al. v. J. A. Volpe et al. (1970, 308 F. Supp. 423).

District officials may not disregard requirements of title 7

District of Columbia officials responsible for planning and construction of highway projects in the District had not been authorized by Congress by ratification by appropriation to disregard requirements of title 7 of the District of Columbia Code, relating to highways, streets and bridges, in the planning and construction of four links of proposed District of Columbia freeway system. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. T. F. Airis, Director etc. (1968, 391 F. 2d 478, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

Federal-Aid Highway acts have not given authority to District of Columbia officials responsible for planning and construction of highway projects in the District to proceed with planning and construction of four links of proposed District of Columbia freeway system without regard for title 7 of the District of Columbia Code relating to highways, streets and bridges. Id.

§ 7–102. Commissioners to have jurisdiction over public roads and bridges—Exceptions.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Care of streets and sidewalks

In denying a motion by the defendant, District of Columbia, for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict or in the alternative for a New Trial, the court held that the District of Columbia has primary responsibility for maintaining streets and sidewalks in reasonably safe condition, regardless of who owns the fee in such streets and sidewalks, in absence of special circumstances such as accumulation of snow or ice or improvement of the way in question by the United States. J. M. Conner et al. v. United States et al. (1970, 309 F. Supp. 446).

§ 7–106. Commissioners may change names of streets when two streets have same name.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(151) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

§ 7–107. Commissioners to name streets outside of city limits.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(152) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COUNCIL

Section 402(153) of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section to the extent provided in par. 153, to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Section 7–108 to 7–112, was intended to regulate wide Interstate Expressways. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. T. F. Airis, Director etc. (1968, 391 F. 2d 478, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

Construction with other laws

Federal-Aid Highway legislation is not inconsistent with District of Columbia Code sections limiting highway width to 160 feet, or with Code section directing the District government to assess land-owners abutting newly constructed highways for additional benefits. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. T. F. Airis, Director etc. (1968, 391 F. 2d 478, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125.)

Preparation, filing, and certification of plans

District of Columbia statutes requiring preparation by the commissioners of the district of a plan for permanent system of highways, that map depicting the system be filed and be certified to the National Capital Planning Commission for recommendations are applicable to local highway improvements but do not apply to highway improvements constructed with federal aid. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, et al. v. T. F. Airis, et al. (1967, 275 F. Supp. 533). But see contrary holding in 391 F. 2d 478.

Federal statute setting forth steps to be undertaken by states for the approval of highways to be constructed with federal aid are applicable to the District of Columbia. Id.

Suit to restrain expenditure of funds for highway projects

Civic associations did not have standing to sue District of Columbia officials to restrain expenditure of municipal funds for highway projects. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations et al. v. T. F. Airis, et al. (1967, 275 F. Supp. 533). But see decision of the court in 391 F. 2d 478.

Property owners whose property may be condemned for proposed freeways had no valid claim to equitable relief to restrain expenditures of municipal funds for highway projects as they had an adequate remedy of law by contesting condemnation proceeding, if and when one was brought. Id.

Property owners who owned property the value of which might be reduced by proposed highway projects did not have any legal personal rights that were being adversely affected and such owners did not have standing to maintain suit against District of Columbia officials to restrain expenditure of municipal funds for proposed highway projects. Id.

Users of public parks within sites of proposed highway projects who contended that their rights to use the parks would be interfered with by construction had no rights separate and apart from those of the rest of the public and park users had no standing to sue to restrain District of Columbia officials from expending municipal funds for proposed highway project. Id.

Central committee of political party which was not incorporated was not an entity and had no capacity to sue or be sued and could not maintain action against District of Columbia officials to restrain expenditure of municipal funds for construction of proposed highway projects. Id.

Taxpayers of District of Columbia had standing to maintain suit against District of Columbia officials, but not federal officials, to restrain expenditure of funds for proposed highway projects to be constructed with municipal and federal funds. Id.

If District of Columbia officials were not taking any step forbidden by law by the expenditure of funds for construction and planning of proposed highway projects, they were acting in accordance with law and taxpayers' suit to restrain expenditure of funds should be determined in favor of District of Columbia for the court has no authority to consider the merits of the projects as that is entirely and solely for consideration of legislative and executive branches of the government. Id.

§ 7–109. Permanent highway—Plans to be prepared in sections—Conformity to subdivisions—Plans to be submitted to National Capital Planning Commission—Recordation—Landowners to submit plat of proposed highways.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Compliance with Federal-aid highway statute

The fact that the action of the District of Columbia City Council in approving the Three Sisters Bridge was a direct result of congressional pressure and threats regarding rapid transit appropriations does not, in and of itself, establish noncompliance by the Council with the requirements of the federal-aid highway statute. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. J. A. Volpe et al. (1970, 316 F. Supp. 754.).

Construction with other laws

Section 23 of the act of Aug. 23, 1968, Pub. L. 90–495, providing in part that, notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Transportation and government of District of Columbia should construct all routes of interstate system as soon as possible and "in accordance with all applicable provisions of Title 23 of the United States Code" and that District of Columbia should commence work on bridge meant that construction of bridge should proceed forthwith and did not require further compliance with planning or hearing requirements of Title 23 of the United States Code. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations et al. v. J. A. Volpe et al. (1970, 308 F. Supp. 423).

§ 7–136. Authority to acquire and transfer to Secretary of the Interior real property in exchange for real property transferred to the District—Payments in lieu of transfer of property.

The Commissioner of the District of Columbia is authorized to acquire by purchase, donation, condemnation or otherwise, real property for transfer to the Secretary of the Interior in exchange or as replacement for park, parkway, and playground lands transferred to the District of Columbia for a public purpose pursuant to section 8–115 and the Commissioner is further authorized to transfer to the United States title to property so acquired.

Payments are authorized to be made by the Commissioner, and received by the Secretary of the Interior, in lieu of property transferred pursuant to the first paragraph of this section. The amount of such payment shall represent the cost to the Secretary of the Interior of acquiring real property suitable for replacement of the property so transferred as agreed upon between the Commissioner and the head of said agency and shall be available for the acquiring of the replacement property. Plan No. 3 of 1967, effective November 3, 1967, transferred the regulatory and other functions of the Board of Commissioners, under this section to the District of Columbia Council, subject to the right of the Commissioner as provided by section 406 of the Plan. NOTES TO DECISIONS

Federal-Aid Highway legislation is not inconsistent with District of Columbia Code sections limiting highway width to 160 feet, or with Code section directing the District government to assess land-owners abutting newly constructed highways for additional benefits. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. T. F. Airis Director etc. (1968, 391 F. 2d 478, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

District officials may not disregard requirements of title 7

District of Columbia officials responsible for planning and construction of highway projects in the District had not been authorized by Congress by ratification by appropriation to disregard requirements of Title 7 of the District of Columbia Code, relating to highways, streets and bridges, in the planning and construction of four links of proposed District of Columbia freeway system. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. T. F. Airis, Director etc. (1968, 391 F. 2d 476, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

Federal-Aid Highway acts have not given authority to District of Columbia officials responsible for planning and construction of highway projects in the District to proceed with planning and construction of four links of proposed District of Columbia freeway system without regard for title 7 of the District of Columbia Code relating to highways, streets and bridges. Id.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

District's discretion

District of Columbia Code provision for closing of alleys on dedication of new ones gives District discretionary authority when application is made. District of Columbia v. All of lot 7, In Reservation II etc. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 692.)

District of Columbia Code provision for closing of alleys on dedication of new ones does not contemplate total extinction of alleys to be replaced, in effect, by parcel of open land. Id.

Evidence

Defendants in proceeding by District of Columbia to condemn land were not entitled to introduce evidence of increased value of land should alleys be closed in return for dedication of portion of land, where there was no reasonable possibility that District would exercise its discretion to close alleys. District of Columbia v. All of lot 7, In Reservation II etc. (1968, 284 F. Supp. 692).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Evidence of other settlements

Although condemnor cannot introduce evidence of purchases it has made in settlement of other condemnation suits, condemnee may do so in this particular case. D. S. Nash et ano. v. D.C. Redevelopment Land Agency (1967, 395 F. 2d 571, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 348).

In proceeding relating to condemnation of parking lot, trial court properly admitted evidence of condemnation settlement relating to neighboring junk yard, notwithstanding fact that agreement between condemnor and junk yard owner had not yet finally been accepted by Justice Department, in view of fact that, in normal course of events, recommendations of condemnor's counsel would be accepted. Id.

Section 402(168) of Reorg. For provisions establishing the District of Columbia Council, see section 201 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

In this case the court held that the intention of Congress in enacting this chapter (§ 7–401 et seq.), providing for closing of unnecessary streets and alleys in the District of Columbia, was that compensation should be exacted from the property owners to whom the public space was reverting only when there is a possibility that other neighboring property would be adversely affected by the closing. O. T. Carr, Jr., et al. v. District of Columbia, et al. (1970, 312 F. Supp. 283).

Evidence of other settlements

Although condemnor cannot introduce evidence of purchases it has made in settlement of other condemnation suits, condemnee may do so in this particular case. D. S. Nash et ano. v. D.C. Redevelopment Land Agency (1967, 395 F. 2d 571, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 348).

In proceeding relating to condemnation of parking lot, trial court properly admitted evidence of condemnation settlement relating to neighboring junk yard, notwithstanding fact that agreement between condemnor and junk yard owner had not yet finally been accepted by Justice Department, in view of fact that, in normal course of events, recommendations of condemnor's counsel would be accepted. Id.

SUBCHAPTER I.—RENTAL OF PUBLIC SPACE

TITLE I.—SHORT TITLE, STATEMENT OF FINDINGS, AND POLICY DEFINITIONS

§ 7-901. Repealed. Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90-596, § 301, title III, 82 Stat. 1158.

Section, act Sept. 1, 1916, 39 Stat. 716, ch. 433, § 7, as amended May 18, 1954, 68 Stat. 110, ch. 218, § 501, authorized the Commissioners to assess and collect rents from users of space occupied under the sidewalks and streets. Subject matter is now covered by Pub. L. 90-596, set out in this subchapter. Section 301, the repealing section also provided that all permits issued under the authority of this section "are revoked" as of the effective date of this title. [Title III] See sec. 7-925.

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7-925.

§ 7-902. Definitions.

As used in this subchapter, unless the context requires otherwise—

"Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the District or his designated agent.

"District" means the District of Columbia.

"Owner" means (1) any person, or any one of a number of persons, in whom is vested all or any part of the beneficial ownership, dominion, or title of property; (2) the committee, conservator, or legal guardian of an owner who is non compos mentis, a minor child, or otherwise under a disability; or (3) a trustee elected or appointed, or required by law, to execute a trust, other than a trustee under a deed of trust to secure the repayment of a loan.

"Parking" means that area of public space which lies between the property line and the edge of the actual or planned sidewalk which is nearer to such property line, as such property line and sidewalk are shown on the records of the District.

"Property line" means the line of demarcation between privately owned property fronting or abutting a street and the publicly owned property in the line of such street.

"Public space" means all the publicly owned property between the property lines on a street, as such property lines are shown on the records of the District, and includes any roadway, tree space, sidewalk, or parking between such property lines.

"Street" means a public highway as shown on the records of the District, whether designated as a street, alley, avenue, freeway, road, drive, lane, place, boulevard, parkway, circle, or by some other term.

"Vault" means a structure or an enclosure of space beneath the surface of the public space, including but not limited to tanks for petroleum products, except that the term "vault" shall not include public utility structures, pipelines, or tunnels constructed under the authority of subsection (d) of section 1-244, or structures or facilities of the United States or the District of Columbia, or of any governmental entity or foreign government, or any structure or facility included in any lease agreement entered into by the Commissioner. If such structure or enclosure of space be divided approximately horizontally into two or more levels, the term "vault" as used in this subchapter shall be considered as applying to one such level only, and each such level shall be considered a separate vault within the meaning of this subchapter. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 103, title I, 82 Stat. 1156.)

CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS

Section 102, act Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, provided: "The Congress finds that there is demand in the District for the use of public space for private gain by the owners of property abutting such space, or by the operators of businesses on such property. The Congress further finds that much of the use that is presently being made of such space by such owners or operators, and much of the use that is proposed to be made thereof, would not be in derogation of the rights of the general public to use such space if a determination be made by the Commissioner that some or all of such space is not required for the use of the general public and may be made available for use, for business purposes, by or with the consent of the owners of the private property abutting such public space, subject to the payment of adequate compensation for the use of such public space, and subject to the discontinuance of such use to the extent that the Commissioner may later determine such space to be required for the use of the general public, including use by a public utility company. The Congress therefore declares that public space in the District which the Commissioner finds is not required for the use of the general public may be made available by him, for use, for business purposes, by or with the consent of the owners of private property abutting such space, upon payment to the District of compensation for the use of such space, and on the condition that such use will be discontinued in whole or in part whenever the Commissioner determines that all or part of the public space is required for the use of the general public."

SHORT TITLE

Section 101, act Oct. 17, 1968. Pub. L. 90–596, provided: "This Act (This subchapter and the repeal of section 7–901) may be cited as the 'District of Columbia Public Space Rental Act.' "

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7–925.

§ 7–903. Assessment and collection of rent from the United States, District of Columbia or foreign governments, not authorized.

Nothing contained in this subchapter shall be construed as requiring the Commissioner to assess and collect rent from the Government of the United States, the government of the District of Columbia, or any foreign government, for the use, in accordance with the provisions of titles II and III, of public space abutting property owned by any such government or governmental entity, nor shall any such government or governmental entity be subject to the payment of any rent required by this subchapter. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 104, title I, 82 Stat. 1157.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7–925.

§ 7–904. Minor uses of public space without rental payments, authorized.

Notwithstanding any other provisions of this subchapter, the Commissioner is authorized, in his judgment and pursuant to regulations adopted and promulgated by the District of Columbia Council, to permit the occupancy of public space for minor uses without requiring rental payments when the fixing and collection of rental charges would not be feasible. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 105, title I, 82 Stat. 1157.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7–925.

TITLE II.—RENTAL OF PUBLIC SPACE ON OR ABOVE THE SURFACE

§ 7–905. Regulations by District Council for rental of public space—Conditions—Provisions to be included in regulations.

The District of Columbia Council is authorized to provide by regulation for the rental of portions of public space on or above the surface of the pavement or the ground, as the case may be, and not actually required for the use of the general public, for such period of time as the said space may not be so required or for any lesser period: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as requiring the Council to require the payment of rent as a condition to the use of public space (1) in accordance with the provisions of regulations promulgated under the authority of the first paragraph of section 5–204; (2) by a public utility company for the installation and maintenance of any of its equipment or facilities, under permit issued by the District; or (3) for the sale of newspapers of general circulation: Provided further, That the proposed rental of public space within the area of the District of Columbia subject to the provisions of sections 5–410 and 5–411, shall be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts in accordance with the provisions of sections 5–410 and 5–411. The regulations adopted by the District of Columbia Council shall provide that public space rented under the authority of this title shall be rented only to the owner of property fronting and abutting such public space; that any person using such space shall not acquire any right, title, or interest therein; that both the United States and the District of Columbia, and the officers and employees of each of them, shall be held harmless for any loss or damage arising out of the use of such space, or the discontinuance of any such use; that the Commissioner may require such space to be vacated upon demand by him and its use discontinued, with or without notice, and with no recourse against either the United States or the District for any loss or damage occasioned by any such requirement; and that if any such use be not discontinued by the time specified by the Commissioner, the said Commissioner may remove from such space any property left thereon or therein by any person using such space under the authority of this title, at the risk and expense of the owner of the real property abutting such space. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 201, title II, 82 Stat. 1157.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7–925.

§ 7–906. Regulations to prescribe rental to be paid—Minimum rental to be paid under this title—Refunds.

The District of Columbia Council shall by regulation provide for the payment of rent for the use of public space as authorized by this title. The annual rent for such space shall be a fair and equitable amount fixed by the Council from time to time in accordance with regulations adopted by it, generally establishing categories of use and providing that the rent for each category of use shall bear a reasonable relationship to the assessed value of the privately owned land abutting such space, depending on the nature of the category of use and the extent to which the public space may be utilized for such purpose, but in no event shall the annual rent for the public space so utilized be at a rate of less than 4 per centum per annum of the current assessed value of an equivalent area of the privately owned space immediately abutting the public space so utilized. Such rent shall be payable in advance for such periods as may be fixed by the Council. In the event the Commissioner requires any person using public space under the authority of this title to vacate all or part of any space for which rent has been paid, the Commissioner is authorized to refund so much of such prepaid rent as may be represented by the amount of space so vacated and by the length of time remaining in the period for which rent was paid. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 202, title II, 82 Stat. 1158).

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7–925.

§ 7–907. Use of property subject to the requirements of section 7–117.

The Commissioner is authorized, with respect to property subject to the requirements of section 7–117, to allow the same use to be made of such property as, under the authority of this title, he allows to be made of the public space abutting such property. Any such use of such property shall be subject to the same conditions as are applicable to the use of the abutting public space, with the exception of the payment of rent. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 203, title II, 82 Stat. 1158.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See section 7–925.

TITLE III.—RENTAL OF SUBSURFACE PUBLIC SPACE

§ 7–908. Permits for use or construction of vaults—Agreement required of owner—Contents of agreement—Recordation of a copy of agreement in office of Recorder of Deeds.

The Commissioner is authorized to issue a permit for the use of a vault constructed prior to the effective date of this subchapter, or for the construction of a vault after such effective date, only to the owner of the real property abutting the public space in which such vault is or will be located. The issuance of each such permit shall be conditioned on the prior execution by such owner of an agreement acknowledging, for himself, his heirs and assigns, (1) that no right, title, or interest of the public is thereby acquired, waived, or abridged; (2) that the Commissioner may inspect such vault during regular business hours; (3) that the Commissioner may introduce or authorize the introduction into or through such vault with, right of entry for inspection, maintenance, and repair, of any water pipe, gas pipe, sewer, conduit, other pipe, or other public or public utility underground construction, which the Commissioner deems necessary in the public interest to place in or through such vault; (4) that such vault will be changed by the owner, or by the District at the expense of such owner, to conform with any change made in the street, roadway, or sidewalk width or grade; and (5) that rental for such vault will be paid to the District as required by this subchapter. A copy of such agreement shall be recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds by and at the expense of such owner. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 302, title III, 82 Stat. 1158.)

§ 7–909. Commissioner to assess and collect rents for use of vaults.

The Commissioner is authorized and directed to assess and collect rent from the owners of abutting property for any vault located in the public space abutting such property, unless such vault shall have been removed, filled, sealed, or otherwise rendered unusable in a manner satisfactory to the Commissioner. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596; § 303, title III, 82 Stat. 1159.)

EFFECTIVE DATE

See sections 7–917 and 7–925.

§ 7–910. Owners of property in which vaults are located to pay rents as fixed by District Council—Minimum rent—Waiver of rent under certain conditions.

Each owner of property abutting public space in which a vault is located shall pay an annual rent fixed from time to time by the District of Columbia Council for such vault, but such annual rent shall not be less than $10, and such rent shall be subject to collection from said owner in the manner prescribed by this title, regardless of whether any use is made of such vault, and regardless of the extent of any use: Provided, That no rent for any rental year for a vault shall be charged to the owner of abutting property if said owner, prior to July 1 of such year, has notified the Commissioner in writing that he has abandoned such vault and has performed such work as may be required by the District in connection with the sealing off or filling of such vault, or both. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 304, title III, 82 Stat. 1159.)

Such rent shall be payable annually for the year commencing July 1 and ending the following June 30, and shall be payable in full prior to the beginning of such year. In the case of vaults constructed between July 1 and January 1 of any year, one-half of the annual rent for any such vault, shall be payable in full prior to the first of January immediately following the completion of such vault. In the case of vaults constructed between January 1 and July 1 of the succeeding year, no rent shall be charged for any vault completed within such period, but the owner of the property abutting the public space in which such vault is located shall, prior to the first of July immediately following the completion of any such vault, pay in full the annual rent for such vault, for the rental year commencing on such July 1. Interest at the rate of 1 per centum for each month or part thereof shall be charged in every case in which rent is not paid on or before the date on which any payment required by this section shall become due.

(b) In the event the Commissioner requires or allows any person using subsurface public space under the authority of this title to vacate, voluntarily or involuntarily, all or part of any space for which rent has been paid, the Commissioner is authorized to refund so much of such prepaid rent as may be represented by the amount of space so vacated and by the length of time remaining in the period for which rent was paid: Provided, That the Commissioner may deduct from such prepayment any amount due the District in compensation for expenses to the District in connection with the use or abandonment of said space. (Oct. 17, 1968, Pub. L. 90–596, § 305, title III, 82 Stat. 1159.)

REFERENCE IN TEXT

The amended compact reads as follows:

"COMPACT

"WHEREAS, it is recognized that abatement of existing pollution and the control of future pollution of interstate streams can best be promoted through a joint agency representing the several states located wholly or in part within the area drained by any such interstate stream; and

"WHEREAS, the Congress of the United States has given its consent to the States of Maryland and West Virginia, the Commonwealths of Pennsylvania and Virginia, and the District of Columbia to enter into a compact providing for the creation of a conservancy district to consist of the drainage basin of the Potomac river and the main and tributary streams therein, for "the purpose of regulating, controlling, preventing, or otherwise rendering unobjectionable and harmless the pollution of the waters of said Potomac drainage area by sewage and industrial and other wastes'; and

"WHEREAS, the regulation, control and prevention of pollution is directly affected by the quantities of water in said streams and the uses to which such water may be put, thereby requiring integration and coordination of the planning for the development and use of the water and associated land resources through cooperation with, and support and coordination of, the activities of Federal, State, local and private agencies, groups, and interests concerned with the development, utilization and conservation of the water and associated land resources of the said conservancy district;

"Now, therefore, the States of Maryland and West Virginia, the Commonwealths of Pennslyvania and Virginia, and the District of Columbia, hereinafter designated signatory bodies, do hereby create the Potomac Valley Conservancy District, hereinafter designated the Conservancy District, comprising all of the area drained by the Potomac River and its tributaries; and also, do hereby create, as an agency of each signatory body, the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, hereinafter designated the Commission, under the articles of organization as set forth below.

"ARTICLE I

"The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin shall consist of three members from each signatory body and three members appointed by the President of the United States. Said Commissioners, other than those appointed by the President, shall be chosen in a manner and for the terms provided by law of the signatory body from which they are appointed and shall serve without compensation from the Commission but shall be paid by the Commission their actual expenses incurred and incident to the performance of their duties.

"(A). The Commission shall meet and organize within thirty days after the effective date of this compact, shall elect from its number a chairman and vice-chairman, shall adopt suitable bylaws, shall make, adopt and promulgate such rules and regulations as are necessary for its management and control, and shall adopt a seal.

"(B). The Commission shall appoint and, at its pleasure, remove or discharge such officers and legal, engineering, clerical, expert and other assistants as may be required to carry the provisions of this compact into effect, and shall determine their qualifications and fix their duties and compensation. Such personnel as may be employed shall be employed without regard to any civil service or other similar requirements for employees of any of the signatory bodies. The Commission may maintain one or more offices for the transaction of its business and may meet at any time or place within the area of the signatory bodies.

"(C). The Commission shall keep accurate accounts of all receipts and disbursements and shall make an annual report thereof and shall in such report set forth in detail the operations and transactions conducted by it pursuant to this compact. The Commission, however, shall not incur any obligations for administrative or other expenses prior to the making of appropriations adequate to meet the same nor shall in any way pledge the credit of any of the signatory bodies. Each of the signatory bodies reserves the right to make at any time an examination and audit of the accounts of the Commission.

"(D). A quorum of the Commission shall, for the transaction of business, the exercise of any powers, or the performance of any duties, consist of at least six members of the Commission who shall represent at least a majority of the signatory bodies: Provided, however, That no action of the Commission relating to policy or stream classification or standards shall be binding on any one of the signatory bodies unless at least two of the Commissioners from such signatory body shall vote in favor thereof.

"ARTICLE II

"The Commission shall have the power:

"(A). To collect, analyze, interpret, coordinate, tabulate, summarize and distribute technical and other data relative to, and to conduct studies, sponsor research and prepare reports on, pollution and other water problems of the Conservancy District.

"(B). To cooperate with the legislative and administrative agencies of the signatory bodies, or the equivalent thereof, and with other commissions and Federal, local governmental and non-governmental agencies, organizations, groups and persons for the purpose of promoting uniform laws, rules or regulations for the abatement and control of pollution of streams and the utilization, conservation and development of the water and associated land resources in the said Conservancy District.

"(C). To disseminate to the public information in relation to stream pollution problems and the utilization, conservation and development of the water and associated land resources of the Conservancy District and on the aims, views, purposes and recommendations of the Commission in relation thereto.

"(D). To cooperate with, assist, and provide liaison for and among, public and non-public agencies and organizations concerned with pollution and other water problems in the formulation and coordination of plans, programs and other activities relating to stream pollution or to the utilization, conservation or development of water or associated land resources, and to sponsor cooperative action in connection with the foregoing.

"(E). In its discretion and at any time during or after the formulation thereof, to review and to comment upon any plan or program of any public or private agency or organization relating to stream pollution or the utilization, conservation or development of water or associated land resources.

"(F)(1). To make, and, if needful from time to time, revise and recommend to the signatory bodies, reasonable minimum standards for the treatment of sewage and industrial or other wastes now discharged or to be discharged in the future to the streams of the Conservancy District, and also for cleanliness of the various streams in the Conservancy District.

"(2). To establish reasonable physical, chemical and bacteriological standards of water quality satisfactory for various classifications of use. It is agreed that each of the signatory bodies through appropriate agencies will prepare a classification of its interstate waters in the District in entirety or by portions according to present and proposed highest use, and for this purpose technical experts employed by appropriate state water pollution control agencies are authorized to confer on questions relating to classification of interstate waters affecting two or more states. Each signatory body agrees to submit its classification of its interstate waters to the Commission with its recommendations thereon.

"The Commission shall review such classification and recommendations and accept or return the same with its comments. In the event of return, the signatory body will consider the comments of the Commission and resubmit the classification proposal, with or without amendment, with any additional comments for further action by the Commission.

"It is agreed that after acceptance of such classification, the signatory body through its appropriate state water pollution control agencies will work to establish programs of treatment of sewage and industrial wastes which will meet or exceed standards established by the Commission for classified waters. The Commission may from time to time make such changes in definitions of classifications and in standards as may be required by changed conditions or as may be necessary for uniformity and in a manner similar to that in which these standards and classifications were originally established.

"It is recognized, owing to such variable factors as location, size, character and flow and the many varied uses of the waters subject to the terms of this compact, that no single standard of sewage and waste treatment and no single standard of quality of receiving waters is practical and that the degree of treatment of sewage and industrial wastes should take into account the classification of the receiving waters according to present and proposed highest use, such as for drinking water supply, bathing and other recreational purposes, maintenance and propagation of fish life, industrial and agricultural uses, navigation and disposal of wastes.

"ARTICLE III

"For the purpose of dealing with the problems of pollution and of water and associated land resources in specific areas which directly affect two or more, but not all, signatory bodies, the Commission may establish Sections of the Commission consisting of the Commissioners from such affected signatory bodies: Provided, however, That no signatory body may be excluded from any Section in which it wishes to participate. The Commissioners appointed by the President of the United States may participate in any Section. The Commission shall designate, and from time to time may change, the geographical area with respect to which each Section shall function. Each Section shall, to such extent as the Commission may from time to time authorize, have authority to exercise and perform with respect to its designated geographical area any power or function vested in the Commission, and in addition may exercise such other powers and perform such functions as may be vested in such Section by the laws of any signatory body or by the laws of the United States. The exercise or performance by a Section of any power or function vested in the Commission may be financed by the Commission, but the exercise or performance of powers or functions vested solely in a Section shall be financed through funds provided in advance by the bodies, including the United States, participating in such Section.

"ARTICLE IV

"The moneys necessary to finance the Commission in the administration of its business in the Conservancy District shall be provided through appropriations from the signatory bodies and the United States, in the manner prescribed by the laws of the several signatory bodies and of the United States, and in amounts as follows:

"The pro rata contributions shall be based on such factors as population; the amount of industrial and domestic pollution; and a flat service charge; as shall be determined from time to time by the Commission, subject, however, to the approval, ratification and appropriation of such contribution by the several signatory bodies.

"ARTICLE V

"Pursuant to the aims and purposes of this compact, the signatory bodies mutually agree:

"1. Faithful cooperation in the abatement of existing pollution and the prevention of future pollution in the streams of the Conservancy District and in planning for the utilization, conservation and development of the water and associated land resources thereof.

"2. The enactment of adequate and, insofar as is practicable, uniform legislation for the abatement and control of pollution and control and use of such streams.

"3. The appropriations of biennial sums on the proportionate basis as set forth in Article IV.

"ARTICLE VI

"This compact shall become effective immediately after it shall have been ratified by the majority of the legislature of the States of Maryland and West Virginia, the Commonwealths of Pennsylvania and Virginia, and by the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and approval by the Congress of the United States: Provided, however, That this compact shall not be effective as to any signatory body until ratified thereby.

"ARTICLE VII

"Any signatory body may, by legislative act, after one year's notice to the Commission, withdraw from this compact."

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Statute providing that federal and district authorities administering properties within District of Columbia owned by the United States or by the district are authorized to transfer jurisdiction over parts or all of such properties among or between themselves for purposes of administration and maintenance would prevail over statute providing there should not be erected on any reservation, park or public grounds of the United States within the district any building or structure without express authority of Congress if land of United States is transferred to district for use different than that to which it was being put. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc. et al. v. T. F. Airis et al. (1967, 275 F. Supp. 540; rev'd 391 F. 2d 478, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

Where United States transferred parkland to District of Columbia for use as bridge approach, statute, providing that there shall not be erected on any park of the United States within the District of Columbia any building or structure without express authority of Congress, did not apply. Id.

Transfer of jurisdiction

Under statute providing that federal and district authorities administering properties within District of Columbia owned by the United States or by the district are authorized to transfer jurisdiction over parts or all of such properties among or between themselves for purposes of administration and maintenance, district was authorized to use area which had been acquired by the United States solely for park purposes for bridge approach. D.C. Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., et al. v. T. F. Airis et al. (1967, 275 F. Supp. 540; rev'd 391 F. 2d 478, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 125).

Under statute providing that federal and district authorities administering properties within District of Columbia owned by the United States or by the district are authorized to transfer jurisdiction over parts or all of such properties among or between themselves for purposes of administration and maintenance, district and United States had authority to use parklands in connection with construction of three highway projects. Id.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 9–118b, 9–131.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

In this case, the court held that where statute prohibiting parades or assemblages on grounds of United States Capitol as enforced would continue to be bar to assertion of war protestors' rights of free assembly and petition and rights asserted were of continuing character, ad hoc committee of war protestors' action for declaration that the statute was unconstitutional was not moot because committee had dispersed. Jeanette Rankin Brigade et al. v. Chief of the Capitol Police et al. (1969, 421 F. 2d 1090, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 155).

Construction

In this case, the court held that the conduct of defendants charged with unlawful entry in refusing to quit steps of United States Capitol after being ordered to do so by Chief of Capitol Police and in reading names of Vietnam war dead in ordinary speaking voice did not come within prohibition of Capitol Grounds statute as interpreted. United States v. J. Nicholson et al. (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 56).

§ 9–118a. Protection of grounds.

It shall be the duty of the Capitol police hereafter to prevent any portion of the Capitol grounds and terraces from being used as play grounds or otherwise, so far as may be necessary to protect the public property, turf and grass from destruction. (Apr. 29, 1876, ch. 86, 19 Stat. 41.)

9–127 to 9–132, the Architect of the Capitol is authorized to permit the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to operate for recreational purposes only, and without any improvement to said land, that part of the United States Capitol Grounds known as Square 732 in the District of Columbia, bounded by Independence Avenue, S.E., Second Street, S.E., C Street, S.E., and First Street, S.E., and intersected by Carroll Street, for such period of time as said land is not required for building or other purposes by the Architect of the Capitol. NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also §11–321 in 1967 Edition]

Basis for review

Although a number of individuals will be affected by a decision of District of Columbia Court of Appeals that of itself is not enough to require United States Court of Appeals to exercise its discretion and review the decision; rather, the nature of the question presented and the soundness of the decision are the proper considerations. N. Fields v. District of Columbia (1968, 404 F. 2d 1323, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 347).

District of Columbia Court of Appeals' decision adjudging that petitioner, an optician, had unlawfully practiced optometry without a license by his unsupervised fitting of contact lenses was proper and United States Court of Appeals would not in its discretion review such decision. Id.

United States Court of Appeals is not required to review District of Columbia Court of Appeals decision when what is involved is interpretation of a local statute, regulation, or ordinance; the interpretation given is within the zone of what is reasonable; the prosecution is for an offense malum prohibitum that is brought by the District of Columbia and not by the United States; and the case does not involve overtones of fundamental rights or substantial allegations of executive action as ultra vires or overreaching. Id.

Pretrial production of grand jury testimony

District of Columbia Court of Appeals had authority to review a refusal by Court of General Sessions to certify that production of grand jury testimony would be appropriate and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia has jurisdiction to review a refusal by United States District Court for the District of Columbia to order production of grand jury testimony after receiving a certification from the Court of General Sessions. W. H. Gibson v. United States (1968, 403 F. 2d 166, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 143).

After a grand jury returned a no true bill and prosecutions were initiated in the Court of General Sessions for the District of Columbia by informations, defendant seeking pretrial production of grand jury testimony by complainant and other witnesses government planned to call at trial should first apply for a request or certification by Court of General Sessions before seeking to procure order from United States District Court for production of grand jury testimony. Id.

Review of judgments of Small Claims Court

That judgments rendered in the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions are for small sums should not bar appellate review when plain legal error has been committed. A. Willis v. Retail Adjustment Bureau, Inc. etc. (1967, 384 F. 2d 312, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 360).

Review of order denying leave to appeal

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has jurisdiction to review the action of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in refusing to allow an appeal to that court from judgment of Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions for unpaid rent, in view of the apparent error in the judgment for rent. A. Willis v. Retail Adjustment Bureau, Inc. etc. (1967, 384 F. 2d 312, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 360).

SUBCHAPTER I.—JURISDICTION

§ 11–501. Civil jurisdiction

In addition to its jurisdiction as a United States district court and any other jurisdiction conferred on it by law, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia has jurisdiction of the following:

(1) Any civil action or other matter begun in the court before the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970 other than any matter over which the Superior Court of the District of Columbia takes jurisdiction under section 11–921(a)(4)(G) or 11–921(a)(5)(B).

(2) During the eighteen-month period beginning on such effective date, any civil action or other matter which is brought under—

(A) chapter 3 of title 21 (relating to gifts to minors);

(B) chapter 5 of title 21 (relating to hospitalization of the mentally ill);

(C) chapter 7 of title 21 (relating to property of the mentally ill);

(D) chapter 11 of title 21 (relating to commitment and maintenance of substantially retarded persons);

(E) chapter 13 of title 21 (relating to appointment of committees for alcoholics and addicts); or

(F) chapter 15 of title 21 (relating to appointment of conservators).

(3) During the thirty-month period beginning on such effective date, any civil action or other matter—

(A) which is brought under chapter 29 of title 16 (relating to partition and assignment of dower);

(B) which would have been within the jurisdiction of the Orphans Court of Washington County, District of Columbia, before June 21, 1870;

(C) relating to the execution or validity of wills devising real property within the District of Columbia, and of wills and testaments properly presented for probate in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, and the admission to probate and recording of those wills;

(D) relating to the proof of wills of either personal or real property and the revocation of probate of wills for cause;

(E) involving the granting and revocation for cause of letters testamentary, letters of administration, letters ad colligendum and letters of guardianship, and the appointment of successors to persons whose letters have been revoked.

(4) Any civil action (other than a matter over which the Superior Court of the District of Columbia has jurisdiction under paragraph (3) or (4) of section 11–921(a)) begun in the court during the thirty-month period beginning on such effective date wherein the amount in controversy exceeds $50,000. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 476.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–521 in 1967 Edition]

Declaratory judgment

In this action by a nonprofit corporation comprised of tenants of high rise and town house projects and individual tenants seeking to restrain owners and managers of projects from requiring tenants to agree to exculpatory clause to obtain use of swimming pools an actual case or controversy was presented and was an appropriate occasion for granting declaratory and injunctive relief. Tenants Council of Tiber Island-Carrollsburg Square et al. v. G. W. DeFranceaux, et al. (1969, 305 F. Supp. 560).

Equality of district and General Session Courts

Federal district court is not "superior" to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, B. R. Burrell v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 897).

Federal jurisdiction

The District Court for District of Columbia has jurisdiction to entertain complaint which raised objections to manner in which defendants were administering the Food Stamp Act, the commodities distribution program and the Agriculture Act since under the D.C. Code such court has general equity jurisdiction, and venue where either party is resident or found within the District of Columbia which permits actions for declaratory judgment as well as injunction to be maintained against those whose office in the federal government establishes their official residence in the District. A. Peoples et al. v. U.S. Department of Agriculture et al. (1970, 427 F. 2d 561, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Plaintiff, who brought suit in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, alleged in his amended complaint that the Court had jurisdiction under the District of Columbia Code, and did not allege jurisdiction under any federal statute, it was nevertheless appropriate for the court to inquire whether there was such federal jurisdiction. M. W. Rice v. Disabled American Veterans (1968, 295 F. Supp. 131).

Local jurisdiction

Where jurisdiction is alleged under the District Code all aspects of local jurisdiction, including venue, are governed by local statute and the federal venue statute has no application. M. W. Rice v. Disabled American Veterans (1968, 295 F. Supp. 131).

All aspects of local jurisdiction are governed by local statute. S. Vogel and S. & H. Vogel v. Tenneco Oil Company etc. (1967, 276 F. Supp. 1008).

Federal venue statute has no application where jurisdiction is alleged under provisions of District of Columbia Code. Id.

Allegation of complaint that corporation was transacting business in District of Columbia and admission of corporation that it was licensed to do business in District of Columbia were sufficient to establish court's local jurisdiction. Id.

Moot question

A controversy resulting in a suit by nonprofit corporation comprised of tenants of high rise and town house projects and individual tenants which seeks to restrain owners and managers of projects from requiring tenants to agree to exculpatory clause to obtain use of swimming pools was not rendered moot by close of swimming season where similar exculpatory clauses had regularly been employed by defendants in the past. Tenants Council of Tiber Island-Carrollsburg Square et al. v. G. W. DeFranceaux, et al. (1969, 305 F. Supp. 560).

Title to property

There is no restriction upon district court, sitting in probate, which limits its power to adjudicate right to possession of personality. C. M. Price and G. P. Marshall, Jr., etc. v. E. B. Williams et al. (1968, 393 F. 2d 348, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 239).

Venue

In this case, personal jurisdiction over Missouri and Maryland selective service officials was established in District of Columbia when, without objecting, they entered general appearance through United States attorney in action by second year graduate student for I–S deferment and, in view of fact that venue in the District also lay as against Director of Selective Service System, District of Columbia was proper forum. J. R. Nestor v. L. B. Hershey et al. (1969, 425 F. 2d 504—U.S. App. D.C.—).

In this case the court found that defendant college accreditation association had contacts with District of Columbia sufficient in nature and degree, under Clayton Act and under statutes relating to venue of suits against corporations, to permit laying venue in District of Columbia for action under antitrust laws and for injunction against excluding plaintiff's college from membership, where the defendant accredited a number of schools in District and regularly visited them and had other regular communications and visits. Marjorie Webster Junior College Inc. v. Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Inc. (1969, 302 F. Supp. 459).

Inasmuch as the relevant federal venue statute provides that an action may be transferred only to a district "where it might have been brought", and where action brought under the local jurisdictional statute of the District of Columbia could not have been brought in any federal district court other than the one in the District of Columbia, there was no federal district court in the country to which such action might be transferred under the federal venue statute. M. W. Rice v. Disabled American Veterans (1968, 295 F. Supp. 131).

§ 11–502. Criminal jurisdiction

In addition to its jurisdiction as a United States district court and any other jurisdiction conferred on it by law, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia has jurisdiction of the following:

(1) Any criminal case begun in the court by the return of an indictment or the filing of an information before the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970.

(2) Any criminal case which is begun in the court by the return of an indictment or the filing of an information during the eighteen-month period beginning on such effective date and which—

(A) involves a violation of any one of the following sections of the Act entitled "An Act to establish a code of law for the District of Columbia", approved March 3, 1901:

(i) section 809 (D.C. Code, sec. 22–201) (relating to abortion),

(ii) section 803 (D.C. Code, sec. 22–501) (relating to assault with intent to kill, rob, rape, or poison),

(iii) section 823(a) (D.C. Code, sec. 22–1801 (a)) (relating to burglary in the first degree),

(iv) section 812 (D.C. Code, sec. 22–2101) (relating to kidnaping),

(v) sections 798 through 802 (D.C. Code, secs, 22–2401 through 22–2405) (relating to murder and manslaughter),

(vi) section 808 (D.C. Code, sec. 22–2801) (relating to rape),

(vii) section 810 (D.C. Code, sec. 22–2901) (relating to robbery); or

(B) involves any other offense under any law applicable exclusively to the District of Columbia which offense is joined in such information or indictment with any of the offenses listed in subparagraph (A).

(3) Any offense under any law applicable exclusively to the District of Columbia which offense is joined in the same information or indictment with any Federal offense. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 477.)

Ruling of district court as binding on Court of General Sessions

United States district court decision, in prosecution for narcotics violation, which suppressed certain evidence as products of illegal search and seizure was not binding on District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, where defendant was charged with possession of prohibited weapon and possession of numbers slips, and which had held previously to United States District Court ruling that certain evidence, which was seized under same circumstances as evidence in federal prosecution, was admissible. B. R. Burrell v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 897).

SUBCHAPTER II.—JURISDICTION

§ 11–721. Orders and judgments of the Superior Court

(a) The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has jurisdiction of appeals from—

(1) all final orders and judgments of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia;

(2) interlocutory orders of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia—

(A) granting, continuing, modifying, refusing, or dissolving or refusing to dissolve or modify injunctions;

(B) appointing receivers, guardians, or conservators or refusing to wind up receiverships, guardianships, or the administration of conservators or to take steps to accomplish the purpose thereof; or

(C) changing or affecting the possession of property; and

(3) orders or rulings of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia appealed by the United States or the District of Columbia pursuant to section 23–104 or 23–111(d)(2).

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c) of this section, a party aggrieved by an order or judgment specified in subsection (a) of this section, may appeal therefrom as of right to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

(c) Review of judgments of the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia and of judgments in the Criminal Division of that court where the penalty imposed is a fine of less than $50 for an offense punishable by imprisonment of one year or less, or by fine of not more than $1,000, or both, shall be by application for the allowance of an appeal, filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

(d) When a judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in making in a civil case (other than a case in which a child, as defined in section 16–2301, is alleged to be delinquent, neglected, or in need of supervision) a ruling or order not otherwise appealable under this section, shall be of the opinion that the ruling or order involves a controlling question of law as to which there is substantial ground for a difference of opinion and that an immediate appeal from the ruling or order may materially advance the ultimate termination of the litigation or case, he shall so state in writing in the ruling or order. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals may thereupon, in its discretion, permit an appeal to be taken from that ruling or order, if application is made to it within ten days after the issuance or entry of the ruling or order. An application for an appeal under this subsection shall not stay proceedings in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia unless the judge of that court who made such ruling or order or the District of Columbia Court of Appeals or a judge thereof shall so order.

(e) On the hearing of any appeal in any case, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals shall give judgment after an examination of the record without regard to errors or defects which do not affect the substantial rights of the parties. NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–741 in 1967 Edition]

Appealable orders

An order of the juvenile court denying petitioner, who was under indictment for murder in federal district court, access to certain records of juvenile court pertaining to potential witness in petitioner's prosecution is not final, and District of Columbia Court of Appeals is without jurisdiction to review order. In re P. E. Poston (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 254).

An order which denies a motion to quash an attachment is not final and hence not generally appealable, unless possession of property is changed or affected. G. F. Ludington et ano. v. Bogdonoff (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 921).

In this case possession of property was not affected by the denial of intervenors' motion to quash attachment, and appeal from order denying motion was premature and District of Columbia Court of Appeals was without jurisdiction of appeal. Id.

Jurisdiction to issue extraordinary writs

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has appellate jurisdiction over final orders of the Court of General Sessions, and orders prohibiting dissemination of arrest records, placing an immediate restraint on public officials, are final and thus appealable, thus in the future the only question will be the appropriate scope of the order in each particular case and mandamus and prohibition will not be proper to challenge the scope of the order. D. Morrow v. District of Columbia and In re Alexander, Judge, etc. (1969, 417 F. 2d 728, 135 U.S. App. D.C. 160, rev'g and remanding 243 A. 2d 901).

Juvenile Court appeals

Determinations of the Juvenile Court are not immune from overview as Congress has provided for appeals to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, E. Creek, Jr. v. W. J. Stone (1967, 379 F. 2d 106, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 329).

Review of judgments of Small Claims Court

That judgments rendered in the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions are for small sums should not bar appellate review when plain legal error has been committed. A. Willis v. Retail Adjustment Bureau, Inc., etc. (1967, 384 F. 2d 312, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 360).

Review of order denying leave to appeal

The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has jurisdiction to review the action of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in refusing to allow an appeal to that court from judgment of Small Claims and Conciliation Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions for unpaid rent, in view of the apparent error in the judgment for rent. A. Willis v. Retail Adjustment Bureau, Inc., etc. (1967, 384 F. 2d 312, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 360).

§ 11–722. Administrative orders and decisions

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has jurisdiction (1) except as provided in clause (2), to review orders and decisions of the Commissioner of the District of Columbia, the District of Columbia Council, any agency of the District of Columbia (including the Board of Zoning Adjustment of the District of Columbia and the Zoning Commission of the District of Columbia), and the District of Columbia Redevelopment Land Agency, in accordance with the District of Columbia Administrative Procedure Act (D.C. Code, secs. 1–1501—1–1510); and (2) to review orders and decisions of the Public Service Commission of the District of Columbia in accordance with section 8 of the Act of March 4, 1913 (D.C. Code, chapters 1 through 10, title 43). (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 481.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF SECTION 11–722

Section 199(b)(5) of Pub. L. 91–358, provided: "(5) Section 11–722 of the District of Columbia Code, as contained in the revision made by part A of this title [Title I of Pub. L. 91–358], shall take effect with respect to petitions filed after the effective date of this title [Title I] for review of decisions or orders." For effective date of Title I of Pub. Administrative action

Mere fact that proof tended to reveal at a suspension hearing before permit control officer of District of Columbia Department of Motor Vehicles that 17-year-old driver whose license was suspended, was driving while under influence of alcohol did not thereby convert the proceedings, administrative in character, into a judicial proceeding of the kind Congress assigned exclusively to juvenile court. K. P. Murphy, a minor, etc. v. W. D. Heath, Director, etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 421).

The court held that the exclusive jurisdiction in judicial proceedings conferred by Juvenile Court Act on the juvenile court is not a jurisdictional bar to the administrative action of suspending motor vehicle operator's permit of 17-year-old driver. Id.

Evidence—Admissibility

Testimony given in administrative suspension hearing of arresting officer that he and juvenile officer were responsible for seizing juvenile driver's permit and turning it over to Department of Motor Vehicles along with facts relative to the incident, was not product of a disclosure or use of information concerning a juvenile before the court, directly or indirectly derived from record, papers, files, or communications of the court, or acquired in the course of official duties. K. P. Murphy, a minor, etc. v. W. D. Heath , Director, etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 421).

Testimony of arresting officer, in administrative suspension hearing indicating, in response to permit control officer's question, that driver refused to take urine test was not of sufficient magnitude to fatally infect the fairness of the hearing in view of testimony as to odoriferous condition of driver's automobile and driver, his unsteady condition, and his unchallenged admission that he had earlier consumed substantial quantity of beer. Id.

—— Sufficiency

There was substantial evidence to support the order of permit control officer of the Department of Motor Vehicles suspending motor vehicle operator's permit for driving motor vehicle in reckless manner while under influence of intoxicating liquors. K. P. Murphy, a minor, etc. v. W. D. Heath, Director, etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 421).

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–961 in 1967 Edition]

Amount claimed

Nunc pro tunc refusal to amend pleading so as to confer jurisdiction upon the court was not improper in view of fact that answer to the complaint set out court's lack of jurisdiction as a separate defense, and case was properly dismissed on jurisdictional ground. D. Fox v. Shannon & Luchs Company of Washington, Inc. (D.C. App. 1967, 236 A. 2d 60).

Motion to amend complaint

In this case the court held that the Court of General Sessions had the power to permit amendment of complaint, which originally sought $20,000 damages putting cause of action beyond reach of that court, and to permit reduction of the ad damnum and, absent justifying reason for denial of motion to amend, motion should have been granted. P. Taylor v. P. Beckas (1970, 424 F. 2d 905, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 417).

§ 11–922. Transfer of civil actions to Superior Court

(a) In a civil action begun in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia before the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970 (other than an action for equitable relief), where it appears to the satisfaction of the court at or subsequent to any pretrial hearing but before trial thereof that the action will not justify a judgment in excess of $10,000 and does not otherwise invoke the jurisdiction of the court, the court may certify the action to the Superior Court for trial.

(b) In a civil action begun in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia during the thirty-month period beginning on the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970, the court may certify the action to the Superior Court if it appears to the satisfaction of the United States District Court at or subsequent to any pretrial hearing, but before the trial thereof, that—

(1) the action will not justify a judgment in excess of $50,000; and

(2) the action does not otherwise invoke the jurisdiction of the court.

(c) When an action is transferred under this section, the pleadings in the action, together with a copy of the docket entries and copies of any orders entered therein, and the deposit for costs, shall be sent to the Superior Court. The Superior Court shall thereafter treat the case as though it had been filed originally in that court, except that the jurisdiction of the court shall extend to the amount claimed in the action even though it exceeds the applicable jurisdictional limitation. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 486.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–962 in 1967 Edition]

Amendment of pleadings

Granting of leave to amend pleading is a matter within the sound discretion of the trial judge and only an abuse of that discretion is reviewable on appeal. W. Saddler et ano. v. Safeway Stores Inc. (D.C. App. 1967, 227 A. 2d 394).

In action by plaintiffs seeking $5,000 for loss of consortium and $10,000 for personal injuries sustained when a shelf containing canned goods fell on a plaintiff while she was shopping in defendant's store, refusing to permit plaintiffs to amend their pleading by increasing the ad damnum clause to $125,000 on ground that evidence regarding loss of earnings was weak did not constitute abuse of discretion. Id.

Authority for certification

Where District of Columbia federal district court, determined that personal injury and damage actions would not justify judgment in excess of $10,000, it had authority to certify case to Court of General Sessions. L. Hughes et al. v. Pennsylvania Railroad Company (1969, 409 F. 2d 460, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 174).

Certification near trial date

Federal district court should regard with skepticism motions to certify, under statute governing transfer of civil actions to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, when made at or near assigned trial date. L. Hughes et al. v. Pennsylvania Railroad Company (1969, 409 F. 2d 460, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 174).

Discretion of district court

Standard for certification pursuant to statute governing transfer of civil action from federal district court to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions contemplates that broad discretion be vested in district court. L. Hughes et al. v. Pennsylvania Railroad Company (1969, 409 F. 2d 460, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 174).

Federal district court's discretion in transferring civil action to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions normally will not be disturbed on appeal unless it is arbitrary. Id.

Federal district court's discretion to transfer civil action to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions is limited by reviewability for abuse. Id.

Reasons for certification

Personal injury and damage actions, certified by federal district court to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, on day set for commencement of trial, on finding that actions would not justify judgment in excess of $10,000, without setting forth reasons for certification, would be remanded to district court with directions to proceed with trial. L. Hughes et al. v. Pennsylvania Railroad Company (1969, 409 F. 2d 460, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 174).

Federal district court, in certifying civil action to District of Columbia Court of General Sessions pursuant to statute, should explain its decision in memorandum opinion as aid to Court of Appeals in reviewing such rulings. Id.

§ 11–923. Criminal jurisdiction; commmitment

(a) The Superior Court has jurisdiction over all criminal cases pending in the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions before the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970.

(b)(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), the Superior Court has jurisdiction of any criminal case under any law applicable exclusively to the District of Columbia.

(2) The Superior Court shall not have jurisdiction of any criminal case under any law applicable exclusively to the District of Columbia begun in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia under section 11–502(2) by the return of an indictment or the filing of an information during the eighteen-month period beginning on such effective date.

(c)(1) With respect to any criminal case over which the Superior Court has jurisdiction, that court may make preliminary examinations and commit offenders, either for trial or for further examination, and may release or detain offenders in accordance with chapter 13 of title 23.

(2) With respect to any criminal case over which the United States District Court for the District of Columbia has jurisdiction, the Superior Court (A) may make preliminary examinations and commit offenders, either for trial or for further examination, but only during the eighteen-month period beginning on the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970, and (B) may release or detain offenders in accordance with chapter 13 of title 23. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 486.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–963 in 1967 Edition]

Appealability of order where court lacked jurisdiction

The court held that the District of Columbia Court of Appeals lacked jurisdiction under Bail Reform Act to review order of judge of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions modifying conditions of release in felony case and properly dismissed the appeal for lack of jurisdiction and District Court of Appeals was not authorized to vacate order in exercise of its general appellate jurisdiction over Court of General Sessions since the order was entered by judge of latter court sitting as committing magistrate in a case involving charges cognizable solely in United States district court. L. Salley et ano. v. United States (1968, 413 F. 2d 364, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 90).

Applicability of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure

Court rule which makes Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure applicable to proceedings where judges are acting as committing magistrates would be inapplicable if trial court was merely acting as assignment court when counsel was adjudged in contempt. In the Matter of G. D. Gates (D.C. App. 1968, 248 A. 2d 671).

Under court rule which make Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure applicable to proceedings where judges of court are acting as committing magistrates, only rules 3, 4, 5 and 40 would be binding on Court of General Sessions when performing its function as commissioner and sitting as committing magistrate. Id.

Equality of district and General Session Courts

Jurisdiction

The District of Columbia Court of General Sessions had jurisdiction to sentence under the Federal Youth Corrections Act even though commitment under act might exceed one year. A. E. Harvin v. United States (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 307).

Pretrial production of grand jury testimony

District of Columbia Court of Appeals had authority to review a refusal by Court of General Sessions to certify that production of grand jury testimony would be appropriate and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia has jurisdiction to review a refusal by United States District Court for the District of Columbia to order production of grand jury testimony after receiving a certification from the Court of General Sessions. W. H. Gibson v. United States (1968, 403 F. 2d 166, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 143).

After a grand jury returned a no true bill and prosecutions were initiated in the Court of General Sessions for the District of Columbia by informations, defendant seeking pretrial production of grand jury testimony by complainant and other witnesses government planned to call at trial should first apply for a request or certification by Court of General Sessions before seeking to procure order from United States District Court for production of grand jury testimony. Id.

Ruling of district court as binding on Court of General Sessions

United States district court decision, in prosecution for narcotics violation, which suppressed certain evidence as products of illegal search and seizure was not binding on District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, where defendant was charged with possession of prohibited weapon and possession of numbers slips, and which had held previously to United States District Court ruling that certain evidence, which was seized under same circumstances as evidence in federal prosecution, was admissible. B. R. Burrell v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 252 A. 2d 897).

SUBCHAPTER III.—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 11–941. Issuance of warrants; record

Subject to title 23, judges of the Superior Court may, at any time, including Sundays and legal holidays, on complaint or application under oath or actual view, issue warrants for arrest, search or seizure, or electronic surveillance in connection with crimes and offenses committed within the District of Columbia, or for administrative inspections in connection with laws relating to the public health, safety, and welfare. Each proceeding respecting a warrant shall be recorded as prescribed by the court. Warrants shall be issued free of charge. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 487.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 11–942. Subpenas

(a) The Superior Court may compel the attendance of witnesses by attachment. At the request of any party, subpenas for attendance at a hearing or trial in the Superior Court shall be issued by the clerk of court. A subpena may be served at any place within the District of Columbia, or at any place without the District of Columbia that is within twenty-five miles of the place of the hearing or trial specified in the subpena. The form, issuance, and manner of service of the subpena shall be as prescribed by the rule of the court.

(b) A subpena in a criminal case in which a felony is charged may be served at any place within the United States upon order of a judge of the court. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 487.)

§ 11–943. Process

(a) All process other than a subpena may be served at any place within the District of Columbia, and, when authorized by statute or by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, at any place without the District of Columbia.

(b) Service upon a third-party defendant, upon a person whose joinder is needed for just adjudication, and upon persons required to respond to any order of commitment for civil contempt may be served at all places outside the District of Columbia that are not more than one hundred miles from the place of hearing or trial specified.

(c) The form, issuance, and manner of service of process shall be prescribed by rule of the court. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 487.)

§ 11–944. Contempt power

In addition to the powers conferred by section 402 of title 18, United States Code, the Superior Court, or a judge thereof, may punish for disobedience of an order or for contempt committed in the presence of the court. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 487.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section (formerly 11–756(c), now covered by 11–944) is referred to in section 2–456.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also §§ 11–982, 11–1581 in 1967 Edition]

Contempt

Sentence of five days for contempt of court by defendant in civil action who "shouted" and "banged" his fist on bench was within permissible limits prescribed by this section and not subject to review by District of Columbia Court of Appeals. In the Matter of J. N. Ellis (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 300).

In this case, the Court of Appeals adopted the rule that where attorney fails to appear in court when he has duty to do so, the offensive conduct, i.e., the absence, occurs in presence of the court and the unexcused absence may be held to be contempt, provided notice and an opportunity to be heard are given under this section. G. Sykes v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 894).

In this case, the evidence was sufficient to support a finding of contempt by attorney who failed to appear at time when he had case on court calendar. Id.

Court in criminal trial had power to punish defense counsel for contempt for violation of instructions. In the Matter of A. L. Benton (D.C. App. 1967, 228 A. 2d 324).

To adjudge counsel guilty of contempt for disobedience of order or direction of trial court, order must be clear and unambiguous. Id.

Trial court's instruction to defense counsel not to bring up "any prior criminal record" was fatally ambiguous in that it might or might not proscribe bringing up lack of any prior criminal record and in absence of record indicating willful and knowing violation of instructions in counsel's referring to lack of any prior criminal record, contempt conviction could not stand. Id.

Due process

Requirements of due process were complied with where transcript and statement in which judge described his encounter in open court with defense counsel showed that counsel's misconduct was in actual presence of court and set forth facts with sufficient particularity to enable reviewing court to know language of defense counsel which trial court found contemptuous. In the Matter of G. D. Gates (D.C. App. 1968, 248 A. 2d 671).

In contempt-in-open-court case, there is no requirement for evidence or assistance of counsel before punishment, and order adjudging defense counsel in criminal proceeding to be in contempt of court was not vitiated by reason of fact that counsel was punished in summary fashion without safeguards normally afforded defendant in criminal prosecution. Id.

Jurisdiction to punish for contempt

In a case where temporary restraining orders issued by district court dealing with conditions of unrest on college campuses purported to apply to students and nonstudents, adults or juveniles without exception, sections 11–1551, 11–1552 and 11–1581 did not deprive district court of power to punish juvenile offenders for contempt of its restraining orders. In the Matter of A. Williams, Jr. and M. M. Coates (1969, 306 F. Supp. 617).

§ 11–945. Oaths, affirmations, and acknowledgments

Each judge and each employee of the Superior Court authorized by the chief judge may administer oaths and affirmations and take acknowledgments. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 487.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 11–946. Rules of court

The Superior Court shall conduct its business according to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure (except as otherwise provided in title 23) unless it prescribes or adopts rules which modify those Rules. Rules which modify the Federal Rules shall be submitted for the approval of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, and they shall not take effect until approved by that court. The Superior Court may adopt and enforce other rules as it may deem necessary without the approval of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals if such rules do not modify the Federal Rules. The Superior Court may appoint a committee of lawyers to advise it in the performance of its duties under this section. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 487.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

Alleged father is not entitled to take a pretrial deposition of complainant in paternity proceeding held before District of Columbia Court Reform and Criminal Procedure Act of 1970 became effective. F. W. Johnson v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 563).

(July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 488; Dec. 7, 1970, Pub. L. 91–530, § 2(a)(2)(3), 84 Stat. 1390.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISION UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also §§ 11–1141, 11–1555 and 16–2342 in 1967 Edition]

Abuse of discretion

In this case the award of custody of the children to wife pending outcome of determination whether husband or allegedly adulterous wife should have custody was not an abuse of discretion. E. A. McCallum v. D. W. McCallum, Jr. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 911).

Division of real property, in an action by husband for absolute divorce on ground of voluntary separation, awarding ⅝ interest to the husband who, after 1962, made majority of payments on house, and ⅜ interest to the wife, who had arbitrarily appropriated jointly owned personalty, was not an abuse of discretion. D. B. Stanley v. C. L. Stanley (D.C. App. 1967, 234 A. 2d 810).

Adjudication of property rights

Domestic relations branch of court of general sessions has exclusive jurisdiction over determinations and adjudications of property rights in actions for annulment of marriages. A. D. Martin v. L. P. Martin (D.C. App. 1968, 240 A. 2d 363).

Appointment of guardian ad litem

Court of General Sessions, Domestic Relations Branch, has authority to appoint experienced and disinterested persons to aid in resolving custody disputes in order to enable court to protect interest and welfare of child where court is acting in capacity of parens patriae. R. Eaton v. J. W. Karr, Guardian Ad Litem (D.C. App. 1969, 251 A. 2d 640).

Basis for ajudication of property rights

Specific finding of constructive desertion was unwarranted and unnecessary to determination of an equitable division of jointly owned real property in action by husband for absolute divorce on the ground of voluntary separation, notwithstanding the fact that wife had previously obtained limited divorce on ground of cruelty and allegedly had been forced to move from parties' home because of refusal of husband to do so. D. B. Stanley v. C. L. Stanley (D.C. App. 1967, 234 A. 2d 810).

Construction

Difference between terms "award and apportion" as used in District of Columbia statute relating to court's authority to apportion property in divorce action and terms "determine and adjudicate" as used in statute relating to general jurisdictional grant to Domestic Relations Branch is simply difference between directly and indirectly affecting title to land. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (1968, 396 F. 2d 695, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 46).

Constructive trust

In proceeding on counterclaim of defendant veteran who during marriage had been receiving disability benefits from Veterans Administration and who, as result of letter from his wife giving notice of birth of child and seeking dependent's allowance, received increase payment for support of wife and child, court had jurisdiction of defendant's prayer that trial judge decree constructive trust for all moneys and other benefits received by wife based on her purported marriage to defendant and for an accounting. A. D. Martin v. L. P. Martin (D.C. App. 1968, 240 A. 2d 363).

Denial of preliminary injunction

Denial of requested preliminary injunction which would have allowed the husband to remain at the family domicile was tantamount to a preliminary determination granting the wife temporary custody of the children pending outcome of custody action. In awarding custody of the children to the wife the court may make reasonable orders under the circumstances allowing the husband visitation rights. E. A. McCallum v. D. W. McCallum, Jr. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 911).

Evidence

In an appeal from a judgment of absolute divorce granted wife, the court held the husband should have been allowed to present evidence in support of his allegation that three pieces of real estate were in reality jointly owned even though property was recorded in individual names of parties. C. W. Dickason v. H. E. Dickason (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 640).

—— Sufficiency

In this case, the evidence was sufficient to support juvenile court's finding that juvenile participated as an aider and abettor in assault with intent to commit robbery on a school teacher. In the matter of Reeder (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 893).

Jurisdiction

In a case where the parties were non-residents, but the husband worked in the District and one child was in school here, it was not abuse of discretion for trial court to assume jurisdiction over claim for support under separation agreement. W. N. McGehee, Jr. v. F. T. Maxfield (D.C. App. 1969, 256, A. 2d 576).

Former wife's action for specific performance or damages for former husband's alleged failure to abide by terms of separation agreement providing for maintenance and support of wife was within exclusive jurisdiction of Domestic Relations Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions. F. C. Den v. A. A. J. Den (1967, 375 F. 2d 328, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 152).

Congress intended that domestic relations matters be consolidated in single forum. Id.

Juvenile court is proper forum in which to seek adjudication of paternity and an award for support of any child born out of wedlock. A. D. Martin v. L. P. Martin (D.C. App. 1968, 240 A. 2d 363).

Jurisdiction over foreign property

In a divorce action, District of Columbia court could not award and apportion property located in Maryland but it did have jurisdiction to determine an adjudicate rights of parties before it to such property and direct parties to execute such instruments as were necessary to effectuate that adjudication. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (1968, 396 F. 2d 695, 130 U.S. App. 46).

Maryland law that when parties are validly divorced real property formerly held by them as tenants by entirety, until otherwise apportioned in appropriate Maryland court, is held by them as tenants in common did not preclude District of Columbia court from exercising its authority to determine and adjudicate property rights of parties before it. Id.

District of Columbia courts are authorized to adjust and apportion property rights in property held jointly by parties to divorce action and must do so in same proceeding in which divorce decree is entered although their enforcement power as to property located in another state is limited to determination and adjudication of parties' rights. Id.

Law of forum

Law of forum governs remedial powers of court to deal with property located in another state. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (1968, 396 F. 2d 695, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 46).

Nature of proceeding

Paternity proceedings are neither entirely criminal nor civil in nature, but are quasi-criminal. E. Saunders, Jr. v. District of Columbia (D.C. App. 1970, 263 A. 2d 58).

Powers

If divorced wife was entitled to relief in her suit for specific performance or damages for former husband's alleged failure to abide by terms of separation agreement providing for maintenance and support of wife, it would be within power of Domestic Relations Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions to grant it, whether it was equitable or legal in nature. F. C. Den v. A. A. J. Den (1967, 375 F. 2d 328, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 152).

Support and education of adult child

In this case, the court held that a father has no legal obligation to provide for continued college education of his daughter, who had been placed in custody of the mother pursuant to separation agreement, after the daughter reached majority. W. T. Spence v. F. A. Spence (D.C. App. 1970, 266 A. 2d 29).

A father is not legally required to support and educate an adult child, except as specified by statute when the child is in need of public assistance or is hospitalized because of mental illness. Id.

Support for child

The interest of the child is, within reason, primary to any prior separation agreement between the parties to divorce, and provisions in agreement for child support are consequently always open to later modification by court upon a proper showing. R. L. Davis v. J. H. Davis (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 515).

Transfer to domestic relations branch after appeal

Where appeal was taken from district court's entry of summary judgment for defendant in suit for specific performance or damages based on alleged failure of defendant to abide by terms of separation agreement and Court of Appeals determined that action was within exclusive jurisdiction of Domestic Relations Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, interests of justice would best be served by remanding case to District Court with directions to vacate its order and transfer action to the Domestic Relations Branch. F. C. Den v. A. A. J. Den (1967, 375 F. 2d 328, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 152).

"Wife" defined

Although plaintiff suing for specific performance or damages for defendant's alleged failure to abide by terms of separation agreement was no longer married to defendant, she was a "wife" for purposes of statute providing that Domestic Relations Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions has exclusive jurisdiction of civil action to enforce support of wife. F. C. Den v. A. A. J Den (1967, 375 F. 2d 328, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 152).

Sec.
11–1201. Exclusive jurisdiction.

§ 11–1201. Exclusive jurisdiction

The Tax Division of the Superior Court shall be assigned exclusive jurisdiction of—

(1) all appeals from and petitions for review of assessments of tax (and civil penalties thereon) made by the District of Columbia; and

(2) all proceedings brought by the District of Columbia for the imposition of criminal penalties pursuant to the provisions of the statutes relating to taxes levied by or in behalf of the District of Columbia. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 488.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 11–1202. Abolition of other remedies

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the jurisdiction of the Tax Division of the Superior Court to review the validity and amount of all assessments of tax made by the District of Columbia is exclusive. Effective on and after the effective date of the District of Columbia Court Reorganization Act of 1970, any common-law remedy with respect to assessments of tax in the District of Columbia and any equitable action to enjoin such assessments available in a court other than the former District of Columbia Tax Court is abolished. Actions properly filed before the effective date of that Act are not affected by this section and the court in which any such action has been filed may retain jurisdiction until its disposition. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 489.)

§ 11–1203. Rules and regulations

The Superior Court may make such rules and regulations for conducting business in the Tax Division, consistent with the statutes applicable to such business and with the Superior Court's general rules of practice and procedure, as it may deem necessary and proper. Rules and regulations for the Tax Division shall, insofar as possible, assure the prompt disposition of matters before the Tax Division to the end that the taxing statutes of the District of Columbia shall be fairly and efficiently enforced. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 489.)

(July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 489.)

SUBCHAPTER II.—JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURES

§ 11–1321. Exclusive jurisdiction of small claims

The Small Claims and Conciliation Branch has exclusive jurisdiction of any action within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court which is only for the recovery of money, if the amount in controversy does not exceed $750, exclusive of interest, attorney fees, protest fees, and costs. An action which affects an interest in real property may not be brought in the Branch. If a counterclaim, cross claim, or any other claim or any defense, affecting an interest in real property, is made in an action brought in the Branch, the action shall be certified to the Civil Division. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 489.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1323, 16–3904.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Amount of claim

The amount of claim by plaintiff alleging that defendant finance service is charging a usurious rate of interest is critical to proper determination of threshold question, since if claim is for less than $150, the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch has exclusive jurisdiction and action would not lie in Civil Division of Court of General Sessions. P. Simmons v. Central Charge Service, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 269 A. 2d 850).

§ 11–1322. Arbitration and conciliation

In order to effect the speedy settlement of controversies, and with the consent of the parties thereto, the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch may settle cases, irrespective of the amount involved, by the methods of arbitration and conciliation. A judge sitting in the Branch may act as a referee or arbitrator, either alone or in conjunction with other persons, as provided by rule of the court. A judge, officer, or employee of the Superior Court may not accept any fee or compensation in addition to his salary for services performed pursuant to this section. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 490.)

§ 11–1323. Certification of cases by Superior Court judges; recertification; certification by Branch

(a) When the interests of justice seem to require and all parties consent thereto, a judge of the Superior Court may certify a case to the Small Claims and Conciliation Branch for conciliation or to obtain a complete or partial agreed statement of facts or stipulation, which will simplify and expedite the ultimate trial of the case. With the consent of all parties, the trial of the case may be completed in the Branch. In the absence of consent, the case shall be recertified to another judge of the Civil Division for trial.

(b) When the interests of justice seem to require, the Branch may certify to the Civil Division any action brought in the Branch under section 11–1321. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 490.)

SUBCHAPTER I.—APPOINTMENT; QUALIFICATIONS; SERVICE OF JUDGES

§ 11–1501. Appointment and qualifications of judges

(a) The President of the United States shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint all judges of the District of Columbia courts. He shall have power to fill all vacancies that may occur in those courts during a recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of the next session of the Senate.

(b) A person may not be appointed a judge of a District of Columbia court unless he—

(1) is a citizen of the United States;

(2) (A) is a member of the bar of the District of Columbia and (B) (i) has been a member of such bar for a period of at least five years, or (ii) in the case of a professor of law in a law school in the District of Columbia or of an attorney employed in the District of Columbia by the United States or the District of Columbia, has been eligible for membership in the bar of the District of Columbia for at least five years prior to his appointment;

(a)(1) A judge of a District of Columbia court shall be removed from office upon the filing in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals by the Commission of an order of removal certifying the entry, in any court within the United States, of a final judgment of conviction of a crime which is punishable as a felony under Federal law or which would be a felony in the District of Columbia.

(2) A judge of a District of Columbia court shall also be removed from office upon affirmance of an appeal from an order of removal filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals by the Commission

(or upon expiration of the time within which such an appeal may be taken) after a determination by the Commission of—

(A) willful misconduct in office,

(B) willful and persistent failure to perform judicial duties, or

(C) any other conduct which is prejudicial to the administration of justice or which brings the judicial office into disrepute.

(b) A judge of a District of Columbia court shall be involuntarily retired from office when (1) the Commission determines that the judge suffers from a mental or physical disability (including habitual intemperance) which is or is likely to become permanent and which prevents, or seriously interferes with, the proper performance of his judicial duties, and (2) the Commission files in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals an order of involuntary retirement and the order is affirmed on appeal or the time within which an appeal may be taken from the order has expired.

(c)(1) A judge of a District of Columbia court shall be suspended, without salary—

(A) upon—

(i) proof of his conviction of a crime referred to in subsection (a)(1) which has not become final, or

(ii) the filing of an order of removal under subsection (a)(2) which has not become final; and

(B) upon the filing by the Commission of an order of suspension in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Suspension under this paragraph shall continue until termination of all appeals. If the conviction is reversed or the order of removal is set aside, the judge shall be reinstated and shall recover his salary and all rights and privileges of his office.

(2) A judge of a District of Columbia court shall be suspended from all judicial duties, with such retirement salary as he may be entitled to pursuant to subchapter III of this chapter, upon the filing by the Commission of an order of involuntary retirement under subsection (b) in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. Suspension shall continue until termination of all appeals. If the order of involuntary retirement is set aside, the judge shall be reinstated and shall recover his judicial salary less any retirement salary received and shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of his office.

(3) A judge of a District of Columbia court shall be suspended from all or part of his judicial duties, with salary, if the Commission, upon the concurrence of three members, (A) orders a hearing for the removal or retirement of the judge pursuant to this subchapter and determines that his suspension is in the interest of the administration of justice, and (B) files an order of suspension in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The suspension shall terminate as specified in the order (which may be modified, as appropriate, by the Commission) but in no event later than the termination of all appeals. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 494.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1527, 11–1529, 11–1562.

§ 11–1527. Procedures

(a)(1) On its own initiative, or upon complaint or report of any person, formal or informal, the Commission may undertake an investigation of the conduct or health of any judge. After such investigation as it deems adequate, the Commission may terminate the investigation or it may order a hearing concerning the health or conduct of the judge. No order affecting the tenure of a judge based on grounds for removal set forth in section 11–1526(a)(2) or 11–1530(b)(3) shall be made except after a hearing as provided by this subchapter. Nothing in this subchapter shall preclude any informal contacts with the judge, or the chief judge of his court, by the Commission, whether before or after a hearing is ordered, to discuss any matter related to its investigation.

(2) A judge whose conduct or health is to be the subject of a hearing by the Commission shall be given notice of such hearing and of the nature of the matters under inquiry not less than thirty days before the date on which the hearing is to be held. He shall be admitted to such hearing and to every subsequent hearing regarding his conduct or health. He may be represented by counsel, offer evidence in his own behalf, and confront and cross-examine witnesses against him.

(3) Within ninety days after the adjournment of hearings, the Commission shall make findings of fact and a determination regarding the conduct or health of a judge who was the subject of the hearing. The concurrence of at least four members shall be required for a determination of grounds for removal or retirement. Upon a determination of grounds for removal or retirement, the Commission shall file an appropriate order pursuant to subsection (a) or (b) of section 11–1526. On or before the date the order is filed, the Commission shall notify the judge, the chief judge of his court, and the President of the United States.

(b) The Commission shall keep a record of any hearing on the conduct or health of a judge and one copy of such record shall be provided to the judge at the expense of the Commission.

(c)(1) In the conduct of investigations and hearings under this section the Commission may administer oaths, order and otherwise provide for the inspection of books and records, and issue subpenas for attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts, documents, and testimony relevant to any such investigation or hearing. It may order a judge whose health is in issue to submit to a medical examination by a duly licensed physician designated by the Commission.

(2) Whenever a witness before the Commission refuses, on the basis of his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce books, papers, documents, records, recordings, or other materials, and the Commission determines that the testimony or production of evidence is necessary to the conduct of its proceedings, it may order the witness to testify or produce the evidence. The Commission may issue the order no earlier than ten days after the day on which it served the Attorney General with notice of its intention to issue the order. The witness may not refuse to comply with the order on the basis of his privilege against self-incrimination, but no testimony or other information compelled under the order (or any information directly or indirectly derived from the testimony or production of evidence) may be used against the witness in any criminal case, nor may it be used as a basis for subjecting the witness to any penalty or forfeiture contrary to constitutional right or privilege. No witness shall be exempt under this subsection from prosecution for perjury committed while giving testimony or producing evidence under compulsion as provided in this subsection.

(3) If any person refuses to attend, testify, or produce any writing or things required by a subpena issued by the Commission, the Commission may petition the United States district court for the district in which the person may be found for an order compelling him to attend and testify or produce the writings or things required by subpena. The court shall order the person to appear before it at a specified time and place and then and there shall consider why he has not attended, testified, or produced writings or things as required. A copy of the order shall be served upon him. If it appears to the court that the subpena was regularly issued, the court shall order the person to appear before the Commission at the time or place fixed in the order and to testify or produce the required writings or things. Failure to obey the order shall be punishable as contempt of court.

(4) In pending investigations or proceedings before it, the Commission may order the deposition of any person to be taken in such form and subject to such limitation as may be prescribed in the order. The Commission may file in the Superior Court a petition, stating generally, without identifying the judge, the nature of the pending matter, the name and residence of the person whose testimony is desired, and directions, if any, of the Commission requesting an order requiring the person to appear and testify before a designated officer. Upon the filing of the petition the Superior Court may order the person to appear and testify. A subpena for such deposition shall be issued by the clerk of the Superior Court and the deposition shall be taken and returned in the manner prescribed by law for civil actions.

(d) It shall be the duty of the United States marshals upon the request of the Commission to serve process and to execute all lawful orders of the Commission.

(e) Each witness, other than an officer or employee of the United States or the District of Columbia, shall receive for his attendance the same fees, and all witnesses shall receive the allowances, prescribed by section 15–714 for witnesses in civil cases. The amount shall be paid by the Commission from funds appropriated to it. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 495.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 11–1528. Privilege; confidentiality

(a) The filing of papers with and the giving of testimony before the Commission shall be privileged. Unless otherwise authorized by the judge whose conduct or health is the subject of the proceedings under this subchapter, the hearings before the Commission, the record thereof, and all papers filed in connection with such hearings shall be confidential. But on prosecution of a witness for perjury or on review of a decision of the Commission, the record of hearings before the Commission and all papers filed in connection therewith shall be disclosed to the extent required for the prosecution or review.

(b) If the Commission determines that no grounds for removal or involuntary retirement exist it shall notify the judge and inquire whether he desires the Commission to make available to the public information pertaining to the nature of its investigation, its hearings, findings, determinations, or any other fact related to its proceedings regarding his health or conduct. Upon receipt of such request in writing from the judge, the Commission shall make such information available to the public. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 497.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 11–1529. Judicial review

(a) A judge aggrieved by an order of removal or retirement filed by the Commission pursuant to subsection (a) or (b) of section 11–1526 may seek judicial review thereof by filing notice of appeal with the Chief Justice of the United States. Notice of appeal shall be filed within 30 days of the filing of the order of the Commission in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

(b) Upon receipt of notice of appeal from an order of the Commission, the Chief Justice shall convene a special court consisting of three Federal judges designated from among active or retired judges of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit and the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

(c) The special court shall review the order of the Commission appealed from and, to the extent necessary to decision and when presented, shall decide all relevant questions of law and interpret constitutional and statutory provisions. Within 90 days after oral argument or submission on the briefs if oral argument is waived, the special court shall affirm or reverse the order of the Commission or remand the matter to the Commission for further proceedings.

(d) The special court shall hold unlawful and set aside a Commission order or determination found to be—

(1) arbitrary, capricious, and abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law;

(2) contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity;

(3) in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right;

(4) without observance of procedure required by law; or

(5) unsupported by substantial evidence.

In making the foregoing determinations, the special court shall review the whole record or those parts of it cited by the judge or the Commission, and shall take due account of the rule of prejudicial error.

(e) As appropriate and to the extent consistent with this chapter, the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure governing appeals in civil cases shall apply to appeals taken under this section.

(f) Decisions of the special court shall be final and conclusive. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 497.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11–1530.

If he cannot obtain the identity of the trust interest, he shall request the trustee to report that information to the Commission in such manner as the Commission shall by rule prescribe.

(6) The identity of each interest in real or personal property having a value of $10,000 or more which he owned at any time during such period.

(b)(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection the content of any report filed under this section shall not be open to inspection by anyone other than (A) the person filing the report, (B) authorized members, alternate members, or staff of the Commission to determine if this section has been complied with or in connection with duties of the Commission under this subchapter, or (C) a special court convened under section 11–1529 to review a removal order of the Commission.

(2) Reports filed pursuant to paragraphs (2) and (7) of subsection (a) shall be made available for public inspection and copying promptly after filing and during the period they are kept by the Commission, and shall be kept by the Commission for not less than three years.

(3) The intentional failure by a judge of a District of Columbia court to file a report required by this section, or the filing of a fraudulent report, shall constitute willful misconduct in office and shall be grounds for removal from office under section 11–1526(a)(2). RETIREMENT OF CERTAIN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA JUDGES

Section 193 of Pub. L. 91–358, provided:

(a) The person serving as judge of the District of Columbia Tax Court on the day prior to the effective date of this title may, within sixty days of such date, elect to retain retirement benefits under section 2 of title IX of the District of Columbia Revenue Act of 1937 (D.C. Code, sec. 47–2402), or relinquish such benefits and elect retirement benefits under chapter 15 of title 11 of the District of Columbia Code, as contained in the revision made by part A of this title.

(b)(1) Any judge of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, or the former District of Columbia Municipal Court of Appeals or Municipal Court, who had retired prior to the effective date of this subsection, may elect to have his retirement salary recomputed and paid in accordance with this subsection. Such election may be made in writing within sixty days after such effective date and shall be filed with the Commissioner of the District of Columbia.

(2) The retirement salary of each judge making such election shall be recomputed in accordance with applicable law then in effect at the time of his retirement, except that in the recomputation of such retirement salary, the salary of the corresponding judicial office on the day immediately following the effective date of this subsection shall be deemed to be the salary which such judge was receiving immediately prior to the date of his retirement.

(3) Each judge who elects recomputation of his retirement salary in accordance with this subsection shall—

(A) deposit in the District of Columbia Judicial Retirement and Survivors Annuity Fund an amount equal to 3½ per centum of his basic salary received for judicial service, with interest at 4 per centum per annum to December 31, 1947, and 3 per centum per annum thereafter, compounded on December 31 of each year; or

(B) have his retirement salary, as recomputed in accordance with this subsection, reduced by 10 per centum of the amount of such deposit remaining unpaid.

(4) The retirement salary of any judge which is recomputed in accordance with this subsection shall be payable only with respect to those months beginning on and after the first day of the first month following the date of the election made by such judge under this subsection.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1568, 11–1569.

§ 11–1562. Eligibility for retirement

(a) A judge is eligible for retirement under this subchapter when he has completed ten years of judicial service, whether continuous or not, or upon mandatory retirement as provided in section 11–1502.

(b) The retirement salary of a judge who retires shall commence as follows:

(1) With twenty or more years of judicial service, at age fifty.

(2) With less than twenty years of judicial service, at age sixty, unless he elects to receive a reduced salary beginning at age fifty-five or at the date of retirement if subsequent to that age.

(c) A judge with five years or more of judicial service, including civilian service performed by the judge which is creditable under section 8332 of title 5, United States Code, may voluntarily retire for a mental or physical disability which is or is likely to become permanent and which prevents, or seriously interferes with, the proper performance of judicial duties. Such disability shall be established by furnishing to the Commissioner a certificate of disability signed by a duly licensed physician, approved by the Surgeon General of the United States, and containing such information and conclusions as the Commissioner by regulation may require consistent with this subsection.

(d) Eligibility for retirement salary of a judge involuntarily retired for disability under section 11–1526(b) shall not be conditioned upon prior service. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 500.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1564, 11–1566.

§ 11–1563. Withholding of retirement payments; lump-sum credit

(a) There shall be deducted and withheld from the basic salary of each judge appointed after October 31, 1964, and each judge appointed before November 1, 1964, who has elected to come within the provisions of this subchapter an amount equal to 3½ per centum of his basic salary. Amounts so deducted and withheld shall be deposited in the fund in accordance with procedures established by the Commissioner. Each judge subject to this section shall be deemed to consent and agree to such deductions from basic salary, and payment less such deductions shall constitute a full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands whatsoever for all regular service during the period covered by such payment, except the right to the benefits to which he shall be entitled under this subsection, notwithstanding any law, rule, or regulation affecting the judge's salary.

(b) If he has not previously so deposited, each judge subject to this section shall deposit in the fund, with interest at 4 per centum per annum to December 31, 1947, and 3 per centum per annum thereafter, compounded on December 31 of each year, a sum equal to 3½ per centum of his basic salary received for judicial service performed by him as a judge prior to the date he became subject to the District of Columbia Judges Retirement Act of 1964. Each judge may elect to make such deposits in installments during the continuance of his judicial service in such amounts as may be determined in each instance by the Commissioner. Notwithstanding the failure of any judge to make such deposits, credit shall be allowed for the service rendered but the retirement pay for such judge shall be reduced by 10 per centum of such deposit remaining unpaid unless the judge shall elect to eliminate the service involved for purposes of retirement salary computation, except as provided in section 11–1564(d).

(c) If any judge who is subject to this section is removed, resigns, or fails to be recommissioned or reappointed, he is entitled to be paid his lump-sum credit for retirement if application for payment is filed with the Commissioner at least thirty-one days before the commencing date of any retirement salary for which he is eligible. The receipt of the lump-sum credit for retirement by the judge voids all retirement salary rights under this subchapter, until he is reemployed in judicial service subject to this subchapter.

(d) If a judge who has not elected to bring himself within the survivor annuity provisions of this subchapter dies while in regular active service, the lump-sum credit for retirement shall be paid, upon the establishment of a valid claim therefor, to the person or persons surviving him in the order of precedence established in section 11–1569(b). Such payments shall be a bar to recovery by any other person. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 501.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11–1566.

§ 11–1564. Computation of retirement salary; election to credit other service

(a) The retirement salary of a judge who retires pursuant to section 11–1562 (a) and (b) shall be paid annually in equal monthly installments during the remainder of his life and shall bear the same ratio to his basic salary immediately prior to the date of his retirement as the total of his aggregate years of service bears to the period of thirty years. A judge who elects to receive a reduced retirement salary pursuant to section 11–1562(b)(2) shall have his retirement salary reduced by one-twelfth of 1 per centum for each month or fraction of a month he is under the age of sixty at the time of the commencement of his reduced retirement salary. In no event shall the retirement salary (including the amount provided by subsection (c) of this section) of a judge exceed 80 per centum of his basic salary immediately prior to the date of his retirement.

(b) The retirement salary of a judge retired for disability pursuant to section 11–1526(b) or section 11–1562(c) or (d) shall be paid annually in equal monthly installments during the remainder of his life and shall be computed as provided in subsection (a). If a judge is retired for disability, his retirement salary shall not be reduced because of his age at the time of retirement. In no event shall the retirement salary of a judge retired for disability be less than 50 per centum or exceed 80 per centum of his basic salary immediately prior to the date of his retirement.

(c) In computing the retirement salary of a judge retiring under section 11–1562, the judge shall be entitled, if he so elects during the continuance of his judicial service or at the time of his retirement, to receive, in addition to the amount provided for in subsection (a) of this section, an amount (payable annually in equal monthly installments during the remainder of his life) based on military and civilian service performed by the judge which is creditable under section 8332 of title 5, United States Code, computed in accordance with section 8339 (a), (b), (c), (d), (g), and (h) of that title, as applicable, subject to the provisions of section 8334 (c) and (d) of that title and the provisions of subsection (d) of this section; except that average pay for the purpose of the computation shall be deemed to be the basic salary of the judge immediately prior to the date of his retirement under section 11–1562.

(d) (1) The crediting of service with respect to any judge under subsection (c) of this section shall be made on the standard basis of a deposit in the sum equal to 3½ per centum of his basic salary, pay, or compensation for civilian service creditable under section 8332 of title 5, United States Code, with interest as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(2) Interest on deposits under this subsection is computed from the midpoint of each service period included in the computation to the date of deposit or the commencing date of the retirement salary of the judge, whichever date is the earlier. Interest is computed at the rate of 4 per centum a year to December 31, 1947, and 3 per centum a year thereafter, compounded annually. Interest may not be charged for a period of separation from the service which began before October 31, 1956.

(3) Deposit under this subsection may not be required for—

(A) service before August 1, 1920;

(B) military service; or

(C) service for the Panama Railroad Company before January 1, 1924.

(4) If a judge elects to be credited with service under subsection (c) of this section, his lump-sum credit, or any remaining balance thereof, in the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund or in the retirement fund of any other retirement system for civilian employees of the Government of the United States or the District of Columbia, shall be transferred to the District of Columbia Judicial Retirement and Survivors Annuity Fund. The judge shall be deemed to consent to the transfer. The transfer shall be a complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands against the retirement system from which the funds were transferred on account of the service so credited.

(5) A judge whose lump-sum credit is transferred to the fund under paragraph (4) of this subsection is not required to make deposits in addition to the amount transferred for periods of service for which full contributions were made to the retirement system from which the transfer was made.

(6) In the case of a judge whose lump-sum credit has been transferred to the fund under paragraph (4) of this subsection and who has not elected a survivor annuity under section 11–1566, or prior corresponding provision of law, the Commissioner shall refund to the judge any amount which the Commissioner determines to be in excess of the amount of the deposit required by this subsection. In the case of a judge whose lump-sum credit has been transferred to the fund under paragraph (4) of this subsection and who, prior to the effective date of this section, had elected a survivor annuity and made deposits to the fund for survivor annuity purposes, the Commissioner shall refund to the judge any amount which the Commissioner determines in excess of the amount of the deposit required by section 11–1567.

(7) If any civilian service performed by the judge which is creditable under section 8332 of title 5, United States Code, is not covered by the amount of the lump-sum credit transferred under paragraph (4) of this subsection, the judge may make deposit, on the standard basis prescribed by paragraph (1) of this subsection, with interest as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, in accordance with and subject to the applicable provisions of section 8334 (c) and (d) of that title, of the amount or amounts necessary for him to receive full credit for that service for the purposes of subsection (c) of this section. The deposit may be made, as the judge may elect, in installments, during the continuance of his judicial service, in such amounts as the Commissioner may determine in each instance, or in a lump sum prior to or at the time of his retirement under section 11–1562. A judge electing to make installment deposits shall not be given full credit for the service until the total required deposit is made.

(8) For the purpose of survivor annuity, deposits authorized by this subsection also may be made by the survivor of a judge.

(e) Nothing in this subchapter shall prevent a judge eligible therefor from simultaneously receiving his retirement salary under this section and any annuity or retired pay to which he would otherwise be entitled under any other law without regard to this subchapter. However, in computing the retirement salary of a judge under this section, service used in the computation of such other annuity shall not be credited. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 501.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1563, 11–1566, 11–1567.

§ 11–1565. Service by retired judges

Any retired judge performing full-time judicial duties on the District of Columbia Court of Appeals or the Superior Court shall be entitled, during the period for which he serves, to receive the salary of the office in which he performs such duties, but there shall be deducted from such salary an amount equal to his retirement salary for that period. No deduction shall be withheld for health benefits, Federal employee's life insurance, or retirement purposes from the salary paid to a retired judge during judicial service. The performance of such judicial service shall not create an additional retirement, change a retirement, or create or in any manner affect a survivor annuity. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 503.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1566, 11–1567.

§ 11–1566. Survivor annuity; election; relinquishment

(a) Any judge, whether or not subject to sections 11–1562 to 11–1565, may, by written election filed with the Commissioner within six months after the date on which he takes office or is reappointed or recommissioned, or within six months after he marries, bring himself within the survivor annuity provisions of this subchapter.

(b) Any judge in regular active service or any retired judge, who shall have elected survivor annuity, and who after that election is unmarried and does not have a dependent child, may elect—

(1) to terminate the deductions and withholdings from his salary under section 11–1567(a) and any installment payments elected to be made under section 11–1567(b); and

(2) to have paid to him the lump-sum credit for survivor annuity.

Any election under this subsection shall be made in writing and filed with the Commissioner.

(c) If any judge who shall have elected survivor annuity resigns from office otherwise than under the provisions of this subchapter or is removed, he shall be entitled to be paid the lump-sum credit for survivor annuity.

(d) Payment of the lump-sum credit for survivor annuity as provided in this section shall extinguish all claims with respect to survivor annuity. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 503.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1564, 11–1569.

§ 11–1567. Survivor annuity; payments to fund

(a) There shall be deducted and withheld from the salary (whether basic or retirement) of each judge who has elected survivor annuity a sum equal to 3 per centum of that salary. The amounts so deducted and withheld shall, in accordance with such procedures as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, be deposited in the fund. Every judge who elects survivor annuity shall be deemed thereby to consent and agree to the deductions from his salary as provided in this subsection, and payment less such deductions shall constitute a full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands whatever for all judicial services rendered by such judge during the period covered by such payment, except the right to the benefits to which he or his survivors shall be entitled under the survivor annuity provisions of this subchapter.

(b) If he has not previously so deposited, each judge who has elected survivor annuity shall deposit to the fund, with interest at 4 per centum per annum to December 31, 1947, and 3 per centum per annum thereafter, compounded on December 31 of each year, a sum equal to 3 per centum of his salary received for judicial service and of retirement salary (but excluding salary for judicial service under section 11–1565); and a sum equal to 3 per centum of his basic salary, pay, or compensation for civilian service creditable under section 8332 of title 5, United States Code, with interest as provided in section 11–1564(d). Except to the extent that the Commissioner has made refund to the judge under section 11–1564(d)(6), deposit is not required with respect to that portion of the service of the judge covered by the transfer, under section 11–1564(d)(4), of his lump-sum credit to the fund. In addition, deposit may not be required for the types of service described in section 11–1564(d)(3). Each judge may elect to make deposits under this subsection in installments during the continuance of his judicial service in such amounts as may be determined in each instance by the Commissioner. Deposits under this subsection also may be made by the survivor of a judge.

(c) If a judge or survivor fails to make such deposits, credit shall be allowed for the service, but the annuity of the widow or widower of such judge shall be reduced by an amount equal to 10 per centum of the deposit required by this section, computed as of the date of the death of the judge, unless the widow or widower elects to eliminate the service not covered by deposit entirely from credit for computation purposes except as provided in section 11–1564(d)(3). (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 504.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–1564, 11–1566, 11–1568, 11–1569.

§ 11–1568. Survivor annuity; entitlement; computation.

(a) The service of a judge for the purpose of computing a survivor annuity includes his judicial service (and retired service for which deductions are made) and, subject to section 8334(d) of title 5, United States Code, his military and civilian service which is creditable under section 8332 of that title.

(b) Nothing in this subchapter shall prevent a widow or widower eligible therefor from simultaneously receiving a survivor annuity under this subchapter and any other annuity (survivor or otherwise) or retired pay to which he or she would otherwise be entitled under any other law without regard to this subchapter. However, in computing the survivor annuity of that widow or widower under this subchapter, service used in the computation of such other annuity shall not be credited.

(c) If a judge who has elected a survivor annuity dies in regular active service or after having retired from such service with at least five years of allowable service under this section for which payments have been withheld or deposits made, the survivor annuity shall be paid as follows:

(1) If the judge is survived by a widow or widower but no child, the widow or widower shall receive, beginning on the day after the judge dies, an amount computed as provided in subsection (e).

(2) If the judge is survived by a widow or widower and one or more children—

(A) the widow or widower shall receive an immediate annuity in the amount computed as provided in subsection (e); and

(B) there also shall be paid to or on behalf of each such child an immediate annuity equal to one-half the amount of the annuity of such widow or widower, but not to exceed the lesser of (i) $2,700 per year divided by the number of such children or (ii) $900 per child per year.

(3) If the judge leaves no surviving widow or widower but leaves a surviving child or children, there shall be paid to or on behalf of each such child an immediate annuity equal to the amount of the annuity to which the widow or widower would have been entitled under paragraph (1) of this subsection had he or she survived, but not to exceed the lesser of (A) $3,240 per year divided by the number of children or (B) $1,080 per child per year.

An annuity payable to a widow or widower under this section shall be terminable upon death or remarriage. The annuity payable to a child shall be terminable upon his death or marriage or his ceasing to be a child as defined in section 11–1561(8). In case of the death of a widow or widower of a judge leaving a child or children of the judge surviving, the annuity of such child or children shall be recomputed and paid as provided in paragraph (3) of this subsection. In any case in which the annuity of a child is terminated, the annuities of any remaining child or children, based upon the service of the same judge, shall be recomputed and paid as though the child whose annuity was terminated had not survived the judge.

(d) Questions of disability or other eligibility requirements of a child under this section shall be determined by the Commissioner who may order such medical or other examinations at any time as he deems necessary with respect to determining the facts concerning the disability of a child receiving or applying for an annuity under this subchapter. An annuity may be denied or suspended for failure to submit to examination.

(e) The annuity of a widow or widower of a judge electing survivor annuity shall be an amount equal to the sum of—

(1) 1¼ per centum of the average annual salary received for service allowable under subsection (a) during the last three years of such service prior to death or retirement multiplied by the sum of his years of judicial service and his Member, congressional employee, and his military service allowable under subsection (a); and

(2) three-fourths of 1 per centum of such average annual salary multiplied by his years of all other civilian service allowable under subsection (a).

A survivor annuity shall not exceed 44 per centum of the average annual salary described in paragraph (1) of this subsection and shall be subject to reduction as provided in section 11–1567(c). (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 504.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 11–1569.

§ 11–1569. Survivor annuity; payment; order of precedence

(a) Survivor annuities shall accrue monthly and shall be due and payable in monthly installments on the first business day of the month following the month or other period for which the annuity shall have accrued.

(b) In any case in which—

(1) a judge who has elected survivor annuity shall die (A) while in regular active service after having rendered five years of allowable service as provided in section 11–1568(a) or while receiving retirement salary under this subchapter but without a survivor or survivors entitled to annuity under section 11–1568(c) or (B) while in regular active service but before having rendered five years of allowable service; or

(2) the right of all persons entitled to an annuity under section 11–1568(c) based on the service of the judge shall terminate before a valid claim therefor shall have been established;

the lump-sum credit shall be paid, upon the establishment of a valid claim therefor, to the person or persons surviving at the date title to the payment arises, in the following order of precedence, and such payment shall be a bar to recovery by any other person:

First, to the beneficiary or beneficiaries whom the judge may have designated in writing to the Commissioner prior to the judge's death;

Second, if there be no such beneficiary, to the widow or widower of the judge;

Third, if none of the above, to the child or children of the judge and the descendants of any deceased children by representation;

Fourth, if none of the above, to the parents of the judge or the survivor of them;

Fifth, if none of the above, to the duly appointed executor or administrator of the estate of such judge;

Sixth, if none of the above, to such other next of kin of the judge as may be determined by the Commissioner to be entitled under the laws of the domicile of the judge at the time of his death.

Determination as to the widow, widower, or child of a judge for purposes of this subsection shall be made by the Commissioner without regard to the definitions in section 11–1561.

(c) In any case in which the annuities of all persons entitled to annuity based upon the service of a judge shall terminate before the aggregate amount of annuity paid (together with any amounts received by the judge as retirement salary) equals the total amount credited to the individual account of the judge, with interest at 4 per centum per annum to December 31, 1947, and 3 per centum per annum thereafter, compounded on December 31 of each year, to the date of the death of such judge, the difference shall be paid upon establishment of a valid claim therefor, in the order of precedence prescribed in subsection (b).

(d) Any accrued annuity remaining unpaid upon the termination (other than by reason of death) of the annuity of any person based upon the service of a judge shall be paid to such person. Any accrued annuity remaining unpaid upon the death of any person receiving an annuity based upon the service of a judge shall be paid, upon establishment of a valid claim therefor, in the following order of precedence:

First, to the duly appointed executor or administrator of the estate of the annuitant;

Second, if there is no such executor or administrator, payment may be made, after the expiration of thirty days from the date of death of the annuitant, to such person or persons as may appear in the judgment of the Commissioner to be legally entitled thereto, and such payments shall be a bar to recovery by any other person.

(e) Where any payment under sections 11–1566 to 11–1569 is to be made to a minor or to a person mentally incompetent or under other legal disability adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction, such payment may be made to the person who is constituted guardian or other fiduciary by the law of the jurisdiction wherein the claimant resides or is otherwise legally vested with the care of the claimant or his estate. NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–935 in 1967 Edition]

Transcripts

Under this section imposing duty to equate rules, practice and procedure relating to fees for transcripts in Court of General Sessions as nearly as practicable to those in United States District Court for District of Columbia and 28 U.S.C. 753 determining litigant's eligibility for free transcript in district court, and on proper certification by judge, the United States must pay for transcripts or essential portions thereof for indigent litigants allowed to appeal in forma pauperis to District of Columbia Court of Appeals. O. Lee v. N. Habib (1970, 424 F. 2d 891, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 403).

Doubts about substantiality of the questions on indigents' appeal and need for transcript at government expense to explore them should be resolved in favor of indigents. Id.

Judges should give due consideration to indigents' motions for transcripts in cases where the law appears to be settled but where appellant is able to show that his chances of changing the law on appeal are strong. Id.

Since, by motion for transcript, public funds may be expended for that purpose, a copy of motion for transcript should be served on United States attorney. J. McKelton v. J. E. Bruno (D.C. App. 1970, 264A. 2d 493).

Additional jurors

Even if district court should have foreseen that additional names might be necessary to obtain a jury for case and either increased jury call for that month or held case over until next month, trial judge had power to request additional jurors in view of circumstances. R. G. Baker v. United States (1968, 401 F. 2d 958, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 7).

Although additional jurors were not placed in general pool until after defendant's jury was drawn, it was no reversible error, where processing of additional jurors, with exception that defendant's name was mentioned to five veniremen who were not ultimately selected, was in accord with normal procedures. Id.

Failure to draw jurors ten days before trial in compliance with District of Columbia statute did not require reversal without a showing of prejudice. Id.

Drawing of additional jurors

That names of additional prospective jurors were not drawn ten days prior to term was not prejudicial to defendant. United States v. R. G. Baker (1967, 266 F. Supp. 461).

Impartial jury

Where on voir dire only those jurors were excluded who could not under any circumstances render verdict of guilty with death penalty and one juror who was opposed to death penalty was seated and actually served, defendants sentenced under Federal Youth Corrections Act, after being found guilty of carnally knowing female under 16 years of age, were not entitled to reversal of conviction on ground that jury was not impartial. J. Bailey and R. Humphries v. United States (1968, 405 F. 2d 1352, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 82).

Jury commissioners' discretion

Jury commissioners must exercise discretion since code merely establishes minimum requirements for prospective grand jurors. United States v. B. Haywood (1968, 289 F. Supp. 479).

Method of selection of juries

Process of selection of grand jury that excused any woman who in her response to questionnaire stated she did not wish to serve, though her willingness was encouraged, without showing intentional, systematic, arbitrary or unreasonable exclusion of women, did not result in grand jury unlawfully constituted. United States v. B. Haywood (1968, 289 F. Supp. 479).

Inclusion of persons who maintain voting residences outside District of Columbia, when in fact all 23 members of particular grand jury in question did not vote elsewhere, did not show impropriety in selection of grand jury. Id.

Production of prior records

Enforcement of subpoena duces tecum on jury commissioners to obtain records going back many years relating to thousands of questionnaire responses in order to show that grand jury was unlawfully constituted, while new jury selection system under new act was about to go into effect, was not justified or necessary. United States v. B. Haywood (1968, 289 F. Supp. 479).

Qualifications

Before granting new trial on ground that prospective juror failed to disclose material fact during examination as to his qualifications, it must be shown to court's satisfaction that juror deliberately attempted to deceive court by intentionally concealing facts reasonably called for by question and that defendant was prejudiced thereby. United States v. R. G. Baker (1967, 266 F. Supp. 461).

Where prospective juror who was lieutenant in reserve of metropolitan police for District of Columbia previously had been told by a judge that he was not a police officer, and was not at time of voir dire questioning a special police officer and he was not paid by the District, his failure to respond to questions as to whether he was connected with police department of District, a special police officer, or employee of District was not basis for new trial, in absence of showing of prejudice to defendant. Id.

Questionnaire to prospective jurors

Questions in questionnaire used in selection of grand jury as to whether person had ever been arrested or had any views opposed to form of government established by United States Constitution elicited pertinent information and did not render grand jury unlawfully constituted in contravention of Constitution. United States v. B. Haywood (1968, 289 F. Supp. 479).

In order to show that questions asked on questionnaire used to select grand jurors rendered grand jury unlawfully constituted, a defendant must establish more than fact that such questions were asked and must also show the use to which such answers were put and the purpose underlying them. Id.

Systematic exclusion of class or group

Defendant failed to demonstrate that any specific class or group had been systematically excluded by jury commissioners or that there had been any exclusion at all of persons qualified to act as jurors, in proceeding wherein defendant contended he was entitled to new trial on basis that court had erred when it denied his motion to strike jury panel. United States v. R. G. Baker (1967, 266 F. Supp. 461).

NOTES TO DECISION UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 11–2101 in 1967 Edition]

Power of court

Within very wide limits, standards of fitness for membership in the bar of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia are for the District Court itself to establish and maintain. Carver v. Clephane (1943, 137 F. 2d 685, 78 U.S. App. D.C. 91).

§ 11–2502. Censure, suspension, or disbarment for cause

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals may censure, suspend from practice, or expel a member of its bar for crime, misdemeanor, fraud, deceit, malpractice, professional misconduct, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice. A fraudulent act or misrepresentation by an applicant in connection with this application or admission is sufficient cause for the revocation by the court of his admission. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 521.)

§ 11–2503. Disbarment upon conviction of crime; procedure for censure, suspension, or disbarment

(a) When a member of the bar of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals is convicted of an offense involving moral turpitude, and a certified copy of the conviction is presented to the court, the court shall, pending final determination of an appeal from the conviction, suspend the member of the bar from practice. Upon reversal of the conviction the court may vacate or modify the suspension. If a final judgment of conviction is certified to the court, the name of the member of the bar so convicted shall be struck from the roll of the members of the bar and he shall thereafter cease to be a member. Upon the granting of a pardon to a member so convicted, the court may vacate or modify the order of disbarment.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (a), a member of the bar may not be censured, suspended, or expelled under this chapter until written charges, under oath, against him have been presented to the court, stating distinctly the grounds of complaint. The court may order the charges to be filed in the office of the clerk of the court and shall fix a time for hearing thereon. Thereupon a certified copy of the charges and order shall be served upon the member personally, or if it is established to the satisfaction of the court that personal service cannot be had, a certified copy of the charges and order shall be served upon him by mail, publication, or otherwise as the court directs. After the filing of the written charges, the court may suspend the person charged from practice at its bar pending the hearing thereof. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 111, title I, 84 Stat. 521.)

EFFECTIVE DATE AND TEMPORARY CONTINUATION OF LAWS CONTAINED IN TITLE 11, CHAPTER 21 OF 1967 EDITION OF THE CODE

(b) Notwithstanding subsection (a), the following provisions shall take effect as provided in the following paragraphs:

(1) The provisions of chapter 25 (relating to attorneys) of title 11 of the District of Columbia Code, as contained in the revision made by part A of this title, shall take effect on April 1, 1972. The provisions of chapter 21 (relating to attorneys) of title 11 of the District of Columbia Code, in effect on the day before the effective date of this title, shall remain in effect until April 1, 1972; except that during the period beginning on the effective date of this title and ending April 1, 1972, section 11–2103 of such chapter is amended to read as follows:

"§ 11–2103. Disbarment by District Court upon conviction of crime

"When a member of the bar of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia is convicted of an offense involving moral turpitude, and a certified copy of the conviction is presented to the court, the court shall, pending final determination of an appeal from the conviction, suspend the member of the bar from practice. Upon reversal of the conviction the court may vacate or modify the suspension. If a final judgment of conviction is certified to the court, the name of the member of the bar so convicted shall be struck from the roll of the members of the bar and he shall thereafter cease to be a member. Upon the granting of a pardon to a member so convicted, the court may vacate or modify the order of disbarment."

§ 11–2504. Censure, suspension, or disbarment by other courts

The Federal courts in the District of Columbia and the Superior Court may censure, suspend, or expel an attorney from the practice at their respective bars, for a crime involving moral turpitude, or professional misconduct, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice. If an attorney is expelled from practice under this section, the court expelling him shall notify the other Federal courts in the District of Columbia and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals of the action taken. § 12–101. Survival of rights of action

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Applicability of Federal rules

Substitution of parties in civil actions in courts of District of Columbia is governed by Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. L. D. Roscoe v. J. A. Roscoe (1967, 379 F. 2d 94, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 317).

Damages

Under statute providing that on death of person for or against whom right of action accrued prior to death, right of action shall survive, provided that in tort actions, right of action shall be limited to damages for physical injury except for pain and suffering, fact of injury alone is not sufficient basis for recovery, and award of damages must be based on results of injury rather than on mere fact of injury. C. Bogen, Executrix, etc. v. L. G. Green (D.C. App. 1968, 239 A. 2d 154).

Defendant executrix, who was substituted as defendant in personal injury action following death of tort-feasor, was entitled, having made point in proper and timely fashion, to rulings and instructions defining proper elements of recovery under statute providing that on death of person for or against whom right of action accrued prior to death, right of action shall survive, provided that in tort actions, right of action shall be limited to damages for physical injury except for pain and suffering, and failure to make rulings requested required new trial. Id.

Libel and slander

1963 amendment to survival statute did not change rule that action for libel and slander does not survive death of defendant. H. S. Wender v. S. Hamburger, etc. (1968, 393 F. 2d 365, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 256).

—— Pain and suffering

Statute providing that on death of person for or against whom right of action accrued prior to death, right of action shall survive, provided that in tort actions right of action shall be limited to damages for physical injury except for pain and suffering precludes recovery for pain and suffering where either injured party or wrongdoer has died prior to trial. C. Bogen, Executrix, etc. v. L. G. Green (D.C. App. 1968, 239 A. 2d 154).

Separate and independent claims

Negligent conduct resulting in death may generate simultaneously two independent bases for action, one under the Survival Act and the other under the Wrongful Death Act, upon each of which damages may be sought. W. J. Emmett, Administrator etc. v. Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital et al. (1967, 396 F. 2d 931, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 50).

Negligent act causing death can give rise simultaneously to separate and independent claims under Wrongful Death Act and under Survival Act. P. Wharton and L. Wharton etc. v. G. L. Jones et al. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 634).

Survival of action against relatives for support

Where 84-year-old widow invoked the District of Columbia Public Assistance Act of 1962 against her eldest daughter, and the District of Columbia Court of General Sessions denied recovery, and, pending appeal to District of Columbia Court of Appeals, widow died, and her daughter moved for dismissal for mootness against substituted executor, District of Columbia Survival Act did not require abatement, and it was error to grant motion for dismissal for mootness. J. M. Stone, Executor etc. v. A. W. Brewster (1968, 399 F. 2d 554, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 183).

Tolling of statute

Pendency of personal injury action under Survival Act does not toll statute of limitations on a death claim. P. Wharton and L. Wharton etc. v. G. L. Jones et al. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 634).

Pendency of wrongful death action did not toll statute of limitations on claim under Survival Act. Id.

Waiver of physicians-patient privilege

Under statute providing that no physician or surgeon shall be permitted without consent of patient or his legal representatives to disclose any confidential information acquired in attending patient professionally, the duly qualified personal representative, when there is one, is deceased patient's "legal representative" for purposes of gathering information with a view to prosecuting a wrongful death claim. W. J. Emmett, Administrator, etc. v. Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital et al. (1967, 396 F. 2d 931, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 50).

Decedent's son and only child had so vital an identification with any cause of action potentially arising upon his father's negligently caused demise as would enable him to waive the physician-patient privilege as to pertinent medical data where there was no personal representative to act in his behalf so that the assertion of the physician-patient privilege did not defeat son's right to inspect decedent's medical report or establish physician's and hospital's duty to preserve confidentiality of records against all save decedent's legal representative. Id.

§ 12–102. Substitution of parties

The substitution of parties in civil actions in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia and the Superior Court of the District of Columbia is governed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 509, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 141(1), title I, 84 Stat. 551.)

AMENDMENT

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

Chapter 3.—LIMITATION OF ACTIONS

§ 12–301. Limitation of time for bringing actions

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 12–308.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Acts constituting adverse possession

Payment of taxes is strong evidence of a claim of title when paid by someone other than record owner, however, a mere showing that the record owner, in the course of paying taxes for a lot he concededly owns, also pays an amount ascribable to a small border strip, does not negative another's adverse possession of that strip. L. M. Gary et ano. v. E. B. Dane III (1969, 411 F. 2d 711, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 397).

Owner's building or fencing out of land is not sufficient to establish adverse possession, despite mere nonuser by record landowner, but there must also be evidence of open and notorious adverse possession by another, up to the fence or structure. Id.

Adverse possession

While casual acts are not enough to establish ownership by adverse possession, there is a presumption, effective to establish title in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the possession is adverse whenever there is "open and continuous use of another's land". L. M. Gary et ano. v. E. B. Dane III (1969, 411 F. 2d 711, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 397).

Evidence was sufficient to establish title by adverse possession. Id.

Breach of contract

This section governed action in the District of Columbia to recover for breach of home improvement contract to waterproof basement of home located in Maryland. K. L. Fowler and F. D. Fowler v. A & A Company and W. R. O'Roark, etc. (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 344).

Statute of limitations begins to run in District of Columbia from date contract is breached. Id.

The three-year period within which to commence action to recover under provision of home improvement contract guaranteeing waterproofing of basement for five years began to run on date contractor breached contract by failing to correct defect on demand, and not on date wetness recurred, Id.

Since subcontractor had warranted waterproofing of basement of home for five years, warranty was breached when wetness recurred and three-year period of limitations governing contractor's right to recover against subcontractor began to run on date wetness recurred. Id.

Delay in delivery of summons and complaint to Marshal

Failure of plaintiff to deliver summonses and copies of complaint to the United States Marshal until 18 days after period of limitations had run was not excusable because of fact that two of corporate defendants were not residents of the District of Columbia and could not be sued and would not be served until plaintiff first filed traffic act bond required by D.C. Code. Criterion Insurance Company, etc. v. W. H. Lyles, et al. (D.C. App. 1968, 244 A. 2d 913).

Delay in mailing summons and complaint

Although copies of summons and complaint were served upon Director of Motor Vehicles in action arising out of motor vehicle collision in District of Columbia with nonresident motorist, mailing summons and complaint to nonresident motorist seven months after statute of limitations had run constituted failure to comply with statutory requirement that notice of such service and copy of process be sent "forthwith" by registered mail. R. J. Heinrich v. R. S. Huke (D.C. App. 1968, 244 A. 2d 915).

Evidence—Sufficiency

The court below was correct in concluding, on issue whether clients were estopped by their informal assurances to attorney from asserting limitations as defense in attorney's action to recover fee, that the evidence was insufficient for jury. R. M. Brown v. E. O. Lamb et ano. (1969, 414 F. 2d 1210, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

Ignorance or mistake

Our jurisdiction recognizes the doctrine that a claim of adverse possession may be rooted in ignorance or mistake, if there was intent to possess disputed area. L. M. Gary et ano. v. E. B. Dane III (1969, 411 F. 2d 711, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 397).

Injury to real property

Armory board's contracting officer's knowledge in February of 1962 that cracking in concrete structure of stadium was due to interaction of aluminum conduit and calcium chloride was imputable to board itself, and complaint filed by armory board against conduit manufacturer and architectural firm in March of 1966 alleging that cause of cracks was use of aluminum conduit in conjunction with calcium chloride in concrete mix was barred by three-year period of limitations governing injuries to real property. The District of Columbia Armory Board et al. v. D. G. Volkert, etc., et al. (1968, 402 F. 2d 215, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 74).

A complaint by armory board against architectural firm which was replete with references to fact that stadium had been substantially damaged by cracking in concrete structure and that board was entitled to be made whole for past and future costs of repairing such damage, purpose of action was to recover for an injury to real property, and three-year period of limitations governing injuries to real property, was applicable. Id.

Preoccupation in statute pertaining to limitation of time for bringing actions with property injury claims as a distinct class indicates a policy that lawsuits involving them should be heard and disposed of with reasonable promptitude, both for reasons of efficiency in evidentiary exploration and because of undesirability of lengthening unduly into future unresolved shadows of such claims. Id.

In real or personal property damage suits brought to recover damages, three-year period of limitations is applicable, whether contract (sealed or unsealed, written or oral) or tort be made legal vehicle of recovery, and not twelve-year period for suits on an instrument under seal. Id.

The rule that three-year period of limitation applies where real or personal property is injured and suits are brought to recover damages, whether contract (sealed or unsealed, written or oral) or tort be made legal vehicle of recovery does not render 12-year period of limitation on sealed instruments a nullity, inasmuch as 12-year period operates where suits on such instruments do not have as their purpose recovery of damages for injury to real or personal property. Id.

Malpractice

When a foreign object is left in a patient's wound at the close of surgical operation, statute of limitations governing action against physician begins to run when patient becomes aware, or should have become aware of what had happened, and not at moment when surgeon closes wound with foreign object abandoned inside. M. Burke and A. O. Burke v. Washington Hospital Center (1968, 293 F. Supp. 1328).

The court did not see any good reason for drawing a distinction between malpractice suits and other negligence cases and concluded that impounding of the boats might have been found to be an injury that resulted from appellees' erroneous advice and the three year statute of limitations applied. Fort Myers Seafood Packers, Inc. v. Steptoe and Johnson et al. (1967, 381 F. 2d 261, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 93).

Prescriptive easement

Where claimant of easement by prescription in alley had not owned property for 15-year period, was not in privity with users of alley and did not show use by titular predecessors, claimant did not possess prescriptive easement in alley. S. S. Zlotnick et al. v. J. I. Benders & Sons, Inc. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 548).

Tacking of use in order to acquire easement by prescription is impossible without showing of privity between users. Id.

Occasional use of alley by some of employees of Claimant's tenants for personal rather than business purposes could not be imputed to claimant of easement by prescription in alley for purpose of establishing use for prescriptive period. Id.

Evidence in declaratory judgment action did not establish that alley was continually used by general public for prescriptive period of 15 years. Id.

An easement for an air shaft based on open and notorious hostile adverse possession and use for 15 years can be obtained. Id.

Tolling of statute

The effect of estoppel is not to stop running of three-year statute of limitations in action for damages for alleged breach of contract or to create a new date for commencement of running of statute, since there remained well over two years in which to commence action when estoppel ceased. Property 10–F, Inc. v. Pack & Process, Inc. (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 290).

Fraudulent concealment of information moving party needs in order to determine whether there is a litigable dispute tolls the running of statute of limitations on death action. W. J. Emmett, Administrator, etc. v. Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital, et al. (1967, 396 F. 2d 931, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 50).

Statute of limitations on filing wrongful death and survival action was tolled by unprivileged failure of physician and hospital to permit decendent's son to inspect decedent's medical records. Id.

Pendency of personal injury action under Survival Act does not toll statute of limitations on a death claim. P. Wharton and L. Wharton etc. v. G. L. Jones et al. (1968, 285 F. Supp. 634).

Pendency of wrongful death action did not toll statute of limitations on claim under Survival Act. Id.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Suit in another jurisdiction

Three-year District of Columbia statute of limitations was not tolled by filing of suit against clients by attorney, in Ohio to recover fee. R. M. Brown v. E. O. Lamp et ano. (1969, 414 F. 2d 1210, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

§ 12–309. Actions against District of Columbia for unliquidated damages; time for notice

An action may not be maintained against the District of Columbia for unliquidated damages to person of property unless, within six months after the injury or damage was sustained, the claimant, his agent, or attorney has given notice in writing to the Commissioner of the District of Columbia of the approximate time, place, cause, and circumstances of the injury or damage. A report in writing by the Metropolitan Police Department, in regular course of duty, is a sufficient notice under this section. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 511, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 141(2), 84 Stat. 551.)

AMENDMENT

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

TRANSFER OF FUNCTIONS TO COMMISSIONER

See § 401 of Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1967, eff. Nov. 3, 1967, set out in the appendix to title 1. See also §§ 301 and 503 of the Plan.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

The statute which requires a notice of claim as a prerequisite to maintenance of action against District of Columbia is in derogation of common law and must be strictly construed. A. Boone v. District of Columbia (1968, 294 F. Supp. 1156).

Purpose of statute

The purpose of a statute which requires a notice of claim as a prerequisite to maintenance of action against District of Columbia is to give District's officials reasonable notice of accident so that facts may be ascertained and, if possible, claim adjusted. A. Boone v. District of Columbia (1968, 294 F. Supp. 1156).

Sufficiency of notice

Notice of claim is fatally defective if one or more of the statutory elements is lacking. A. Boone v. District of Columbia (1968, 294 F. Supp. 1156).

Notice of claim was fatally defective where notice failed to apprise District of identity of claimant and notice did not advise District of circumstances of injury, namely loss of consortium. Id.

Written notice

Requirement of District of Columbia statute of written notice of claim for injury, providing that police report is sufficient, was satisfied where detective immediately and thoroughly investigated accident and promptly made detailed official report. S. A. Thomas as the administrator etc., and J. F. Wynn, Jr. v. Potomac Electric Power Company and Dist. of Col. (1967, 266 F. Supp. 687).

NOTES TO DECISIONS

In Forma Pauperis

In a suit for possession in Landlord and Tenant Branch of District of Columbia Court of General Sessions, where-in trial court, upon motion, granted tenant permission to appeal to District of Columbia Court of Appeals in forma pauperis, the latter court should have allowed appeal without payment of filing fee since tenant submitted an affidavit alleging that he was unable to pay costs imposed and there was no affirmative showing of disentitlement. J. McKelton v. J. E. Bruno (1970, 428 F. 2d 718, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Appealing party in landlord and tenant dispute qualified as an indigent for purpose of in forma pauperis requirements in relation to his appeal since while he received approximately $90 take-home pay per week, he also alleged pressing debts and in addition had several dependents to support. Id.

Transcript

Since, by motion for transcript, public funds may be expended for that purpose, a copy of motion for transcript should be served on United States attorney. J. McKelton v. J. E. Bruno (D.C. Tpp. 1970, 264A. 2d 493).

Doing business

Under rules of Court of General Sessions, the defendant's submission of an affidavit, in support of motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction, setting forth facts tending to show that defendant did not do business in the District of Columbia, converted motion into one for summary judgment. M. T. Harmatz v. Zenith Radio Corporation (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 291).

In the case, the court held that summary judgment of dismissal for want of jurisdiction was proper since defendant submitted affidavit setting forth facts tending to show that it did not do business in the District of Columbia, and plaintiff did not present any evidence on question of whether defendant did business but relied solely on conclusory allegation in complaint. Id.

(July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 548.)

SUBCHAPTER II.—BASES OF PERSONAL JURISDICTION OVER PERSONS OUTSIDE THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

§ 13–421. Definition of person

As used in this subchapter, the term "person" includes an individual, his executor, administrator, or other personal representative, or a corporation, partnership, association, or any other legal or commercial entity, whether or not a citizen or domiciliary of the District of Columbia and whether or not organized under the laws of the District of Columbia. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 549.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 13–422. Personal jurisdiction based upon enduring relationship

A District of Columbia court may exercise personal jurisdiction over a person domiciled in, organized under the laws of, or maintaining his or its principal place of business in, the District of Columbia as to any claim for relief. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 549.)

§ 13–423. Personal jurisdiction based upon conduct

(a) A District of Columbia court may exercise personal jurisdiction over a person, who acts directly or by an agent, as to a claim for relief arising from the person's—

(1) transacting any business in the District of Columbia;

(2) contracting to supply services in the District of Columbia;

(3) causing tortious injury in the District of Columbia by an act or omission in the District of Columbia;

(4) causing tortious injury in the District of Columbia by an act or omission outside the District of Columbia if he regularly does or solicits business, engages in any other persistent course of conduct, or derives substantial revenue from goods used or consumed, or services rendered, in the District of Columbia;

(5) having an interest in, using, or possessing real property in the District of Columbia; or

(6) contracting to insure or act as surety for or on any person, property, or risk, contract, obligation, or agreement located, executed, or to be performed within the District of Columbia at the time of contracting, unless the parties otherwise provide in writing.

(b) When jurisdiction over a person is based solely upon this section, only a claim for relief arising from acts enumerated in this section may be asserted against him. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 549.)

§ 13–424. Service outside the District of Columbia

When the exercise of personal jurisdiction is authorized by this subchapter, service may be made outside the District of Columbia. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 549.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 13–425. Inconvenient forum

When any District of Columbia court finds that in the interest of substantial justice the action should be heard in another forum, the court may stay or dismiss such civil action in whole or in part on any conditions that may be just. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 549.)

SUBCHAPTER III.—SERVICE OUTSIDE THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

§ 13–431. Manner and proof of service

(a) When the law of the District of Columbia authorizes service outside the District of Columbia, the service, when reasonably calculated to give actual notice, may be made—

(1) by personal delivery in the manner prescribed for service within the District of Columbia;

(2) in the manner prescribed by the law of the place in which the service is made for service in that place in an action in any of its courts of general jurisdiction;

(3) by any form of mail addressed to the person to be served and requiring a signed receipt; or

(4) as directed by the foreign authority in response to a letter rogatory.

(b) Proof of service outside the District of Columbia may be made by affidavit of the individual who made the service or in the manner prescribed by the law of the District of Columbia, the order pursuant to which the service is made, or the law of the place in which the service is made for proof of service in an action in any of its courts of general jurisdiction. When service is made by mail, proof of service shall include a receipt signed by the addressee or other evidence of personal delivery to the addressee satisfactory to the court. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 549.)

§ 13–432. Individuals eligible to make service

Service outside the District of Columbia may be made by an individual who is permitted to make service of process under the law of the District of Columbia or under the law of the place in which the service is made or who is designated by a District of Columbia court. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 550.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 13–433. Individuals to be served; special cases

When the law of the District of Columbia requires that in order to effect service one or more designated individuals be served, service outside the District of Columbia under this article must be made upon such designated individual or individuals. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 550.)

§ 13–434. Assistance to tribunals and litigants outside the District of Columbia

(a) A District of Columbia court may order service upon any person who is domiciled or can be found within the District of Columbia of any document issued in connection with a proceeding in a tribunal outside the District of Columbia. The order may be made upon application of any interested person or in response to a letter rogatory issued by a tribunal outside the District of Columbia and shall direct the manner of service.

(b) Service in connection with a proceeding in a tribunal outside the District of Columbia may be made within the District of Columbia without an order of court.

(c) Service under this section does not, of itself, require the recognition or enforcement of an order, judgment, or decree rendered outside the District of Columbia. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 132(a), title I, 84 Stat. 550.)

§ 14–102. Impeachment of own witness; surprise

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Admissibility of deposition

Deposition of party may be admitted for any purpose including introduction as independent or original evidence. Firemen's Insurance Company of D.C. etc., et ano. v. Henry Fuel Company, Inc., et ano. (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 127).

When witness denies giving answer in deposition or does not remember doing so and his recollection is not refreshed on a reading of questions and his answers, deposition should be offered and received as evidence that statements were made but only to affect credibility and not as affirmative evidence. Id.

Discretion of Court

Permitting prosecutor to read statements of government witnesses in their entirety to jury in course of his use of them for impeachment purposes pursuant to claim of surprise was not abuse of discretion. J. S. Coleman v. United States (1966, 371 F. 2d 343, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 246).

Failure, sua sponte, to immediately caution jury as to limited purpose for which statements of government witnesses used for impeachment purposes pursuant to claim of surprise were being received was not abuse of discretion. Id.

Wide latitude in discretion of judge is to be allowed in examination of a recalcitrant witness. L. O. Troublefield v. United States (1967, 372 F. 2d 912, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Foundation for impeachment

When a party is taken by surprise by the evidence of his witness, the latter may be interrogated as to inconsistent statements previously made by him for purpose of refreshing his recollection and inducing him to correct his testimony, and party so surprised may also show the facts to be otherwise than as stated, although this incidentally tends to discredit the witness. L. O. Troublefield v. United States (1967, 372 F. 2d 912, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 339).

Before actual proof of inconsistent statements may be given by party surprised by testimony of his own witness, witness must be confronted with circumstances of the earlier statement, and he must be asked whether or not he made such statement and be given opportunity to explain. Id.

Where prosecution witness admitted presence when shooting occurred but denied that he had seen the shooting and swore that he did not know who had done the shooting, and at bench conference the prosecutor presented to trial judge a statement signed by witness inconsistent with such testimony, and witness admitted his signature to statement but swore that he had never seen the paper before, court properly ruled that foundation for surprise had been laid and prosecutor had right to put questions as to inconsistent statement. Id.

Harmless or prejudicial error

Court's failure to admit deposition, after witness at trial stated that he could not recall events of fire or his testimony given at deposition, was not prejudicial error where court did consider the impeaching testimony as of record and even gave it every affirmative consideration in making its decision. Firemen's Insurance Company of Washington, D.C., etc., et ano. v. Henry Fuel Company, Inc., et ano. (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 127).

Impeachment

"Surprise" referred to in the statute permitting government to impeach its own witness is presumably founded upon good faith. W. M. Brown v. United States (1969, 411 F. 2d 716, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 1).

An affidavit and pleading asserting that government avoided further interrogation of its own witness before trial in order to be able to claim surprise and thereby to impeach the witness required remand for supplementation by findings and conclusions by district court after evidentiary hearing on post-trial motion for new trial on ground of newly discovered evidence. Id.

Surprise

Statute permitting impeachment of witnesses pursuant to claim of surprise contemplates ruling by trial court which comprehends, in addition to finding of surprise, immediate representation to jury as to purpose for which impeaching statements are being permitted to come in J. S. Coleman v. United States (1966, 371 F. 2d 343, 125 U.S. App. D.C. 246).

§ 14–103. Depositions for use in State and Territorial Courts

When a commission is issued or notice given to take the testimony of a witness found within the District of Columbia, to be used in an action pending in a court of a State, territory, commonwealth, possession, or place under the jurisdiction of the United States, the testimony may be taken by leave of a judge of the United States District Court in like manner and with like effect as other depositions are taken in United States district courts, or by leave of a judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in the manner prescribed by the rules of that court. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 518, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 143(1), 84 Stat. 552.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 143(1) of Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358; amended section by striking out the period at the end thereof and inserting in lieu thereof ", or by leave of a judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in the manner prescribed by the rules of that court".

§ 14–301. Parties and other interested persons generally

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Expert testimony

In this case, the court held that disinterestedness is not required of expert witnesses any more than it is required of ordinary witnesses. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. v. B. F. Joy Co., Inc., et al. (1970, 424 F. 2d 831, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 343)

"The interest of a witness is merely one matter that goes to weight of his testimony and does not go to his competence. Id.

§ 14–302. Testimony against deceased or incapable person

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Admissions of decedent

Statute which prohibits a judgment against the personal representative of deceased on uncorroborated testimony of plaintiff was applicable only to plaintiff, not defendant, and permitting landlady to testify, in suit by decedent's administratrix to recover balance of bank account held in joint names of decedent and decedent's landlady and to recover automobile registered in both decedent's and landlady's names, as to declarations and admissions of decedent did not violate such statute. E. L. Prather v. J. B. Hill (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 690).

Corroboration

Where witnesses, who were not disqualified by statute, testified that in their presence decedent spoke of car as landlady's car and of joint bank account in a manner indicating he considered it as landlady's, there was sufficient corroboration to permit landlady to testify, in suit by decedent's administratrix to recover balance of bank account held in joint names of decedent and decedent's landlady and to recover automobile registered in both decedent's and landlady's names, as to declarations and admissions of decedent, even if statute prohibiting judgment against decedent's personal representative on uncorroborated testimony of plaintiff was applicable. E. L. Prather v. J. B. Hill (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 690).

Dead man's statute permits judgment against estate of deceased person based essentially on the survivor's testimony if there is other evidence from which reasonable men might conclude that his testimony is probably true. J. W. Toliver and L. M. Kennedy v. G. A. Durham, Executrix etc. (D.C. App. 1968, 240 A. 2d 359).

Under statute prohibiting judgment against representative of decedent on unsupported testimony of adversary, each case depends upon its own facts and test is whether evidence, taken as whole, tends to make story substantially more credible. Id.

Record disclosing that trial court in dismissing claims for personal service rendered decedent may have found corroborating testimony was not sufficient to produce belief that claimants' testimony was probably true would not support contention that trial court too narrowly interpreted dead man's statute in dismissing claims. Id.

§ 14–303. Testimony of deceased or incapable person

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Conversation with deceased vendor

Conversation that deceased vendor had with one of her daughters during her life in which she told her that that government had informed the vendor that she was not legally entitled to any compensation for gravel pit on land sold by the vendor to Army Corps of Engineers would be admissible only if given as testimony before her death; which was not the case here. I. E. Mills and F. E. Mahoney v. United States (1969, 410 F. 2d 1255, U.S. Court of Claims).

§ 14–305. Competency of witnesses; impeachment by evidence of conviction of crime

(a) No person is incompetent to testify, in either civil or criminal proceedings, by reason of his having been convicted of a criminal offense.

(b)(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), for the purpose of attacking the credibility of a witness, evidence that the witness has been convicted of a criminal offense shall be admitted if offered, either upon the cross-examination of the witness or by evidence aliunde, but only if the criminal offense (A) was punishable by death or imprisonment in excess of one year under the law under which he was convicted, or (B) involved dishonesty or false statement (regardless of punishment). A party establishing conviction by means of cross-examination shall not be bound by the witness' answers as to matters relating to the conviction.

(2)(A) Evidence of a conviction of a witness is inadmissible under this section if—

(i) the conviction has been the subject of a pardon, annulment, or other equivalent procedure granted or issued on the basis of innocence, or

(ii) the conviction has been the subject of a certificate of rehabilitation or its equivalent and such witness has not been convicted of a subsequent criminal offense.

(B) In addition, no evidence of any conviction of a witness is admissable under this section if a period of more than ten years has elapsed since the later of (i) the date of the release of the witness from confinement imposed for his most recent conviction of any criminal offense, or (ii) the expiration of the period of his parole, probation, or sentence granted or imposed with respect to his most recent conviction of any criminal offense.

(c) For purposes of this section, to prove conviction of crime, it is not necessary to produce the whole record of the proceedings containing the conviction, but the certificate, under seal, of the clerk of the court wherein the proceedings were had, stating the fact of the conviction and for what cause, shall be sufficient.

(d) The pendency of an appeal from a conviction does not render evidence of that conviction inadmissible under this section. Evidence of the pendency of such an appeal is admissible. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 519, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 133(a), title I, 84 Stat. 550.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 133(a) of Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, amended section to read as above set out. For provisions of section prior to this amendment, see 1967 edition of the Code.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

The question of which prior conviction to allow for impeachment purposes is a matter for trial judge's discretion, and failure to exercise that discretion by permitting prosecution to select conviction that it is going to use constitutes an abuse thereof. United States v. McIntosh (1970, 426 F. 2d 1231, —— U.S. App. D.C. ——).

The decision of the trial court, rendered after hearing on admissibility, that 1959 conviction of one defendant for housebreaking and larceny and 1962 conviction of another defendant for attempted housebreaking could be brought out on cross-examination in robbery prosecution unless either defendant could satisfy court that since conviction he had led legally blameless life, was not an abuse of discretion. United States v. J. L. Bailey et ano. (1970, 426 F. 2d 1236, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

It was not an abuse of discretion to deny impeachment of complaining witness in prosecution for robbery by reference to complaining witness' prior convictions for assault and rape affecting substantial rights of defendants where impeachment of the witness with three convictions for crimes of auto theft, robbery, and burglary, each crime having element of dishonesty, was permitted. G. A. Davis et al. v. United States (1969, 409 F. 2d 453, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 167).

Admissibility of prior conviction

The fact that a defendant is his only witness that or his prior crimes were serious does not bar introduction of evidence of prior crimes on issue of defendant's credibility as a witness. United States v. W. McIntosh (1970, 426 F. 2d 1231, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Admission, for impeachment purposes, of prior conviction, entered on plea of guilty, for misdemeanor of taking property without right did not constitute reversible error in robbery prosecution. A. A. Williams v. United States (1969, 409 F. 2d 471, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 185).

Statute which permits fact of prior conviction to be given in evidence to affect defendant's credibility as a witness comprehends misdemeanor convictions and did not preclude admission of prior misdemeanor, conviction of taking property without right for impeachment purposes in robbery prosecution. Id.

Evidence of prior convictions

It was prejudicial to admit, without limit, evidence of three prior petit larceny convictions on ground that the convictions were relevant to the veracity of defendant accused of attempted petit larceny. W. G. Smith v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 901).

Allowing government to question defendant accused of petit larceny as to his former larceny convictions did not constitute an abuse of discretion in view of fact that trial judge fully instructed jury that they were to consider such evidence only in connection with their evaluation of credence to be given defendant's testimony and that prior convictions were in no way evidence of defendant's guilt of present charge. F. Ginyard v. United States (D.C. App. 1967, 232 A. 2d 590).

Exemption from impeachment

In order for a defendant to have right to testify free from impeachment by prior convictions, the defense must show how and why his case calls for discretionary exemption from impeachment, and merely stating it is important for defendant to testify is not sufficient to meet such burden. M. Evans et ano. v. United States (1968, 397 F. 2d 675, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 114).

Harmless error

Any error resulting from alleged unconstitutionality of statute permitting impeachment of credibility of witnesses by means of prior criminal conviction was, as to defendant who elected not to testify in trial for robbery, harmless beyond any reasonable doubt. F. Weaver v. United States (1969, 408 F. 2d 1269, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 66).

Impeachment

Evidence of prior felony convictions was proper for impeachment purposes against defendant who took the stand in his own defense. K. J. Burg v. United States (1969, 406 F. 2d 235, Ninth Circuit).

Five-year-old robbery conviction was not too remote for impeachment of credibility of defendant on trial for robbery. F. Weaver v. United States (1969, 408 F. 2d 1269, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 66).

Where there was no claim either at the trial or on appeal that the provisions of the Youth Corrections Act manifest a congressional purpose that convictions under that Act not be used for impeachment purposes, then the trial judge did not abuse his discretion by allowing impeachment by a prior robbery conviction in which the sentence had been made under the Youth Corrections Act. Id.

Refusal of the court to exercise its discretion and permit defendant on trial for robbery to testify free of impeachment by prior conviction, and trial court's decision to permit use of five-year-old robbery conviction for impeachment if defendant should choose to testify, were not abuse of discretion. Id.

It was proper to receive in evidence defendant's prior petit larceny conviction in subsequent prosecution for unauthorized use of motor vehicle, possession of sawed-off shotgun, and carrying a dangerous weapon, where defendant's testimony that he had not stolen the automobile directly conflicted with credible testimony offered by prosecution, and petit larcency involved elements of "deceit, fraud, cheating, or stealing" which reflect "adversely on a man's honesty and integrity". R. Smith, Jr., etc. v. United States (1968, 406 F. 2d 667, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 131).

Where defense raises issue of whether evidence of defendant's prior convictions should be excluded from trial for purposes of impeaching defendant's credibility when he testifies, even though burden of persuasion remains on defendant, there is a duty on judge to make sufficient inquiry to inform himself on relevant considerations. L. B. Jones v. United States (1968, 402 F. 2d 639, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 88).

On showing that defendant's testimony at his trial for robbery was essential because prosecution based whole case on delayed identification by complaining witness and therefore decision depended on credibility, trial judge's permitting evidence of defendant's prior conviction of assault to be introduced to impeach defendant's credibility was an abuse of discretion. Id.

Crime of assault is remotely, if at all, probative on issue of veracity of a defendant who testifies at his own trial. Id.

Impreachment of an accused by proof of past criminal violations remains a legitimate technique only so far as its probative importance on credibility justifies, in terms of the quest for truth, the inherent risk of prejudice on issue of guilt; the matter remains one of discretion. A. B. Brooke v. United States of America (1967, 385 F. 2d 279, 128 U.S. App. D.C. 19).

In exercise of trial judge's discretion in determining whether to allow impeachment of defendant by prior conviction when defendant takes stand in his own defense, the standard is whether trial judge believes the prejudicial effect of impeachment far outweighs the probative relevance of the prior conviction to the issue of credibility. M. W. Gordon v. United States (1967, 383 F. 2d 936, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 343; cert. denied 390 U.S. 1029, 20 L. Ed. 2d 287).

Defendant who takes the stand in his own behalf has burden of persuasion that the trial court should exclude evidence of defendant's prior conviction. Id.

To bar impeachment of defendant by prior conviction when defendant takes stand in his own defense, trial court must find that the prejudice far outweighs the probative relevance to credibility or that, even if relevant, the cause of truth would be helped more by letting the jury hear the defendant's story than by the defendant's foregoing that opportunity because of the fear of prejudice founded upon a prior conviction. Id.

When issue of whether defendant's prior convictions should not be admitted for impeachment purposes is raised, trial court should make an inquiry, allowing the defendant an opportunity to show why judicial discretion should be exercised in favor of exclusion of criminal record. Id.

Legitimate purpose of impeachment is not to show that the accused who takes the stand is a "bad" person but rather to show background facts which bear directly on whether jurors ought to believe him rather than other and conflicting witnesses. Id.

The reason for exposing defendant's prior criminal record is to attack his character and to call into question his reliability for truth telling. Id.

Convictions which rest on dishonest conduct relate to credibility of witness while those of violent or assaultive crimes generally do not. Id.

Traffic violations, however serious, generally do not relate to credibility. Id.

Prior conviction, even one involving fraud or stealing, if it occurred long before and has been followed by legally blameless life, should generally be excluded for impeachment purposes on ground of remoteness. Id.

Generally, those convictions which are for the same crime should be admitted sparingly for purpose of impeachment of defendant, with possible solution being that discretion be exercised to limit impeachment by way of a similar crime to a single conviction and then only when circumstances indicate strong reasons for disclosure, and where the conviction directly relates to veracity. Id.

In nonjury hearing during criminal trial for purpose of determination of whether defendant's prior convictions should be admitted for impeachment purposes, defendant could not be compelled to give testimony and such testimony as given would not be admissible in evidence except for impeachment. Id.

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in robbery and assault with a dangerous weapon prosecution by permitting the government to impeach defendant's testimony by showing prior conviction. Id.

Impeachment of witness

Ruling that prior criminal convictions may not be automatically received into evidence for purposes of impeachment and may be excluded by trial judge in exercise of his discretion applies to all witnesses. G. A. Davis, et al. v. United States (1969, 409 F. 2d 453, 133 U.S. App. D.C. 167).

The doctrine that a statute governing impeachment by conviction means that prior criminal convictions are not to be automatically admitted for purpose of impeachment and may be excluded by trial judge in exercise of his discretion, applies to other witnesses as well as to criminal defendants, though there may be cases where trial judge should make distinctions in his impeachment rulings. Id.

Record of impeachment

Consideration of question whether trial court abused its discretion by permitting government to cross-examine defendant as to prior petit larceny conviction had to be on the record. R. Smith, Jr., etc. v. United States (1968, 406 F. 2d 667, 132 U.S. App. D.C. 131).

Reversible error

If the trial judge determines in a pretrial hearing that one of a number of defendant's prior convictions is to be introduced for impeachment purposes, it is not error per se to allow impeachment by a narcotics conviction under statute allowing fact of prior conviction to be given in evidence to affect defendant's credibility as a witness. United States v. W. McIntosh (1970, 426 F. 2d 1231, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

The use of a more recent narcotics conviction for impeachment purposes against defendant in prosecution for mail theft, as opposed to more remote larceny after trust conviction that carried inference of propensity to commit crime charged, did not affect any substantial rights of defendant and erroneous allowance of prosecution to select conviction it was going to use for impeachment purposes did not constitute reversible error. Id.

Review

Defendant's taking stand does not preclude his raising point on appeal as to whether trial judge abused discretion in permitting introduction of prior conviction to impeach defendant's credibility. L. B. Jones v. United States (1968, 402 F. 2d 639, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 88).

Conviction for violation of federal narcotics laws was affirmed on appeal in which defendant raised issue whether there was adequate evidence to support verdict of guilty and asserted a failure by trial court to exercise discretion committed to it with respect to admission of a prior conviction to impeach defendant's credibility. F. Blakney v. United States (1968, 397 F. 2d 648, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 87).

§ 14–306. Husband and wife

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 2–165, 16–1005.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appeal and error

Permitting wife to testify against husband, under this section making wife competent but not compellable, was not error, although trial judge had not advised wife that she need not testify, since defense counsel declined trial judge's invitation to request appropriate instruction to witness and wife responded affirmatively to prosecuting attorney's inquiry as to whether she wished to testify. United States v. F. Lewis (1970, 433 F. 2d 1146, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Permitting wife to testify, in rebuttal to alibi, that the defendant had returned to their apartment carrying a sawed-off shotgun was not plain error since defendant made only general objection to wife's testimony and record did not disclose whether husband's acts were in nature of confidential communication. Id.

Confidential nature

Acts do not become confidential communications merely because during coverture they are performed by one spouse in presence of the other nor do essential qualities of communication and confidentiality flow automatically from the fact that act seen by other spouse is one that connotes criminal conduct. United States v. F. Lewis (1970, 433 F. 2d 1146, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

This section disqualifying spouse as witness as to confidential communications does not prohibit testimony as to act where acting spouse attempted to conceal act from testifying spouse. Id.

Elements of communication and confidentiality would be lacking, and wife would not be prohibited from testifying to husband's reentry into their apartment, if the reentry was clandestine. Id.

Wife would not be prohibited from testifying to husband's reentry into their apartment if husband was unaware of or indifferent to wife's observation. Id.

In general

Disqualification of spouse as a witness in litigation to which other is party survives dissolution of the marriage. United States v. F. Lewis (1970, 433 F. 2d 1146, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Marital disqualification, rendering spouse incompetent to testify to confidential communications, is designed to insure subjectively unrestrained privacy of communication, free from any fear of compulsory disclosure, and the protection extends only to communications, not to acts that are in no way communications. Id.

§ 14–307. Physicians

(a) In the Federal courts in the District of Columbia and District of Columbia courts a physician or surgeon may not be permitted, without the consent of the person afflicted, or of his legal representative, to disclose any information, confidential in its nature, that he has acquired in attending a patient in a professional capacity and that was necessary to enable him to act in that capacity, whether the information was obtained from the patient or from his family or from the person or persons in charge of him.

(b) This section does not apply to:

(1) evidence in criminal cases where the accused is charged with causing the death of, or inflicting injuries upon, a human being, and the disclosure is required in the interests of public justice;

(2) evidence relating to the mental competency or sanity of an accused in criminal trials where the accused raises the defense of insanity or where the court is required under prevailing law to raise the defense sua sponte, or in the pretrial or post-trial proceedings involving a criminal case where a question arises concerning the mental condition of an accused or convicted person; or

(3) evidence relating to the mental competency or sanity of a child alleged to be delinquent, neglected, or in need of supervision in any proceeding before the Family Division of the Superior Court.

(Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 519, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 143(3), 84 Stat. 552.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 143(3) of Act July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, amended the section as follows: (A) by striking out "courts of the District of Columbia" in subsection (a) and inserting in lieu thereof "Federal courts in the District of Columbia and District of Columbia courts";

(B) by inserting "or where the court is required under prevailing law to raise the defense sua sponte" immediately after "where the accused raises the defense of insanity" in subsection (b)(2); and

(C) by striking out "or" at the end of paragraph (1) of subsection (b), by striking out the period at the end of paragraph (2) of such subsection and inserting in lieu thereof "; or", and by adding after paragraph (2) a new paragraph (3) to read as above set out.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 2–165; 2–496.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Legal representative

Under statute providing that no physician or surgeon shall be permitted without consent of patient or his legal representatives to disclose any confidential information acquired in attending patient professionally, the duly qualified personal representative, when there is one, is deceased patient's "legal representative" for purposes of gathering information with a view to presecuting a wrongful death claim. W. J. Emmett, Administrator etc. v. Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital et al. (1967, 396 F. 2d 931, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 50).

Decedent's son and only child had so vital an identification with any cause of action potentially arising upon his father's negligently caused demise as would enable him to waive the physician-patient privilege as to pertinent medical data where there was no personal representative to act in his behalf so that the assertion of the physician-patient privilege did not defeat son's right to inspect decedent's medical report or establish physician's and hospital's duty to preserve confidentiality of records against all save decedent's legal representative. Id.

Right of decedent's son to inspect medical records

Statue defining physician-patient privilege and, by its terms, operating only in the courts of the District of Columbia was not applicable and did not preclude decedent's son from inspecting decedent's medical records or render physician and hospital free of any duty to make such records available where lawsuit had not taken shape when son asked that records be made accessible. W. J. Emmett, Administrator etc. v. Eastern Dispensary and Casualty Hospital et al. (1967, 396 F. 2d 931, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 50).

§ 14–309. Clergy

A priest, clergyman, rabbi, or other duly licensed, ordained, or consecrated minister of a religion authorized to perform a marriage ceremony in the District of Columbia or duly accredited practitioner of Christian Science may not be examined in any civil or criminal proceedings in the Federal courts in the District of Columbia and District of Columbia courts with respect to any—

(1) confession, or communication, made to him, in his professional capacity in the course of discipline enjoined by the church or other religious body to which he belongs, without the consent of the person making the confession or communication; or

(2) communication made to him, in his professional capacity in the course of giving religious or spiritual advice, without the consent of the person seeking the advice; or

(3) communication made to him, in his professional capacity, by either spouse, in connection with an effort to reconcile estranged spouses, without the consent of the spouse making the communication.

(Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 520, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 143(4), 84 Stat. 553.)

AMENDMENT

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

Chapter 5.—DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

§ 14–503. Record of will as prima facie evidence of contents and execution

A record of a will or codicil recorded in the office of the Register of Wills of the District of Columbia, that has been admitted to probate by a court in the District of Columbia, or a record of the transcript of the record and probate of a will or codicil elsewhere, or of a certified copy thereof filed in the office of the Register of Wills, is prima facie evidence of the contents and due execution of the will or codicil. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 521, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, §143(5), 84 Stat. 553.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 14–505. Municipal ordinances and regulations

Municipal ordinances and regulations in force in the District of Columbia may be proved by producing in evidence a copy thereof certified as provided by the Commissioner; and the certified copy is prima facie evidence of the due adoption and promulgation of the ordinances and regulations. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 521, Pub. L. 88–241, § 88–241, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 143(6), 84 Stat. 553.)

§ 15–104. Priority of liens

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Priority to surplus on foreclosure

In this case, the court held that the holder of purchase-money deed of trust (containing provision that it should be subordinate to any construction loan and all advances made under construction loan) is entitled, on foreclosure of first deed of trust held by construction lender, to priority with respect to surplus remaining after satisfaction of construction lender's debt and payment of foreclosure expenses, notwithstanding construction lender's claim to surplus to satisfy mechanic's lien it had paid against property. Guardian Federal Savings & Loan Association v. H. P. Suskind (D.C. App. 1970, 265 A. 2d 295).

§ 15–108. Interest on judgment for liquidated debt

In an action in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the Superior Court of the District of Columbia to recover a liquidated debt on which interest is payable by contract or by law or usage the judgment for the plaintiff shall include interest on the principal debt from the time when it was due and payable, at the rate fixed by the contract, if any, until paid. (As added Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 677, Pub. L. 88–509, § 3(b)(1); and amended July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 144(3), 84 Stat. 553.)

§ 15–109. Interest on judgment for damages in contract or tort

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

Under this section authorizing inclusion of interest in damages awarded in action on contract if necessary to fully compensate the plaintiff, since the home purchasers had to borrow money to replace defective furnace system that had been guaranteed to be in good working condition at time of settlement, inclusion of interest charged for borrowing money to replace furnace as a part of purchasers' damages was not abuse of discretion. G. H. Noel et ano. v. R. E. O'Brien et ano. (D.C. App. 1970, 270 A. 2d 350).

§ 15–111. Counsel fee in proceeding on bond or undertaking

In a proceeding in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the Superior Court of the District of Columbia to recover damages upon a bond or undertaking given to obtain a restraining order or preliminary or pendente lite injunction, the Court, in assessing damages to be recovered thereunder, may include such reasonable counsel fees as the party damaged by the restraining order or injunction may have incurred in obtaining a dissolution thereof. (As added Aug. 30, 1964, 78 Stat. 678, Pub. L. 88–509, § 3(b)(1); and amended July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 144(3), 84 Stat. 553.)

L. 88–241, § 1, as amended; dealt with jurisdiction of Court of General Sessions to enter judgment in civil cases tried before it; issue writs of execution; enforceable period of unrecorded judgments; recordation thereof; transcripts thereof and satisfaction of judgments.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF REPEAL

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER FORMER § 15–131

Construction

In this case, the court held that, by use of statutory language that judgment could provide that interest run from date earlier than judgment, Congress did not intend to abrogate the common law rule that right to receive interest on liquidated debt accrues from date debt was due, and that the beneficiary of group life policy was entitled to interest on the liquidated claim from date proof of death was furnished. S. P. McIntosh v. Aetna Life Insurance Company (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 518).

A writ of fieri facias issued upon a judgment of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the Superior Court of the District of Columbia is a lien from the time of its delivery to the marshal upon all the goods and chattels of the judgment defendant, except those that are exempted from levy and sale by express provision of law, and is also a lien upon the equitable interest of the judgment defendant in goods and chattels in his possession. A writ of fieri facias issued from the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the Superior Court of the District of Columbia upon a judgment entered in such court may be levied on all legal leasehold and freehold estates of the debtor in land, but only after such judgment has been filed and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia. § 15–318. Remedies of purchaser upon refusal to deliver possession

When real property is sold by virtue of an execution, and the judgment debtor or a person claiming under him since the rendition of the judgment is in actual possession of the property and refuses to deliver possession thereof to the purchaser upon demand made therefor, the court, on the application of the purchaser, may:

(1) require the person so in possession to show cause why possession should not be delivered according to the demand; and

(2) if good cause is not shown, issue a writ of habere facias possessionem, requiring the marshal to put the purchaser in possession.

If the party in possession alleges under oath a title derived from the judgment debtor prior to the judgment or a title superior to that of the defendant, the writ may not issue, but the purchaser may have his remedy by an action of ejectment or the summary remedy in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia provided for in sections 16–1501 to 16–1505. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 527, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 144(7), 84 Stat. 553.)

§ 15–320. Enforcement of decrees

(a) For the purpose of executing a decree, or compelling obedience to it, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, in addition to the other procedures provided for by this chapter and chapter 5 of Title 16, may:

(1) issue an attachment against the person of the defendant;

(2) order an immediate sequestration of his real and personal estate, or such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the decree; or

(3) by order and injunction, cause the possession of the estate and effects whereof the possession or a sale is decreed to be delivered to the complainant, or otherwise, according to the tenor and import of the decree and as the nature of the case requires.

In case of sequestration, the court may order payment and satisfaction to be made out of the estate and effects so sequestrated, according to the true intent and meaning of the decree.

(b) When a defendant is arrested and brought into court upon any process of contempt issued to compel the performance of a decree, the court may, upon motion, order:

(1) the defendant to stand committed; or

(2) his estates and effects to be sequestrated and payment made, as directed by subsection (a) of this section; or

(3) possession of his estate and effects to be delivered by order and injunction, as directed by subsection (a) of this section—

M. O'Mara* v. R. M. O'Mara (D.C. App. 1968, 238 A. 2d 586).

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appealable orders

An order which denies a motion to quash an attachment is not final and hence not generally appealable, unless possession of property is changed or affected. G. F. Ludington et ano. v. R. Bogdonoff (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 921).

In this case possession of property was not affected by the denial of intervenors' motion to quash attachment, and appeal from order denying motion was premature and District of Columbia Court of Appeals was without jurisdiction of appeal. Id.

§ 15–502. Mortgage or other instrument affecting exempt property

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 20–706.

§ 15–503. Earnings and other income; wearing apparel and tools of certain persons

Where husband and wife are living together, the aggregate of the earnings, insurance, annuities, and pension or retirement payments of the husband and wife is the amount which shall be determinative of the exemption of either in cases arising ex contractu.

(b) The earnings (other than wages, as defined in subchapter III of chapter 5 of Title 16), insurance, annuities, or pension or retirement payments, not otherwise exempt, not to exceed $60 each month for two months preceding the date of attachment of persons residing in the District of Columbia, or of persons who earn the major portions of their livelihood in the District of Columbia, regardless of place of residence, who do not provide for the support of a family, are entitled to like exemption from attachment, levy, seizure, or sale. All wearing apparel belonging to such persons, not exceeding $300 in value, and mechanic's tools not exceeding $200 in value, are also exempt.

Whenever any claim is made for an exemption from attachment pursuant to this subsection, the burden shall be upon the plaintiff to prove that the contract or transaction involved in the case was entered into within the District of Columbia.

(d) A notice of claim of exemption, or motion to quash attachment or other process against exempt property or money, may be filed in the office of the clerk of the court either by the debtor, his spouse, or a garnishee. Thereupon, the court, after due notice, shall promptly act upon the notice, motion,

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

It is an abuse of discretion for trial courts to use criteria in passing on in forma pauperis applications that in effect set up more restrictive divorce grounds than are prescribed by statute. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Attorney fees

Indigents bringing divorce suits in forma pauperis are not required to pay the $100 minimum attorney's fees. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Construction

Under the District of Columbia Code, in forma pauperis relief is not limited to those who are public charges or absolutely destitute. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

The obvious intent of this section is to make available to indigent, in common with his fellow citizen, full range of civil remedies contrived by court or legislature, including what appeared to be meritorious cases for divorce. Id.

This section should be construed to permit indigents to proceed in good faith with nonfrivolous claims for divorce. Id.

In view of the provisions of this section, it is not proper to use inability of divorce applicant to pay costs of divorce action as ground for denying applicant access to fair trial. Id.

One of the objectives in enacting this section is to give rich and poor alike equal right to divorce. Id.

Divorce actions

This section does not exclude divorce actions. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Indigency

In this case, the court held that the wife, who brought suit for divorce, was indigent, so as to be entitled to proceed under this section, since she was mother of five children, and her total income was $220 per month, recently increased to $229 per month, from Department of Public Welfare. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

A wife, who brought divorce suit, was indigent, so that she could proceed under this section, since her take-home pay was $70 per week, or about $300 per month, and her living expenses were $299, counting $51 per month which she had to pay on debts totaling $620. Id.

Publication

When publication is required, the court, unless the situation otherwise dictates, should order publication in newspapers only for minimum number of times fixed by statute for publication and in the most economical form of suitable publication. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Publication costs

The costs of publication are paid to newspapers and not to an arm of the court and are not one of the costs covered by this section. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Public policy

The public policy of the District of Columbia is not against divorce in divorce applications by indigent plaintiffs. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806. 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Transcripts

Under section 11–935 (now 11–1727(b)) imposing duty to equate rules, practice and procedure relating to fees for transcripts in Court of General Sessions as nearly as practicable to those in United States District Court for District of Columbia and 28 U.S.C. 753 determining litigant's eligibility for free transcript in district court, and on proper certification by judge, the United States must pay for transcripts or essential portions thereof for indigent litigants allowed to appeal in forma pauperis to District of Columbia Court of Appeals. O. Lee v. N. Habib (1970, 424 F. 2d 891, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 403).

Doubts about substantiality of the questions on indigents' appeal and need for transcript at governmental expense to explore them should be resolved in favor of indigents. Id.

Judges should give due consideration to indigents' motions for transcripts in cases where the law appears to be settled but where appellant is able to show that his chances of changing the law on appeal are strong. Id.

§ 15–713. Deposits for jury trials in Superior Court

Deposits made on demands for jury trials in accordance with rules prescribed by the Superior Court of the District of Columbia under authority granted in section 15–709 shall be earned unless, prior to three days before the time set for trial, including Sundays and legal holidays, a new date for trial is set by the court, cases are discontinued or settled, or demands for jury trials are waived. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 536, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 144(14), 84 Stat. 554.)

Section 144(14)(B) of the same Act amended the section heading by striking "Court of General Sessions" and inserting "Superior Court".

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 15–714. Witness fees for attendance in Superior Court

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Guardian ad litem

Refusal to appoint guardian ad litem for infant adoptee in adoption proceeding was not error where all essential facts concerning the child's welfare were presented by prospective adoptors and by department of public welfare which appeared as adoptee's legal guardian. In re Adoption of a Female Infant (D.C. App. 1968, 237 A. 2d 468).

In loco parentis

"In loco parentis" is different from adoption in that it is strictly temporary in nature rather than permanent. A. Fuller v. G. Fuller (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 767).

At common law "in loco parentis" had reference to a person who has put himself in situation of lawful parent by assuming obligations incident to parental relation without going through formalities necessary to legal adoption. Id.

Prenuptial agreement

Former husband's assurance that prenuptial child of wife would be included as a part of family unit was at most inducement to persuade her to marry him and no more than offer to support her child in the same household and did not amount to either a promise or an agreement to legally adopt the child or to extend support beyond period of marriage. A. Fuller v. G. Fuller (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 767).

Treatment by husband of wife's prenuptial child as his natural child was not tantamount to adoption and husband was not obligated to support child after divorce from child's mother on theory of equitable adoption. Id.

Support as constituting adoption

Theory of adoption is based upon proposition that the child is wanted for its own sake, and not upon proposition that it is accepted incidentally as the result of marriage to the mother. A. Fuller v. G. Fuller (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 767).

Taking prenuptial child of wife into family circle, did not effect adoption of child by husband or incur continuing obligation of support. Id.

§ 16–305. Petition for adoption

A petition filed for the adoption of a person shall be under oath or affirmation of the petitioner and the titling thereof shall be substantially as follows: "Ex parte in the matter of the petition of_____ _____for adoption." The petition or the exhibits annexed thereto shall contain the following information:

(1) the name, sex, date, and place of birth of the prospective adoptee, and the names, addresses and residences of the natural parents, if known to the petitioner, except that in an adoption proceeding that is consented to by the Commissioner or a licensed child-placing agency, the names, addresses and residences of the natural parents may not be set forth;

(2) the name, address, age, business or employment of the petitioner, and the name of the employer, if any, of the petitioner;

(3) the relationship, if any, of the prospective adoptee to the petitioner;

(4) the race and religion of the prospective adoptee, or his natural parent or parents;

(5) the race and religion of the petitioner;

(6) the date that the prospective adoptee commenced residing with petitioner; and

(7) any change of name which may be desired.

When any of the above facts is unknown to the petitioner, the petitioner shall state this fact. When any of the above facts is known to the Commissioner, or a licensed child-placing agency that as a matter of social policy declines to discolse them to the petitioner, the facts may be disclosed to the court in an exhibit filed by the Commissioner or the agency with the court. If more than one petitioner joins in a petition, the requirements of this section apply to each. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 538, Pub. L. 88–24, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. Adoption procedures

Formal adoption procedures are for the benefit of the child and they may not be circumvented or substituted by other procedures. A. Fuller v. G. Fuller (D.C. App. 1968, 247 A. 2d 767).

Guardian ad litem

Refusal to appoint guardian ad litem for infant adoptee in adoption proceeding was not error where all essential facts concerning the child's welfare were presented by prospective adoptors and by department of public welfare which appeared as adoptee's legal guardian. In re Adoption of a Female Infant (D.C. § 16–311. Sealing and inspection of records and papers

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Access to investigative report

Refusal to allow prospective adoptors' attorney access to investigate report in which department of public welfare recommended that petition for adoption be denied because of deterioration in prospective adoptors' marital relationship and serious personality defects in both of them was not an abuse of discretion where trial judge related to the attorney the findings and the information gathered from persons listed as references by prospective adoptors. In re Adoption of a Female Infant (D.C. App. 1968, 237 A. 2d 468).

§ 16–312. Legal effects of adoption

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Issue

Public policy, as expressed in this section would be followed, and thus a child adopted by a grandson 12 years after death of testatrix would be considered as "issue" within terms of a will where there was nothing within the four corners of the will which pointed to any preference by testatrix regarding adopted children and where there was no indication of intended discrimination. The Riggs National Bank of Washington, D.C. v. J. V. Summerlin, Jr., et al. (1969, 300 F. Supp. 1000).

"Issue" defined

Word "issue," as found in two wills which established testamentary trusts the income from which was payable to mother and her issue, included an adopted child of mother, in the absence of a contrary indication of testators' actual intent. F. G. Johns, Jr., et al. v. E. Boardman Cobb et al. (1968, 402 F. 2d 636, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 85).

§ 16–314. Birth certificates

(a) Notice of a final decree of adoption shall be sent to the Commissioner. Unless otherwise requested in the petition by the adopters, the Commissioner shall cause to be made a new record of the birth in the new name and with the names of the adopters and shall then cause to be sealed and filed the original birth certificate with the order of the court. The sealed package may be opened only by order of the court.

(b) If the adoption occurred outside the District either before or after August 25, 1937, upon filing with the Commissioner a certified copy of the final decree of adoption, the Commissioner shall cause to be made a new record of the birth in the new name and with the names of the adopters and shall then cause to be sealed and filed the original birth certificate with the certified copy of the final decree of adoption. The sealed package may be opened only by order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(c) If the birth of the adoptee occurred outside the District the clerk of the court shall, upon petition by the adopter, furnish him with a certified copy of the final decree of adoption.

(d) When an adoption in the District occurred prior to August 25, 1937, the court shall, upon presentation of a motion by a party to the proceedings, order the clerk of the court to seal the records in the proceeding. Upon presentation of a certified copy of the order the Commissioner shall cause to be made a new record of the birth in the new name and with the names of the adopters and shall then cause to be sealed and filed the original birth certificate with the order of the court. The sealed package may be opened only by order of the court. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 541, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 145(a)(2), 84 Stat. 555.)

Discharge of codefendant as a discharge of surety

Defendant Dodson who, pursuant to a consent order in lieu of writ of attachment, deposited cash with the court, in doing so acted not only for herself as defendant but also for her codefendants as surety, and was obligated to pay judgment rendered in favor of plaintiff against a codefendant to the extent of the appraised value of the attached property. *P. Discharge from original action of defendant Dodson who had deposited cash as surety in lieu of writ of attachment, as result of affirmance of judgment in her favor, did not discharge her as surety for a codefendant against whom judgment was later rendered. Id.

Effect of statutory bond and undertaking

The effect of our statutory bond and undertaking is "the complete discharge of the attached property from the custody of the law, and the substitution therefor of the personal obligation of the bondsman". *P. Although the plaintiff had not posted a supersedeas bond on his appeal from the judgment for defendants, there was no change in circumstance which would warrant release of the cash deposit which had been made by defendant Dodson pursuant to consent order in lieu of attachment, and this defendant as surety should be required to return the deposit. P. T. Apostolides, t/a etc. v. G. Colecchia and M. Dodson (D.C. App. 1970, 260 A. 2d 685).

Chapter 6.—BONDS AND UNDERTAKINGS

§ 16–601. Undertaking in lieu of fiduciary's bond

A bond required from an executor, administrator, administrator cum testamento annexo, administrator de bonis non, guardian, committee, collector, trustee, receiver, assignee for the benefit of creditors, or other fiduciary appointed or confirmed by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, or a bond required from a party to a cause or proceeding pending in that court, shall be in the form of an undertaking, under seal, in a maximum amount to be fixed by the court, conditioned as required by law, the surety or sureties therein submitting themselves to the jurisdiction of the court and undertaking for themselves and each of them, their and each of their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, and assigns to abide by and perform the judgment or decree of the court in the premises; and further agreeing that, upon default by the principal in any of the conditions thereof, the damages may be ascertained in such manner as the court directs and the court may give judgment thereon in favor of any person thereby aggrieved against the principal and sureties for the damages sustained by him, and that judgment may be rendered against all or any of the parties whose names are thereto signed.

The United States District Court for the District of Columbia (as specified in section 11–501) and the Superior Court of the District of Columbia (as specified in section 11–921) have jurisdiction to enter such judgments and decrees against the principal and surety or sureties, or any of them, upon the undertaking, as law and justice require. This section does not deprive a party having a claim or cause of action under or upon the undertaking from electing to pursue his ordinary remedy by civil suit.

The provisions of this Code relating to actions, remedies and proceedings upon bonds of fiduciaries apply to such undertakings to the same extent as if undertaking had been expressly mentioned and referred to therein. SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

§ 16–705. Jury trial; trial by court

(a) In a criminal case tried in the Superior Court in which, according to the Constitution of the United States, the defendant is entitled to a jury trial, the trial shall be by jury, unless the defendant in open court expressly waives trial by jury and requests trial by the court, and the court and the prosecuting officer consent thereto. In the case of a trial without a jury, the trial shall be by a single judge, whose verdict shall have the same force and effect as that of a jury.

(b) In any case where the defendant is not under the Constitution of the United States entitled to a trial by jury, the trial shall be by a single judge without a jury, except that if—

(1) the case involves an offense which is punishable by a fine or penalty of more than $300 or by imprisonment for more than ninety days (or for more than six months in the case of the offense of contempt of court), and

(2) the defendant demands a trial by jury and does not subsequently waive a trial by jury in accordance with subsection (a), the trial shall be by jury.

(c) The jury shall consist of twelve persons, unless the parties, with the approval of the court and in the manner provided by rules of the court, agree to a number less than twelve. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 558, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 145(d)(4), title I, 84 Stat. 556.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 145(d)(4) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358, amended section to read as above set out. For provisions of this section prior to this amendment, see 1967 edition of the code, and supplement III, thereto.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Construction

This section, providing that a jury shall consist of 12 persons unless parties with approval of court and by stipulating in writing agree to a number less than 12, is inapplicable to situation where juror was stricken during trial on defendant's motion. E. Y. Graham v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 358).

Right to jury trial

Length of a possible sentence is highly relevant to question whether a case should or should not be tried by a judge without a jury, and it is unfair for court which has denied a jury trial in the light of one maximum punishment to impose a sentence in the light of another. M. Schnurman v. United States (1967, 379 F. 2d 92, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 315).

Right to jury trial in sodomy case

If an offense is of a nature indictable at common law and thus tried by jury, that offense is triable by jury under the Constitution. H. Gaithor v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 251 A. 2d 644).

Trial by jury is a right which must be afforded as to criminal offenses providing penalty so severe that it gives such offenses character of a common-law crime or of a major offense. Id.

A defendant, who is charged with solicitation for immoral and lewd purpose of committing oral sodomy, is not entitled to jury trial in view of fact such offense was not indictable at common law and that penalty imposed was not more than $250 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days or both. Id.

Waiver of jury trial

Where the government conceded that the defendant demanded trial by jury and record of what occurred in open court was silent to any waiver, case would be remanded for hearing to determine whether defendant knowingly and voluntarily waived his right to jury trial and requested trial by the court. L. E. Towler v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 553).

In this prosecution for false pretenses, where defendant had a right to trial by jury, but neither defendant nor his counsel objected to proceeding to trial without jury, and there was discussion in open court at prior hearing in case concerning a jury trial for defendant and official court entry on information stated "Jury Trial Demand Withdrawn," absence from transcript of any express waiver of defendant's right to jury trial was cured. C. Banks v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 110).

The court held that, in criminal prosecutions, where trial is had without jury, trial court is responsible for seeing to it by inquiry of defendant himself that he understands and knowingly and voluntarily waives his right to trial by jury and trial judge must also assure that such waiver is contained in the record as it occurred rather than merely as a rubber stamp entry on back of information. Id.

In a prosecution, without jury, where there is a right to trial by jury, and for the record of what occurred in open court was silent as to waiver of defendant's right to a jury trial, case would be remanded for a determination, after hearing, of whether defendant knowingly and voluntarily waived his right to jury trial in open court and requested a trial by the court, even though informations had been stamped with notation "Jury Trial Demand Withdrawn". F. H. Jackson v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 106).

The court said that the public interest in obtaining swift and certain justice for those charged with crime, requires that trial court assume responsibility for making certain that record in all criminal trials in which accused has a constitutional right to trial by jury, which are conducted without a jury, contains evidence from which it may be found that defendant knowingly and voluntarily waived such right. Id.

The court held that in trials commenced after issuance of this opinion, there should be in the record a statement in open court by defendant himself in order to provide a basis for subsequently determining, if necessary, that he knowingly and voluntarily waived his constitutional right to trial by jury. Id.

A waiver of jury trial need not be made and announced by defendant personally but may be done effectually through counsel. R. L. Thompkins v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 251 A. 2d 636).

It was not error to accept defendant's waiver of his right to jury trial on ground that court did not determine whether waiver was made intelligently and understandingly, where an announcement by counsel was made in defendant's presence of decision to waive and defendant was then advised of his right to jury trial and defendant expressed approval in open court of his counsel's announcement. Id.

§ 16–706. Enforcement of judgments; commitment upon non-payment of fine

The Superior Court may enforce any of its judgments rendered in criminal cases by fine or imprisonment, or both. Except as otherwise provided by law, and subject to the relief provided in section 3569 of title 18, United States Code, in any case where the court imposes a fine, the court may, in the event of default in the payment of the fine imposed, commit the defendant for a term not to exceed one year. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 559, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 145(d)(5), title I, 84 Stat. 556.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 145(d)(5) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358, amended section to read as above set out. For provisions of this section prior to this amendment, see 1967 edition of the code, and supplement III, thereto.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Appeal and error

Record in prosecution for carrying a pistol without a license in violation of § 22–3204 supported finding that defendant, to whom Miranda warnings were read by policeman from standard police form and who was given the form to read in police station before being questioned, but who was not asked if he understood contents of form, had been sufficiently informed of his right to remain silent and to counsel. M. J. Brewster v. United States (D.C. App. 1970, 271 A. 2d 409).

In view of the overwhelming evidence that the particular address claimed by defendant to be his dwelling house was not his dwelling house, any error with respect to whether defendant waived any of his constitutional rights to remain silent and to counsel before being questioned as to his residence was harmless in prosecution for violation of § 22–3204 prohibiting the carrying of an unlicensed pistol except in one's dwelling house. Id.

§ 16–707. Disposition of fines

(a) All fines payable and paid under judgment of the criminal division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia shall, upon their payment, immediately become, in contemplation of law, the property of the United States or the District of Columbia, according to the charge upon which the fine may be adjudged. Every person receiving such a fine shall be deemed in law an agent of the United States or the District, as the case may be.

(b) This section does not affect the ultimate rights under existing law of the Washington Humane Society of the District of Columbia, in or to any fines paid in the criminal division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 559, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 145(d)(6), 84 Stat. 557.)

§ 16–709. Executions on forfeited recognizances and judgments

The Superior Court of the District of Columbia may issue execution on all recognizances forfeited in its criminal division, upon motion of the prosecuting officer; and all writs of fieri facias or other writs of execution on judgments issued by the criminal division shall be directed to and executed by the United States marshal. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 559, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 145(d)(6), 84 Stat. 557.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 145(d)(6) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358 amended section by striking out "Court of General Sessions" and inserting in lieu thereof "Superior Court of the District of Columbia".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 16–710. Suspension of imposition or execution of sentence

In criminal cases in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, the court may, upon conviction, suspend the imposition of sentence or impose sentence and suspend the execution thereof, for such time and upon such terms as it deems best, if it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the ends of justice and the best interests of the public and of the defendant would be served thereby. In each case of the imposition of sentence and the suspension of the execution thereof, the court may place the defendant on probation under the control and supervision of a probation officer. The probationer shall be provided by the clerk of the court with a written statement of the terms and conditions of his probation at the time when he is placed thereon. He shall observe the rules prescribed for his conduct by the court and report to the probation officer as directed. A person may not be put on probation without his consent. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77

Stat. 559, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 145(d)(6), 84 Stat. 557.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 145(d)(6) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358 amended section by striking out "District of Columbia Court of General Sessions" and inserting in lieu thereof "Superior Court of the District of Columbia".

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Conditions of probation

Probation which was conditioned on male defendant staying away from particular woman was proper to minimize chance of recurrence of crime committed and was within the scope of authority of trial judge. C. Willis v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 250 A. 2d 569).

Probation conditions may be prescribed by court to minimize chance of recurrence of crime committed. Id.

Condition of suspension of sentence

Fact that condition imposed in suspending imposition of sentence or execution of sentence may restrict defendants' constitutional rights is not improper, but condition imposed must not be immoral, illegal or impossible of performance. V. W. Huffman and D. E. Pryba v. United States (D.C. App. 1969, 259 A. 2d 342).

A condition of suspension of sentence, imposed upon conviction of selling certain obscene magazines, that defendants, in advance, consent to search by police of any premises operated or managed (not owned) by them in the future was illegal, since employee of business concern, whether manager or otherwise, lacks power to give general authorization to police to search his employer's premises and it would be illegal for him to attempt to give such authority. Id.

§ 16–901. Definition

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 16–902. Residence requirements

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Bona fide resident

Evidence which showed that British citizen had severed all ties with Great Britain other than maintining British citizenship, had renewed his visa several times previous to institution of divorce action, was employed and lived within District of Columbia and intended to remain there indefinitely, British citizen was a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia for purposes of divorce action even though he had not applied for permanent residence in the United States and had entered United States on a nonimmigrant visa. D. L. Alves v. J. Alves (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 111).

§ 16–904. Grounds for divorce, legal separation and annulment

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

It is an abuse of discretion for trial courts to use criteria in passing on in forma pauperis applications that in effect set up more restrictive divorce grounds than are prescribed by statute. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Burden of proof

In a case where the wife admitted that separation from husband had become voluntary had, as the party challenging the continuity of the voluntariness, the burden of proving that she had changed her mind in husband's action for annulment or divorce. H. E. Smith v. L. C. Smith (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 833).

Construction

The obvious intent of in pauperis statute is to make available to indigent, in common with his fellow citizen, full range of civil remedies contrived by court or legislature, including what appeared to be meritorious cases for divorce. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

In forma pauperis statute (section 15–712) should be construed to permit indigents to proceed in good faith with nonfrivolous claims for divorce. Id.

Since Congress has prescribed certain statutory grounds for divorce in the District of Columbia, it is beyond authority of any court to impose additional ground thereto. Id.

In view of in forma pauperis statute (section 15–712), it is not proper to use inability of divorce applicant to pay costs of divorce action as ground for denying applicant access to fair trial. Id.

Evidence—admissibility

A wife who stated that she was not agreeable to reconciliation with her husband on form entitled "Motion and Affidavit" which she filed in an action for separate maintenance was judicial admission and should have been admitted into evidence in husband's action for annulment or divorce to show that separation was voluntary. H. E. Smith v. L. C. Smith (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 833).

—— Sufficiency

In this case, the court held that the evidence in divorce action by wife supported finding that husband had not been separated from wife for one year. J. W. Robinson v. M. L. Johnson a/k/a M. Robinson (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 305).

In this case, the court held that there was substantial evidence to support the trial court's finding in husband's divorce action that husband intended to and did take up residence in the District of Columbia, D. Seabrook v. B. L. Seabrook (D.C. App. 1970, A. 2d 311).

Evidence was sufficient to sustain court's finding that the separation was voluntary and entitled husband to a divorce. G. McDaniel v. J. McDaniel, Jr. (D.C. App. 1969, 254 A. 2d 407).

Indigency

In this case, the court held that the wife, who brought suit for divorce, was indigent, so as to be entitled to proceed under in forma pauperis statute (section 15–712), since she was mother of five children, and her total income was $220 per month, recently increased to $229 per month, from Department of Public Welfare. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

A wife, who brought divorce suit, was indigent, so that she could proceed under in forma pauperis statute (section 15–712), since her take-home pay was $70 per week, or about $300 per month, and her living expenses were $299, counting $51 per month which she had to pay on debts totaling $620. Id.

Jurisdiction

Since the plaintiff husband met residency requirements to obtain divorce in District of Columbia and the defendant wife submitted to jurisdiction of District of Columbia trial court, trial court was entitled to entertain and determine the divorce action. D. Seabrook v. B. L. Seabrook (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 311).

Proof

Nonindigent applicants for divorce are not required to prove in their divorce action in addition to statutory grounds that some useful social reason will be served by severance of marital relationship, and such a ground cannot be imposed on indigent applicants as an additional requirement. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

Public policy

The public policy of the District of Columbia is not against divorce in divorce applications by indigent plaintiffs, H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

The public policy as to whether indigents should be able to maintain suit for divorce under in forma pauperis statute (section 15–712) is for Congress and not judicial branch of government. Id.

Voluntary separation

In this case, since the wife did not in good faith manifest real desire to continue marriage status and never made any effort to get in touch with her husband after separation, the separation was "voluntary" within this section making voluntary separation of the parties for one year a ground for divorce. D. Seabrook v. B. L. Seabrook (D.C. App. 1970, 264 A. 2d 311).

A spouse who entertains serious intention to resume a marriage must communicate that intention to the other spouse, even at the risk of his or her refusal. Id.

A wife seeking to show that she wanted her marriage to continue and thus avoid divorce sought on ground of voluntary separation of the parties for one year cannot excuse her lack of action in attempting to reconcile on belief, on basis of rumors, that meretricious relationship existed between her husband and another woman. Id.

Separation which initially constituted desertion by the husband became voluntary on the part of wife who filed a motion for separate maintenance in which she stated in pleadings that she was not agreeable to reconciliation and the husband who filed an action for annulment or divorce more than one year after wife filed separate maintenance action should have been granted a divorce when wife failed to show that separation had ceased to be voluntary. H. E. Smith v. L. C. Smith (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 833).

§ 16–907. Legitimacy of issue of annulled marriage contracted while another in force

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Knowledge of mental condition

Woman who knew of man's commitment to mental institution at time of marriage was not entitled to annulment and the annulment should have been granted to the man. A. D. Martin v. L. P. Martin (D.C. App. 1968, 240 A. 2d 363).

§ 16–910. Dissolution of property rights; jurisdiction of court

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Apportionment of jointly held property

Under this section it is clear that the court has authority to award or to apportion between the parties, locally owned realty, in such manner as was found to be equitable, just and reasonable. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (D.C. App. 1967, 233 A. 2d 142; rev'd and remanded 396 F. 2d 695).

Apportionment of property located outside of district

This section does not give the court authority over jointly held property in Maryland. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (D.C. App. 1967, 233 A. 2d 142; rev'd and remanded 396 F. 2d 695).

Construction

Difference between terms "award and apportion" as used in District of Columbia statute relating to court's authority to apportion property in divorce action and terms "determine and adjudicate" as used in statute relating to general jurisdictional grant to Domestic Relations Branch is simply difference between directly and indirectly affecting title to land. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (1968, 396 F. 2d 695, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 46).

Effect of local divorce decree on title to property in Maryland

When divorce decree was entered here, the parties no longer held Maryland real estate as tenants by the entirety, but instead as tenants in common, by virtue of Maryland law. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (D.C. App. 1967, 233 A. 2d 142; rev'd and remanded 396 F. 2d 695).

Jurisdiction

District of Columbia statute providing that on entry of decree of divorce all property rights of parties in joint tenancy or by entirety shall stand dissolved and court shall apportion property in equitable manner gave trial court no authority over jointly held property located in Maryland. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (1968, 396 F. 2d 695, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 46).

Jurisdiction over foreign property

In a divorce action, District of Columbia court could not award and apportion property located in Maryland but it did have jurisdiction to determine and adjudicate rights of parties before it to such property and direct parties to execute such instruments as were necessary to effectuate that adjudication. E. B. Argent v. S. E. Argent (1968, 396 F. 2d 695, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 46).

District of Columbia courts are authorized to adjust and apportion property rights in property held jointly by parties to divorce action and must do so in same proceeding in which divorce decree is entered although their enforcement power as to property located in another state is limited to determination and adjudication of parties' rights. Id.

Property rights

Since husband and wife entered into separation agreement stating that it was contemplated that wife would continue to reside in marital home with children; and until otherwise determined by parties the ownership and record title of property would remain unchanged, trial court which entered divorce decree acted properly in refusing to consider rights of parties with respect to home which was situated in Maryland. D. L. Alves v. J. Alves (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 111).

§ 16–911. Alimony pendente lite; suit money; enforcement; custody of children

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 16–912, 16–916.

§ 16–913. Alimony when divorce is granted on husband's application

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

An award of alimony under section 16–913 when divorce is granted upon husband's application will not be disturbed, unless an abuse of discretion is made manifest by the record. M. L. Majette v. M. Majette (D.C. App. 1970, 261 A. 2d 824).

An award of $35 per week for the support and maintenance of wife who was in poor health, incapable of working, had no source of income or other property and who had been married to husband for 26 years, and of two minor children of marriage by husband with salary of approximately $13,400 per year and who admitted by his pleadings and testimony that the wife needed at least $250 per month to support herself and two children did not constitute and exercise of sound discretion. Id.

Amount of alimony

This section did not compel court to award, as alimony, amount which husband agreed to pay wife in separation agreement. D. L. Alves v. J. Alves (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 111).

§ 16–914. Retention of jurisdiction as to alimony and custody of children

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Jurisdiction

In divorce action, this section did not require trial court to make order of custody of parties' children even though trial court did have jurisdiction to enter such an order D. L. Aves v. J. Alves (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 111).

The court in a proceeding for divorce has continuing jurisdiction over the issues of custody and child support even if divorce decree is silent as to custody or child support. Id.

§ 16–916. Maintenance of wife and minor children; maintenance of former wife; maintenance of minor children; enforcement

(a) Whenever any husband shall fail or refuse to maintain his wife, minor children, or both, although able to do so, or whenever any father shall fail or refuse to maintain his children by a marriage since dissolved, although able to do so, the court, upon proper application, may decree, pendente lite and permanently, that he shall pay reasonable sums periodically for the support of such wife and children, or such children, as the case may be, and the court may decree that he pay suit money, including counsel fees, pendente lite and permanently, to enable plaintiff to conduct the case.

(b) Whenever a former huband has obtained a foreign ex parte divorce, the court thereafter, on application of the former wife and with personal service of process upon the former husband in the District of Columbia, may decree that he shall pay her reasonable sums periodically for her maintenance and for suit money, including counsel fees, pendente lite and permanently, to enable plaintiff to conduct the case.

(c) Whenever any father or mother shall fail to maintain his or her minor child or children, the court may decree that he or she shall pay reasonable sums periodically for the support and maintenance of his or her child or children, and the court may decree that the father or mother pay court costs, including counsel fees, to enable plaintiff to conduct the cases.

(d) The court may enforce any decree entered under this section in the same manner as is provided in section 16–911. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 562, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; Sept. 29, 1965, 79 Stat. 889, Pub. L. 89–217, § 3; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 145(e)(2)(A), 84 Stat. 557.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 145(e)(2)(A) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358 amended section

(i) by redesignating subsection (c) as subsection (d) and by adding after subsection (b) a new subsection (c) to read as above set out, and

(ii) by amending the section heading to read as above set out.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENTS

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Abuse of discretion

The award of counsel fees to wife, in her suit for separate maintenance and support, was not a clear abuse of discretion, notwithstanding that wife had left her husband and marital abode without just cause, which was bar to her claim for separate maintenance and support. E. T. Lee v. N. E. Lee (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 824).

Attorney fees

In a case where divorced wife had to sue to compel husband to pay child support due, an award of attorney fee was proper under this section giving court such power when father fails or refuses to maintain his children, notwithstanding that husband may have based refusal on goodfaith misinterpretation of separation agreement. W. N. McGehee, Jr. v. F. T. Maxfield (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 576).

Default judgment

In case in which defendant putative father failed to plead or otherwise defend, although properly served with process, in action by mother for support and maintenance of minor child, mother, upon filing of affidavit in support, was entitled to entry of default, and ex parte proof of defendant's paternity was not required. E. V. Taylor v. B. A. Johnson, Jr. (D.C. App. 1970, 262 A. 2d 803).

Judgment of specific performance of support agreement

Trial court could not commit husband for his contemptuous failure to comply with order for specific performance of agreement to pay wife $200 monthly for her support though husband was able to make such payments but deliberately refused to carry out his agreement and money judgments against him could not be collected by ordinary process. C. M. O'Mara v. R. M. O'Mara (D.C. App. 1968, 238 A. 2d 586).

Mortgage payments as maintenance

Mortgage payments which the court ordered husband to make on the marital abode in which wife still lives may constitute maintenance for the wife and the husband may be imprisoned for failure to make such payments. H. E. Smith v. L. C. Smith (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 833).

Separate maintenance

In this case the court held that when the wife left her husband and marital abode without just cause, such desertion bars her claim for separate maintenance and support. E. T. Lee v. N. E. Lee (D.C. App. 1970, 267 A. 2d 824).

§ 16–918. Appointment of counsel; compensation

(a) In all uncontested divorce cases, and in any other divorce or annulment case where the court deems it necessary or proper, a disinterested attorney shall be appointed by the court to enter his appearance for the defendant and actively defend the cause.

(b) In any proceeding wherein the custody of a child is in question, the court may appoint a disinterested attorney to appear on behalf of the child and represent his best interests.

(c) An attorney appointed under this section may receive such compensation for his services as the court determines to be proper, which the court may direct to be paid by the parties. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 562, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 145(e)(3)(A), title I, 84 Stat. 557.)

AMENDMENT

1970—Section 145(e)(3)(A) of Act July 29, 1970, Public Law 91–358, amended section including the heading to read as above set out. For provisions of this section prior to this amendment, see 1967 edition of the code, and supplement III, thereto.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Indigents

Indigents bringing divorce suits in forma pauperis are not required to pay the $100 minimum attorneys' fees. H. Harris v. G. H. Harris (1970, 424 F. 2d 806, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 318).

AMENDMENT

1970—This chapter was added by section 131(a) of Pub. L. 91–358.

CHAPTER REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This chapter is referred to in section 11–1101.

§ 16–1001. Definitions

For purposes of this chapter:

(1) The term "intrafamily offense" means an act, punishable as a criminal offense, committed—

(A) by one spouse against the other;

(B) by a parent, guardian, or other legal custodian against a child; or

(C) by one person against another person with whom he shares a mutual residence and is in a close relationship rendering the application of this chapter appropriate.

(2) The terms "complainant" and "family member" include any individual in the relationship described in paragraph (1).

(3) The term "Family Division" means the Family Division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

(4) The term "Director of Social Services" means the Director of Social Services in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. (Added, July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 131(a), title I, 84 Stat. 546.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 16–1002. Complaint of criminal conduct; referrals to Family Division

(a) If, upon the complaint of any person of criminal conduct by another or the arrest of a person charged with criminal conduct, it appears to the United States Attorney for the District of Columbia (hereafter in this chapter referred to as the "United States attorney") that the conduct involves an intrafamily offense, he shall notify the Director of Social Services. The Director of Social Services may investigate the matter and make such recommendations to the United States attorney as the Director deems appropriate.

(b) The United States attorney may also (1) file a criminal charge based upon the conduct and may consult with the Director of Social Services concerning appropriate recommendations for conditions of release taking into account the intrafamily nature of the offense; or (2) refer the matter to the Corporation Counsel for the filing of a petition for civil protection in the Family Division. Prior to any such referral, the United States attorney shall consult with the Director of Social Services concerning the appropriateness of the referral. A referral to the Corporation Counsel by the United States attorney shall not preclude the United States attorney from subsequently filing a criminal charge based upon the conduct, if he deems it appropriate, but no criminal charge may be filed after the Family Division begins receiving evidence pursuant to section 16–1005. (Added, July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 131(a), title I, 84 Stat. 546.)

§ 16–1003. Petition for civil protection

(a) Upon referral by the United States attorney, or upon application of any person or agency for a civil protection order with respect to an intrafamily offense committed or threatened, the Corporation Counsel may file a petition for civil protection in the Family Division.

(b) In any matter referred to the Corporation Counsel by the United States attorney in which the Corporation Counsel does not file a petition, he shall so notify the United States attorney. (Added, July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 131(a), title I, 84 Stat. 546.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 16–1004. Petition; notice; temporary order

(a) Upon a filing of a petition for civil protection by the Corporation Counsel, the Family Division shall set the matter for hearing, consolidating it, where appropriate, with other matters before the Family Division involving members of the same family.

(b) The Family Division shall cause notice of the hearing to be served on the respondent, the complainant and, if appropriate, the family member endangered (or, if a child, the person then having physical custody of the child), the Director of Social Services, and the Corporation Counsel. The respondent shall be served with a copy of the petition together with the notice and shall be directed to appear at the hearing. The Family Division may also cause notice to be served on other members of the family whose presence at the hearing is necessary to the proper disposition of the matter.

(c) If, upon the filing of the petition, the Division finds that the safety or welfare of a family member is immediately endangered by the respondent, it may, ex parte, issue a temporary protection order of not more than ten days duration and direct that the order be served along with the notice required by this section. (Added, July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 131(a), title I, 84 Stat. 547.)

§ 16–1005. Hearing; evidence; protection order

(a) Members of the family receiving notice shall appear at the hearing. In addition to the parties, the Corporation Counsel and the Director of Social Services may present evidence at the hearing.

(b) Notwithstanding section 14–306, in a hearing under this section, one spouse shall be a competent and compellable witness against the other and may testify as to confidential communications, but testimony compelled over a claim of a privilege conferred by such section shall be inadmissible in evidence in a criminal trial over the objection of a spouse entitled to claim that privilege.

(c) If, after hearing, the Family Division finds that there is good cause to believe the respondent has committed or is threatening an intrafamily offense, it may issue a protection order—

(1) directing the respondent to refrain from the conduct committed or threatened and to keep the peace toward the family member;

(2) requiring the respondent, alone or in conjunction with any other member of the family before the court, to participate in psychiatric or medical treatment or appropriate counseling programs;

(3) directing, where appropriate, that the respondent avoid the presence of the family member endangered;

(4) directing the respondent to perform or refrain from other actions as may be appropriate to the effective resolution of the matter; or

(5) combining two or more of the directions or requirements prescribed by the preceding paragraphs.

(d) A protection order issued pursuant to this section shall be effective for such period up to one year as the Family Division may specify, but the Family Division may, upon motion of any party to the original proceeding, extend, rescind, or modify the order for good cause shown.

(e) Any final order issued pursuant to this section and any order granting or denying extension, modification, or rescission of such order shall be appealable.

The persons so certified shall be thereupon summoned by the United States marshal for the District of Columbia to appear in the court on the day specially fixed for the trial of the cause. Before selecting or impaneling the jury, the court may cause a second, third, or other further list of prospective jurors to be drawn, certified and summoned in like manner. From the persons so certified and summoned, the court, after examination on oath and in open court as to their qualifications, shall select and impanel a jury of five capable and disinterested persons who have the qualifications of jurors as prescribed by law for the courts of the District of Columbia, and in addition thereto are not in the service or employment of the United States or of the District of Columbia. (Added, July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 145(f)(13), title I, 84 Stat. 559.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section (formerly 11–735, see also tables) is referred to in sections 15–318, 16–1502.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Counterclaims

When a claim for rent in arrears is added to a complaint for possession, the tenant will be allowed to assert a counterclaim. W. T. Bell et ano. v. Tsintolas Realty Company (1970, 430 F. 2d 474,—U.S. App. D.C.—).

Deposits in Court

Although the court may, in exercise of its equitable jurisdiction, order that future rent be paid into registry of the court as it becomes due during pendency of litigations, such prepayment is not favored and should be ordered only when tenant has either asked for jury trial or asserted a defense based on violations of the housing code, and only upon motion of the landlord and after notice and opportunity for oral argument by both parties. W. T. Bell et ano. v. Tsintolas Realty Company (1970, 430 F.2d 474, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Protective purpose of requiring a tenant who has asked for jury trial or asserted defense based on violations of housing code to landlord's complaint for possession to prepay rent will be served by requiring only future payments falling due after date order is issued to be paid into the court registry, and payment of back rent alleged to be due should not be required. Id.

Protective order requiring tenant who asked for jury trial or asserted a defense based on violations of housing code to landlord's complaint for possession to pay future rent payments falling due into court registry may issue only when the landlord has demonstrated an obvious need for such protection, and right to protective order is to be adjudged independently of right to jury trial and right to proceed in forma pauperis. Id.

In making determination of need to protect landlord suing for possession by requiring tenant who has asked for jury trial or asserted defense based on violations of housing code to pay future rental payments into court registry, the court may properly consider the amount of rent alleged to be due, number of months landlord has not received even a partial rental payment, reasonableness of rent for premises, amount of landlord's monthly obligations for the premises, whether tenant has been allowed to proceed in forma pauperis, and whether landlord faces substantial threat of foreclosure. Id.

Need of landlord for protective order requiring tenant who has asked for jury trial or asserted defense based on violations of housing code to landlord's complaint for possession to pay rental payments into registry of court must be compared with the apparent merits of defense based on housing code violations and relevant considerations would be whether housing violations alleged are de minimis or substantial, whether landlord has been notified of existence of defects and, if so, his response to that notice, and the date, if known, of the last repair or renovation relating to the alleged defect. Id.

Although tenant who has asked for jury trial or asserted defense based on violations of housing code to landlord's complaint for possession and who has been ordered to prepay rent into the court registry will ordinarily be called upon to pay the amounts which he originally contracted to pay as rent, trial court may consider imposition of a lesser amount when tenant makes strong showing that condition of dwelling is in violation of housing regulations or that landlord has not acted upon order to repair within reasonable time. Id.

Where tenant has been required to make payments into registry of court pending the disposition of landlord's complaint for possession, after conclusion of litigation trial court may properly find amount of rent in arrears, even when suit is not for back rent, and if landlord is exonerated of all housing code violations fund may be paid to landlord as rental for the litigation period, but the prepayment fund should not be applied directly against unpaid rent even if only de minimis violations existed during period at issue. Id.

If, at the conclusion of proceeding on landlord's complaint for possession, it is determined that housing code violations have nullified obligation of tenant to pay any rent for period at issue, and tenant has been ordered to make prepayment of rent during pendency of litigation, tenant may recover fund on the assumption that, absent convincing proof from the landlord, housing code violations sufficient to nullify obligation to pay rent have continued. Id.

If the trial of landlord's complaint for possession results in determination that portion of rent prepaid by tenant during pendency of litigation is owing landlord, that same proportion may be applied in dividing funds between landlord and tenant. Id.

If, at conclusion of trial on landlord's complaint for possession, either party seeks to show, for purpose of disposition of escrow fund created by tenant's prepayment of rent during litigation period, that condition of the premises changed during litigation period, either party should be permitted to amend complaint or answer to alleged change in condition, and finder of facts should make separate finding as to condition of premises at time at which amendment was filed. Id.

If tenant who has been required to prepay rent during litigation on landlord's complaint for possession abandons the premises before case goes to trial, money paid into court by tenant should be returned to the tenant unless landlord promptly goes to court to seek money judgment for rent actually due during period rent was being paid into court. Id.

Even if a default judgment is entered in landlord's suit for possession where tenant has paid future rent into court, judgment is not res judicata for the amount of rent actually due during period rent was paid into court. Id.

Grounds for eviction

It was the intent of Congress, which directed enactment of District of Columbia housing code, that, while landlord might evict for any legal reason or for no reason at all, he was not free to evict tenant in retaliation for tenant's report of housing code violations to the authorities. Y. C. Edwards v. N. Habib (1968, 397 F. 2d 687, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 126, cert. denied 89, S. Ct. 618, 393 U.S. 1016, 21 L. Ed. 2d 560).

Pleading

Once a suit for possession is final, a claim for rent may not be subsequently added. W. T. Bell et ano. v. Tsintolas Realty Company (1970, 430 F. 2d 474, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Preliminary injunction

In this case where numerous other remedies were available to landlord, grant of preliminary injunction was improper prohibiting tenants, who claimed that buildings were in violation of housing code, from paying rent to third party and which directed rentals deposited to be paid into court for delivery to landlord even though landlord was in financial difficulty, was in default on trust payments, and was without other available funds. R. Dorfmann et al., etc. v. R. B. Boozer et al. (1969, 414 F. 2d 1168, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 272).

§ 16–1502. Service of summons

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section (formerly 11–736) is referred to in section 15–318.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Motion to vacate default judgment

In a case where a complaint for possession of premises did not allege the type of tenancy, total rent due and owing or period during which rent was in default, and there was no showing that a notice to quit had been served upon the defendant and defendant testified that she never saw complaint and filed a motion to vacate default judgment 17 days after answer had been due and that she was common-law wife of defendant and had been living in premises for number of years, default judgment would be vacated. M. Bevins v. B. F. Lewis (D.C. App. 1969, 254 A. 2d. 404).

Personal service

Although the summons in a suit for possession may, as a last resort, be served by posting, the tenant who is sued for rent in arrears must be served personally. W. T. Bell et ano. v. Tsintolas Realty Company (1970, 430 F. 2d 474 —— U.S. App. D.C. ——).

§ 16–1503. Judgment and execution for possession

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section (formerly 11–737) is referred to in section 15–318.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Preliminary injunction

In this case where numerous other remedies were available to landlord, grant of preliminary injunction was improper prohibiting tenants, who claimed that buildings were in violation of housing code, from paying rent to third party and which directed rentals deposited to be paid into court for delivery to landlord even though landlord was in financial difficulty, was in default on trust payments, and was without other available funds. R. Dorfmann, et al., etc. v. R. B. Boozer et al. (1969, 414 F. 2d 1168, 134 U.S. App. D.C. 272).

§ 16–1504. Repealed. July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 145 (g)(2), title I, 84 Stat. 560

EFFECTIVE DATE OF REPEAL

See note preceding section 11–101.

NOTES TO DECISIONS

Constitutionality

Statute requiring an undertaking with sufficient surety as condition precedent to certification to United States District Court of action for possession of real estate wherein defendant pleads title in himself, or in another under whom he claims, was not unconstitutional on grounds that as applied to particular defendant it required her to post undertaking which she was financially unable to secure, and thus by reason of her indigency or lack of funds she was deprived of only defense against claim for possession. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 122).

Construction

This section, providing for certification of possessory action to district court when defendant pleads title, contemplates a single, expeditious trial in which determination of who has "title" will underlie decision on who should take "possession". T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (1970, 421 F. 2d 1156, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 221).

Implicit in statute dealing with summary action for possession of realty is right of successful plaintiff to obtain recovery of mesne profits as adjunct to proceeding for determining title and possession. T. J. Scheve et ano. v. L. H. Hollins et al. (1968, 403 F. 2d 566, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 160).

Mootness

Even though property involved in possessory action and to which defendant pleaded title was owned by person not a party who acquired title on foreclosure of second deed of trust after commencement of possessory action, case was not moot since judgment awarding possession to plaintiff might affect defendant's liability for rent during period of her occupancy and plaintiff's liability for rents collected thereafter. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (1970, 421 F. 2d 1156, 137 U.S. App. DC 221).

Even though title to property involved in possessory action was acquired after commencement of the suit by a person who was not a party thereto, the case is not moot where serious questions are presented which affect all defendants financially unable to post the "undertaking" required to plead title as a defense to a possessory action. Id.

Purpose of statute

Although statute requiring an undertaking with sufficient surety as condition precedent to certification to United States District Court of action for possession of real estate wherein defendant pleads title in himself, or in another under whom he claims, was designed to permit defendant to file plea of title and have question of title determined by court having jurisdiction to try title to real property, statute was also designed to protect plaintiff in such action if plea of title failed. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (D.C. App. 1968, 245 A. 2d 122).

Recovery of damages

Plaintiffs who brought action in District of Columbia court of general sessions for possession of realty, and defendants claimed title to realty and filed a $1,250 title bond under District of Columbia statute to pay all intervening damages and costs and reasonable intervening rent for premises, and case was certified to United States District Court for District of Columbia for determination of title issue, and defendants remained in possession for about 2 years, and reasonable rent for realty was $140 per month, and district court found title in plaintiffs, were entitled to recover full bond amount of $1,250 and were not limited to nominal damages. T. J. Scheve et ano. v. L. H. Hollins et al. (1968, 403 F. 2d 566, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 160).

Review

Where plaintiff in possessory action chose Court of General Sessions as his forum and trial judge had struck defendant's plea of title, failure of defendant to seek review of district court's dismissal of his suit for reconveyance as moot in light of the General Sessions' judgment did not preclude appeal from decision of District of Columbia Court of Appeals affirming judgment of Court of General Sessions even though decision of district court, had it reached the merits, would have involved same questions which defendant sought to have litigated by pleading title in the possessory suit. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (1970, 421 F. 2d 1156, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 221).

Undertaking

Under this section providing that when defendant in possessory action pleads title to premises and enters into undertaking to pay all intervening damages and reasonable rent the proceedings shall be certified to district court, the "undertaking" need not be in the form of a lump-sum bond if defendant is unable to provide it and may be an agreement for payment in escrow of amount that will assure plaintiff if he wins he will at least receive reasonable intervening rent. T. G. Thompson v. S. Mazo (1970, 421 F. 2d 1156, 137 U.S. App. D.C. 221).

Under this section providing for certification of all possessory action to district court when defendant pleads title to premises and enters into an undertaking, factors to be considered in determining proper amount of payments in escrow for the undertaking are a reasonable rental for the premises, the defendant's income, and amount of payments which are presently being made to other mortgagees, with purpose of arriving at payments which will impose fair obligation on defendant, permit case to be heard on merits, and assure plaintiff that if he wins he will receive reasonable intervening rent. Id.

Under this section providing for certification of possessory action to district court when defendant pleads title to premises and enters into undertaking with sufficient surety, to protect plaintiff's interests, the court may exercise its discretion over the "sufficient surety" by requiring defendant to stipulate that he will confess to judgment in possessory action should be default without good cause. Id.

§ 16–1505. Conclusiveness of judgment

A judgment of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in a proceeding pursuant to this chapter is not a bar to any afteraction brought by either party, and does not conclude any question of title between them, where title is not pleaded by the defendants. (Dec. 23, 1963, 77 Stat. 582, Pub. L. 88–241, § 1, eff. Jan. 1, 1964; July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, title I, § 145(g)(1), 84 Stat. 560.)

(D) who has been placed for care or adoption in violation of law.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 11–721, 11–1101.

§ 16–2302. Transfer of criminal matters to Family Division

(a) If it appears to a court, during the pendency of a criminal charge and before the time when jeopardy would attach in the case of an adult, that a minor defendant was a child at the time of an alleged offense, the court shall forthwith transfer the charge against the defendant, together with all papers and documents connected therewith, to the Division. All action taken by the court prior to transfer of the case shall be deemed null and void unless the Division transfers the child for criminal prosecution under section 16–2307.

(b) If at the time of an alleged offense, a minor defendant was a child but this fact is not discovered by the court until after jeopardy has attached, the court shall proceed to verdict. If judgment has not been entered, the court shall determine on the basis of the criteria in section 16–2307(e) whether to enter judgment or to refer the case to the Division for disposition. If judgment has been entered, it shall not be set aside on the ground of the defendant's age unless the court, after hearing, determines that (1) neither the defendant nor his counsel, prior to the entry of judgment, had reason to believe that defendant was under the age of eighteen years, and (2) the defendant would not have been transferred for criminal prosecution if his age had been known and the procedure set forth in section 16–2307 had been followed. If the judgment is set aside, the case shall be referred to the Division for disposition. The disposition and all prior proceedings in any court of any case referred to the Division for disposition pursuant to this section shall be subject to the confidentiality provisions of sections 16–2330 through 16–2335.

(c) The court making a transfer shall order the minor to be taken forthwith to the Division or to a place of detention designated for children by the Division. The Division shall than proceed as provided in this subchapter.

(d) Nothing in this section shall affect the jurisdiction of a court over a person twenty-one years of age or older. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 525.)

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also §§ 11–1551, 11–1552, and 11–1586 in 1967 Edition]

Adequacy of petition

The petition in this case which alleged briefly the facts which brought the juvenile within jurisdiction of the juvenile court, and notified him of the place, time and date of alleged unlawful conduct, the nature of the violation, the names of the alleged co-perpetrators of the assault and the name of the victim, and the name of intake officer who investigated the case, was adequate to apprise the juvenile of the nature and substance of proceeding against him and the juvenile was not prejudiced by any slight disparity between the allegations that he had assaulted victim with dangerous weapon and robbed victim and the proof which established that he had assaulted another who was with the victim. In the Matter of J. E. Coward (D.C. App. 1969, 254 A. 2d 730; remanded 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Administrative action

Mere fact that proof tended to reveal at a suspension hearing before permit control officer of District of Columbia Department of Motor Vehicles that 17-year-old driver, whose license was suspended, was driving while under influence of alcohol did not thereby convert the proceedings, administrative in character, into a judicial proceeding of the kind Congress assigned exclusively to juvenile court. K. P. Murphy, a minor etc. v. W. D. Heath, Director, etc. (D.C. App. 1969, 256 A. 2d 421).

The court held that the exclusive jurisdiction in judicial proceedings conferred by Juvenile Court Act on the juvenile court is not a jurisdictional bar to the administrative action of suspending motor vehicle operator's permit of 17-year-old driver. Id.

Beyond control

Court deemed it inappropriate to construe "beyond control" section of Juvenile Court Act until it was certain that section was the only basis upon which juvenile court acted. In the Matter of J. G. Elmore (1967, 382 F. 2d 125, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 176).

Congressional objective

Congressional objective in passing Juvenile Court Act providing that when child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents, comprehends psychiatric care in appropriate cases. E. Creek Jr. v. W. J. Stone (1967, 379 F. 2d 106, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 329).

Construction

Juvenile court legislation rests, in various aspects, on premise that state is acting as parens patriae, that it is undertaking in effect to provide for child the kind of environment he should have been receiving at home, and that it is because of this that appropriate officials, while subject to requirement that juvenile proceedings must not be arbitrary or unfair, are permitted to take and retain custody of child without affording him all various procedural rights available to adults suspected of crime. In E. Creek Jr. v. W. J. Stone (1967, 379 F. 2d 106, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 329).

Due process

Due process of law requires, as the Supreme Court has said that juveniles be given "notice which would be deemed constitutionally adequate in a civil or criminal proceeding." In the Matter of J. E. Coward (D.C. App. 1969, 254 A. 2d 730; remanded 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

The court held, that the juvenile must be made aware of the nature of the allegations to be considered at the hearing to determine whether he is within jurisdiction of juvenile court, and the factual circumstances giving rise to such allegations, and the notice must be sufficiently explicit to enable the juvenile to defend intelligently. Id.

In proceeding against juvenile for violation of law, ordinance or regulation, constitutional concept of due process must be observed. In the Matter of K. L. Wylie (D.C. App. 1967, 231 A. 2d 81).

Guilt beyond reasonable doubt

In this case the court held that, in a proceeding in juvenile court a charge that juvenile had committed a criminal act alleged could not be proven by preponderance of evidence; the correct standard was that of proof beyond reasonable doubt. In the Matter of N. M. Ellis et al. (1970, 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —, remanding 253 A. 2d 789 and 254 A. 2d 730).

Proof of guilt beyond reasonable doubt is unnecessary and improper in juvenile court proceeding. In the Matter of K. L. Wylie (D.C. App. 1967, 231 A. 2d 81).

Jurisdiction—Extent of Juvenile court has original and exclusive jurisdiction in all cases concerning child who has violated law of District of Columbia. In the Matter of N. M. Ellis (D.C. App. 1969, 253 A. 2d 789; remanded 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Jurisdiction to punish for contempt

In a case where temporary restraining orders issued by district court dealing with conditions of unrest on college campuses purported to apply to students and nonstudents, adults or juveniles without exception, sections 11–1551, 11–1552 and 11–1581 did not deprive district court of power to punish juvenile offenders for contempt of its restraining orders. In the Matter of A. Williams, Jr. and M. M. Coates (1969, 306 F. Supp. 617).

Petition—Sufficiency of Petition in juvenile court which alleged that accused struck victim in eye, then grabbed him and asked him for his money, was subject to interpretation that charge against alleged delinquent was robbery, or attempted robbery, or assault, or all three and was too vague and indefinite to apprise juvenile of charges against him. In the Matter of K. L. Wylie (D.C. App. 1967, 231 A. 2d 81).

Remand to juvenile court after conviction

Conviction of minor remanded with instructions that District Court remand to Juvenile Court for hearing de novo and determination on waiver issue, consistent with standards set forth by Supreme Court; should decision of Juvenile Court be against waiver, indictment should be dismissed, but should waiver be found appropriate, District Court should follow prescribed procedure for trial of minor defendant. J. J. Watkins v. United States (1966, 373 F. 2d 681, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 21).

Conviction of minor remanded with instructions that District Court remand to Juvenile Court for hearing de novo and determination on waiver issue, consistent with standards set forth by Supreme Court; should decision of Juvenile Court be against waiver, indictment should be dismissed, but should waiver be found appropriate, District Court should follow prescribed procedure for trial of minor defendant. J. L. Watkins v. United States (1966, 373 F. 2d 681, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 21, see also 119 U.S. App. D.C. 409).

Rulings to be applied prospectively

Ruling that juvenile charged with offense is entitled to notice of specific issues, specific instructions on such issues, and disapproval of use of verdict of "involved" applies prospectively only. In the Matter of K. L. Wylie (D.C. App. 1967, 231 A. 2d 81).

Special interrogatories

If use of verdict of guilty or not guilty is inadvisable, juvenile court may use special interrogatories in cases involving offenses by juveniles. In the Matter of K. L. Wylie (D.C. App. 1967, 231 A. 2d 81).

Sufficiency of allegation

Allegation that a juvenile committed a crime is included in petitions such as the one in the instant case that a minor was within jurisdiction of juvenile court by way of alleging required jurisdictional condition and government is required to prove its allegations only by a preponderance of the evidence. In the Matter of J. E. Coward (D.C. App. 1969, 254 A. 2d 730; remanded 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

The precision required in criminal indictments and conformity of the evidence thereto, is inappropriate in juvenile actions, which are in the nature of civil commitment proceedings. Id.

Sufficiency of record

The record amply supports the finding that the minor, who was held to be within jurisdiction of the juvenile court, actively participated in assault on occupants of automobile. In the Matter of J. E. Coward (D.C. App. 1969. 254 A. 2d 730; remanded 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

§ 16–2303. Retention of jurisdiction

For purposes of this subchapter, jurisdiction obtained by the Division in the case of a child shall be retained by it until the child becomes twenty-one years of age, unless jurisdiction is terminated before that time. This section does not affect the jurisdiction of other divisions of the Superior Court or of other courts over offenses committed by a person after he ceases to be a child. If a minor already under the jurisdiction of the Division is convicted in the Criminal Division or another court of a crime committed after he ceases to be a child, the Family Division may, in appropriate cases, terminate its jurisdiction. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 525.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 16–2304. Right to counsel

(a) A child alleged to be delinquent or in need of supervision is entitled to be represented by counsel at all critical stages of Division proceedings, including the time of admission or denial of allegations in the petition and all subsequent stages. If the child and his parent, guardian, or custodian are financially unable to obtain adequate representation, the child shall be entitled to have counsel appointed for him in accordance with rules established by the Superior Court. In its discretion, the Division may appoint counsel for the child over the objection of the child, his parent, guardian, or other custodian.

(b) When a child is alleged to be neglected, the parent, guardian, or custodian of the child named in the petition is entitled to be represented by counsel at all critical stages of the Division proceedings and, if financially unable to obtain adequate representation, to have counsel appointed in accordance with rules established by the Superior Court. The Division shall, where appropriate, appoint separate counsel to represent the child, as provided in section 16–918. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 526.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 16–2306, 16–2308, 16–2311, 16–2312.

§ 16–2305. Petition; contents; amendment

(a) Complaints alleging delinquency, need of supervision, or neglect shall be referred to the Director of Social Services who shall conduct a preliminary inquiry to determine whether the best interests of the child or the public require that a petition be filed. If judicial action appears warranted, under intake criteria established by rule of the Superior Court, the Director shall recommend that a petition be filed. If the Director decides not to recommend the filing of a petition, the complainant in a delinquency or neglect case shall have a right to have that decision reviewed by the Corporation Counsel, and the Director shall notify the complainant of such right of review.

(b) Petitions initiating judicial action may be signed by any person who has knowledge of the facts alleged or, being informed of them, believes they are true, except that petitions alleging need of supervision may only be signed by the Director of Social Services, a representative of a public agency or a nongovernmental agency licensed and authorized to care for children, a representative of a public or private agency providing social service for families, a school official, or a law enforcement officer. Petitions shall be verified and verification may be upon information or belief.

(c) Each petition shall be prepared by the Corporation Counsel after an inquiry into the facts and a determination of the legal basis for the petition. If the Director of Social Services has refused to recommend the filing of a delinquency or neglect petition, the Corporation Counsel, on request of the complainant, shall review the facts presented and shall prepare and file a petition if he believes such action is necessary to protect the community or the interests of the child. Any decision of the Corporation Counsel on whether to file a petition shall be final.

(d) A petition shall be filed by the Corporation Counsel within seven days (excluding Sundays and legal holidays) after the complaint has been referred to the Director of Social Services, except as otherwise provided in section 16–2312. A petition shall set forth plainly and concisely the facts which give the Division jurisdiction of the child under section 11–1101(13). In delinquency cases the petition shall also state the specific statute or ordinance on which the charge is based. If delinquency or need of supervision is alleged, a statement shall be included in the petition that the child appears to be in need of care or rehabilitation. The petition shall contain such other facts and information as may be required by rules of the Superior Court.

(e) A petition may be amended by leave of the Division on motion of the Corporation Counsel or counsel for the child, at any time prior to the conclusion of the factfinding hearing. The Division shall grant the Corporation Counsel, the child, and his parent, guardian, or custodian notice of the amendment and, where necessary, additional time to prepare.

(f) The District of Columbia shall be a party to all proceedings under this subchapter. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 526.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 16–2334.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also § 16–2302 and other sections in title 16, chapter 23 in 1967 edition]

Adequacy of petition

The petition in this case which alleged briefly the facts which brought the juvenile within jurisdiction of the juvenile court, and notified him of the place, time and date of alleged unlawful conduct, the nature of the violation, the names of the alleged co-perpetrators of the assault and the name of the victim, and the name of intake officer who investigated the case, was adequate to apprise the juvenile of the nature and substance of proceedings against him and the juvenile was not prejudiced by any slight disparity between the allegations that he had assaulted victim with dangerous weapon and robbed victim and the proof which established that he had assaulted another who was with the victim. In the Matter of J. E. Coward (D.C. App. 1969, 254 A. 2d 730; remanded 429 F. 2d 214, — U.S. App. D.C. —).

Construction

In this case, the court concluded that the Youth Division Officer, who has not participated in arrest of juvenile, has gathered "personal knowledge" of circumstances which make up the "case" concerning the juvenile while performing his functions, and he may verify petition to bring juvenile within jurisdiction of juvenile court. In re M. C. Taylor (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 522).

Custody, care and discipline

Under provisions of Juvenile Court Act that when child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents, when removal from family is deemed necessary juvenile is not automatically to be committed to the receiving home; the juvenile court has duty to fashion appropriate disposition notwithstanding any failure by juvenile's representatives to make specific proposals. W. R. Fulwood v. W. Stone (1967, 394 F. 2d 939, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

Under provisions of Juvenile Court Act that when a child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents, commitment to receiving home should be only a last resort where no suitable alternative exists. Id.

Opportunity to defend

Should jurisdiction be found to rest on the three alternative statutory sections, questions of fair notice and opportunity to defend would be presented. In the Matter of J. G. Elmore (1967, 382 F. 2d 125, 127 U.S. App. D.C. 176).

Substitute for bail

Provisions of Juvenile Court Act directing disposition of juveniles coming under jurisdiction of juvenile court are adequate substitute for bail. W. R. Fulwood v. W. Stone (1967, 394 F. 2d 939, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

§ 16–2306. Service of summons and petition

(a) When a petition is filed, the Division shall set a time for initial appearance and shall direct the issuance of summonses. If delinquency or need of supervision is alleged, a summons, together with a copy of the petition, shall be served upon the child and upon his spouse (if any) and his parent, guardian, or other custodian. If neglect is alleged, the summons, together with a copy of the petition, shall be served on the parent, guardian, or other custodian of the child named in the petition. Where appropriate to the proper disposition of the case, the Division may direct service of summonses upon other persons. A summons issued pursuant to this section shall advise the parties of the right to counsel as provided in section 16–2304.

(b) Upon request of the Corporation Counsel, the Division may endorse upon the summons an order directing the parent, guardian, or other custodian of the child to appear personally at the hearing and directing the person having physical custody or control of the child to bring the child to the hearing.

(c) If it appears, from information presented to the Division, that there are grounds to take the child into custody as provided in section 16–2309, or that the child may leave or be removed from the jurisdiction of the Superior Court or will not be brought to the hearing, notwithstanding service of the summons, the Division may endorse upon the summons an order that the officer serving the summons shall at once take the child into custody. If the child is taken into custody under this section, the provisions of sections 16–2309 to 16–2312 shall apply. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 527.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 16–2307, 16–2309, 16–2326.

§ 16–2307. Transfer for criminal prosecution

(a) Within seven days (excluding Sundays and legal holidays) of the filing of a delinquency petition, or later for good cause shown, and prior to a factfinding hearing on the petition, the Corporation Counsel, following consultation with the Director of Social Services, may file a motion, supported by a statement of facts, requesting transfer of the child for criminal prosecution, if—

(1) the child was fifteen or more years of age at the time of the conduct charged, and is alleged to have committed an act which would constitute a felony if committed by an adult;

(2) the child is sixteen or more years of age and is already under commitment to an agency or institution as a delinquent child; or

(3) a minor eighteen years of age or older is alleged to have committed a delinquent act prior to having become eighteen years of age.

(b) Following the filing of the motion by the Corporation Counsel, summonses shall be issued and served in conformity with the provisions of section 16–2306.

(c) When there are grounds to believe the child is substantially retarded or mentally ill, the Division shall stay the proceedings for the purpose of obtaining an examination. After examination, the Division shall proceed to a determination under subsection (d) unless it determines that the child is incompetent to participate in the proceedings, in which event it shall order the child committed to a mental hospital pursuant to section 16–2315 or section 927 of the Act of March 3, 1901 (D.C. Code, sec. 24–301(a)).

(d) Unless a commitment under subsection (c) of this section has intervened, the Divison shall conduct a hearing on each transfer motion to determine if there are reasonable prospects for rehabilitating the child before his majority. Such hearing shall be held within ten days (excluding Sundays and legal holidays) of the filing of the transfer motion. In any such hearing, the child who is the subject of the hearing shall not be required to establish that there are reasonable prospects for his rehabilitation prior to his majority. Unless the Division determines that there are reasonable prospects for rehabilitating the child before his majority, it shall order the transfer of the child for criminal prosecution and notify the United States attorney of such order. Accompanying the order of transfer shall be a statement of the reasons of the Division for ordering the transfer of the child. Included in the statement shall be the Division's findings with respect to each of the factors set forth in subsection (e) relating to the prospects for the rehabilitation of the child. This statement shall be available upon request to any court in which the transfer is challenged, but shall not be available to the trier of fact of the criminal charge prior to verdict.

(e) Evidence of the following factors shall be considered in determining whether they are reasonable prospects for rehabilitating a child prior to his majority:

(1) the child's age;

(2) the nature of the present offense and the extent and nature of the child's prior delinquency record;

(3) the child's mental condition;

(4) the nature of past treatment efforts and the nature of the child's response to past treatment efforts; and

(5) the techniques, facilities, and personnel for rehabilitation available to the Division and to the court that would have jurisdiction after transfer.

The rules of evidence at transfer hearings shall be the same as those that govern dispositional proceedings in delinquency cases, as set forth in section 16–2317. At a transfer hearing, only the propriety of eventual Division disposition shall be considered, and evidence bearing on probable cause or the likelihood that the child committed the act alleged shall not be admitted.

(f) Prior to a transfer hearing, a study and report, in writing, relevant to the factors in subsection (e), shall be made by the Director of Social Services. This report and all social records that are to be made available to the judge at the transfer hearing shall be made available to counsel for the child and to the Corporation Counsel at least three days prior to the hearing.

(g) A judge who conducts a hearing pursuant to this section shall not, over the objection of the child whose prospects for rehabilitation were at issue, participate in any subsequent factfinding proceedings relating to the offense.

(h) Transfer of a child for criminal prosecution terminates the jurisdiction of the Division over the child with respect to any subsequent delinquent act; except that jurisdiction of the Division over the child is restored if (1) the criminal prosecution is terminated other than by a plea of guilty, a verdict of guilty, or a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity, and (2) at the time of the termination of the criminal prosecution no indictment or information has been filed for criminal prosecution for an offense alleged to have been committed by the child subsequent to transfer. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 527.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in sections 16–2302, 16–2313, 16–2315, 16–2316, 16–2327, 16–2332, 16–2333.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

[See also §11–1553 in 1967 Edition]

Attorney's duties and functions

Child's lawyer should search for plan or range of plans which may persuade court that welfare of child and safety of community can be served without waiver, D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

Counsel desiring not to demand waiver hearing in juvenile court after consultation with client should indicate the consultation by letter to court. Id.

Construction

Theory of District of Columbia Juvenile Court Act is rooted in social welfare philosophy rather than the corpus juris. M. A. Kent, Jr. v. United States (1968, 401 F. 2d 408, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 343).

District of Columbia Juvenile Court is theoretically engaged in determining needs of child and of society rather than adjudicating criminal conduct, and its objectives are to provide measures of guidance and rehabilitation for the child and protection for society, not to fix criminal responsibility, guilt and punishment. Id.

Presumption of statutory framework is that juveniles are to be treated as juveniles and full investigation is required before waiver to adult court. All possible dispositions short of waiver must be explored by which welfare of child and best interests of district may be secured. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

Court's discretion

Juvenile court has a substantial degree of discretion in determining whether to retain jurisdiction over a child, however such discretion must be exercised in accordance with the spirit of the District of Columbia Juvenile Court Act. M. A. Kent, Jr. v. United States (1968, 401 F. 2d 408, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 343).

Court's duty

Court in a waiver proceedings from juvenile court to district court has duty to utilize its facilities, personnel and expertise for proper determination of waiver issue. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

Juvenile court has the duty to accompany waiver order with a statement of reasons or consideration sufficient to demonstrate full investigation and to show that question has received careful consideration and must set forth basis for order with sufficient specificity to permit meaningful review. Id.

Full investigation

Juvenile court's decision in waiver proceeding that facilities currently available to juvenile court offered no promise of rehabilitation, did not adequately show that required full investigation has been made. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

Juvenile Court's duty on remand

If juvenile court on remand found that juvenile and mother did not participate fully and intelligently in decision not to demand waiver hearing in transfer from juvenile court to district court, it might hold further hearing to determine whether original waiver decision was appropriate. If, however, a hearing would be meaningless at such a late date, juvenile court had to miss indictment. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

A requirement that a fully articulated examination of rehabilitative possibilities be held when waiver is contemplated from juvenile court to district court will be imposed only if juvenile's participation in original proceeding was defective. Id.

Right to waiver hearing

A juvenile's right to a waiver hearing by juvenile court so as to put trial in district court is a critically important right. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

Both juvenile and his mother were entitled to insist that at least a hearing be held in connection with waiver from juvenile court to district court. Id.

Waiver

Where juvenile's counsel waived hearing without consultation with client, in connection with transfer from juvenile court to district court by letter and telephone conversation and decision of court did not show that it made full investigation before ordering waiver, waiver was improper. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404 F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

Only after all rehabilitative possibilities have been canvassed, is it ever proper, to waive jurisdiction to district court from juvenile court. Id.

Waiver of jurisdiction in case of mentally ill person

Waiver provision of Juvenile Court Act is not excluded from the fundamental philosophy of parens patriae which underlies the statute. M. A. Kent, Jr. v. United States (1968, 401 F. 2d 408, 130 U.S. App. D.C. 343).

Social philosophy underlying Juvenile Court Act precluded waiver by juvenile court of juvenile afflicted with serious mental illness, since such waiver was not necessary for protection of society and was not conducive to juvenile's rehabilitation. Id.

Withdrawal of treatment as a juvenile Treatment as a juvenile may be withdrawn pursuant to waiver proceedings only after full investigation. D. V. Haziel v. United States (1968, 404, F. 2d 1275, 131 U.S. App. D.C. 298).

§ 16–2308. Initial appearance

The initial appearance, before a judge assigned to the Division, of a child named in a delinquency or need of supervision petition or of the parent, guardian, or custodian of a child named in a neglect petition shall be at the time set forth in the summons, which shall be not later than five days after the petition has been filed. At the initial appearance, the child and his parent, guardian, or custodian shall be advised of the contents of the petition and of the right to counsel as provided in section 16–2304. At the initial appearance the child, or in neglect cases the parent, guardian, or custodian, may admit or deny the allegations in the petition, but it shall not be necessary at the initial appearance for the Corporation Counsel to establish probable cause to believe that the allegations in the petition are true. At the initial appearance, the judge may set the time for the fact-finding hearing or continue the matter until a later time. Failure to hold the initial appearance at the time specified shall not be grounds for dismissal of the petition. This section shall not apply in any case where, prior to or at the time of the initial appearance, a detention or shelter care hearing is required by section 16–2312. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 529.)

EFFECTIVE DATE OF 1970 AMENDMENT

See note preceding section 11–101.

§ 16–2309. Taking into custody

A child may be taken into custody—

(1) pursuant to order of the Division under section 16–2306 or 16–2311;

(2) by a law enforcement officer when he has reasonable grounds to believe that the child has committed a delinquent act;

(3) by a law enforcement officer when he has reasonable grounds to believe that the child is suffering from illness or injury or is in immediate danger from his surroundings, and that his removal from his surroundings is necessary; or

(4) by a law enforcement officer when he has reasonable grounds to believe that the child has run away from his parent, guardian, or other custodian. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 529.)

SECTION REFERRED TO IN OTHER SECTIONS

This section is referred to in section 16–2306.

NOTES TO DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW

Appropriate detention arrangement

Although receiving home was only place of detention provided by commissioners for those awaiting disposition in Juvenile Court, if a psychiatric condition was seriously endangering health or perhaps life of juvenile, there would be jurisdiction in Juvenile Court to make an appropriate detention arrangement. E. Creek Jr. v. W. J. Stone (1967, 379 F. 2d 106, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 329).

Construction

In this case, the court concluded that the Youth Division Officer, who has not participated in arrest of juvenile, has gathered "personal knowledge" of circumstances which make up the "case" concerning the juvenile while performing his functions, and he may verify petition to bring juvenile within jurisdiction of juvenile court. In re M. C. Taylor (D.C. App. 1970, 268 A. 2d 522).

Provisions of Juvenile Court Act that when child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents are applicable prior to trial of juvenile as well as on final disposition. W. R. Fulwood v. W. Stone (1967, 394 F. 2d 939, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

Custody, care and discipline

Under provisions of Juvenile Court Act that when child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents, when removal from family is deemed necessary juvenile is not automatically to be committeed to the receiving home; the juvenile court has duty to fashion appropriate disposition notwithstanding any failure by juvenile's representatives to make specific proposals. W. R. Fulwood v. W. Stone (1967, 394 F. 2d 939, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

Under provisions of Juvenile Court Act that when a child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents, commitment to receiving home should be only a last resort where no suitable alternative exists. Id.

Pretrial inquiry

Record disclosing that juvenile court judge after announcing that he was going to place juvenile in receiving home pending trial on charges of robbery and assault refused request of juvenile's attorney that juvenile be released on "some sort of bail" did not disclose that appropriate inquiry concerning pretrial custody had been made by juvenile court in order to secure for juvenile the custody, care and discipline as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents. W. R. Fulwood v. W. Stone (1967, 394 F. 2d 939, 129 U.S. App. D.C. 314).

§ 16–2310. Criteria for detaining children

(a) A child shall not be placed in detention prior to a factfinding hearing or a dispositional hearing unless he is alleged to be delinquent or in need of supervision and unless it appears from available information that detention is required—

(1) to protect the person or property of others or of the child, or

(2) to secure the child's presence at the next court hearing.

(b) A child shall not be placed in shelter care prior to a factfinding hearing or a dispositional hearing unless it appears from available information that shelter care is required—

(1) to protect the person of the child, or

(2) because the child has no parent, guardian, custodian, or other person or agency able to provide supervision and care for him, and the child appears unable to care for himself.

(c) The criteria for detention and shelter care provided in this section, as implemented by rules of the Superior Court, shall govern the decisions of all persons responsible for determining whether detention or shelter care is warranted prior to the factfinding hearing. (July 29, 1970, Pub. L. 91–358, § 121(a), title I, 84 Stat. 529.)

Congressional objective

Congressional objective in passing Juvenile Court Act providing that when child is removed from his own family, court shall secure for him custody, care and discipline as nearly possible equivalent to that which should have been given him by his parents, comprehends psychiatric care in appropriate cases. E. Creek Jr. v. W. J. Stone (1967, 379 F. 2d 106, 126 U.S. App. D.C. 329).
